PART VI.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 23.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following Bill was introduced in the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 11th March, 1898:—

No. 2 OF 1898.

A Bill to further amend the Presidency Small Cause Courts Act, 1882.

WHEREAS it is expedient to further amend the Presidency Small Cause Courts Act, 1882; (XV of 1882.) It is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. (1) This Act may be called the Presidency Small Cause Courts Act, 1898; and (Short title and commencement.)

2. To section 4 of the said Act the words 'and the expression "Registrar" includes a Deputy Registrar' shall be added. (Amendment of section 4, Act XV, 1882.)

3. For section 8A of the Presidency Small Cause Courts Act, 1882, (XV of 1882.) as amended by the Presidency Small Cause Courts Act, 1895, (I of 1895.) the following section shall be substituted, namely:— (Substitution of new section for section 8A, Act XV, 1882, as amended by Act I, 1895, s. 4.)

"8A. (1) During any absence of the Chief Judge or any Judge of the said Court, or during the period for which any Judge is acting as Chief Judge, the Local Government may appoint any person, having the qualifications required by section 7, to act as Chief Judge or Judge of the said Court, as the case may be. (Performance of duties of absent Judge.)

(2) Every person so appointed shall be authorized to perform the duties of the Chief Judge or a Judge of the said Court until the return of the absent Chief Judge or Judge, or of the Judge acting as Chief Judge, or until the Local Government sees cause to cancel the appointment of such acting Chief Judge or Judge, as the case may be."

4. In section 9, sub-section (1), of the said Act as so amended, after clause (a) the following clause shall be added, namely:— (Amendment of section 9, Act XV, 1882, as amended by Act I, 1895.)

"(aa) empower the Registrar to hear and dispose of undefended suits and interlocutory applications or matters;".

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

SECTION 8A of the Presidency Small Cause Courts Act, 1882, which was inserted by the amending Act I of 1895, does not admit of the appointment to officiate as Chief Judge of a person who, though otherwise qualified to be Chief Judge, is not already a Judge of the Court. Clause 3 of the Bill proposes to make such an appointment admissible by substituting a differently worded provision.

2. The fourth clause is intended to amplify section 9 of the Act, as amended in 1895, so as to enable the High Court, when making rules thereunder, to empower the Registrar of the Presidency Small Cause Court to hear and dispose of non-contentious causes and interlocutory applications or matters.

3. The opportunity has been taken by clause 2 of the Bill to add a few words to section 4 of the Act in order to make the expression "Registrar" cover a Deputy Registrar.

CEYLON, SOUTH-WEST COAST—Point de Galle approach.

Non-existence of Luna Horowa rock.

The British Admiralty has given notice (No. 55 of 1898) that information has been received from the Master Attendant at Point de Galle, dated 22nd December 1897, that he recently examined the locality in which Luna Horowa rock has hitherto been shown on the Admiralty Charts, viz., bearing S.E. ⅞ S., distant 1⅜ miles, from Unawatti point, and found not less than 10 fathoms in that position.

The fishermen state that the name Horowa rock is applied to a 3-fathom patch, which lies about a cable south-westward of Bellows rock, and on which the sea breaks heavily in the South-west monsoon, and that no other shoal is known in the vicinity.

Luna Horowa rock (P. D.) has consequently been expunged from the Admiralty Charts, and the danger line has been extended one cable south-westward of Bellows rock.

Leading beacons on Pass and Slut islands.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 45 of 1898) that the undermentioned leading beacons have been erected in Hai tan strait, to assist in the navigation of the Narrows:—

1. Two beacons on the north-eastern slope of Pass island, bearing when in line S. 20½° E.

   Approximate position, Pass island, lat. 25° 27¼′ N., long. 119° 39¾′ E.

2. Two beacons on the south-eastern slope of Slut island, bearing when in line N. 8¼° W.

   Each beacon is surmounted by a triangular top-mark, painted white with a vertical, black stripe in the middle; the triangle on the northern beacon is placed base upwards, on the southern base downwards.

   Approximate position, Slut island, lat. 25° 40½′ N., long. 119° 37′ E.

NOTE.—Soundings, obtained in a recent survey, show that vessels proceeding northward should keep the Pass island beacons in line, astern, bearing S. 20½° E., from a position with Quoin hill in line with Tyne Yung shan peak, bearing W. ¾ S., until the southern end of the middle Rocky island is in line with a fort on the west shore, bearing W. by N. ¼ N.; then alter course to the northward to pass about 3 cables eastward of Black rocks. The least water passed over by following these directions will be a depth of 15 feet at lowest springs, situated about 3¼ miles from Pass island.

Proceeding northward, the beacons on Slut island should be brought in line, bearing N. 8¼° W., when Inner rock bears East, and should be kept in line, leading well clear of all known dangers, until Mitre rock bears West.

(3) It shall be the duty of the Chairman, acting with the sanction of the General Committee, to lay out public streets in bustees, so far as may be practicable, both for the purpose of securing proper ventilation for huts in such bustees, and in view to the contingency of masonry buildings being erected therein.

(4) When any plan has been prepared under sub-section (1), the street to which it refers shall be deemed to be a projected public street, and the provisions of section 336 shall apply to all buildings and walls which may fall down, be burnt down, or be taken down in order to be re-built or altered, so far as they stood across the street alignment or building line of the projected street.

Private Streets.

Making of new private streets.

348. (1) Any person intending to make or lay out a new private street must send to the Chairman a written notice containing the following particulars, namely:—

[Cal., s. 21; C. B. C., para. 62.]

(a) the intended level and width of the street,

(b) the street alignment and the building line,

(c) the arrangements to be made for levelling, paving, metalling, flagging, channelling, sewering, draining and lighting the street, and

(2) The provisions of this Act as to the level and width of public streets and the height of buildings abutting thereon shall apply also in the case of streets referred to in sub-section (1), and all the particulars referred to in that sub-section shall be subject to approval by the General Committee.

(3) Within thirty days after the receipt of any notice under sub-section (1), the General Committee shall either sanction the making of the street, or disallow it, or ask for further information with respect to it.

(4) Such sanction may be refused—

(i) if the proposed street would conflict with the arrangements for carrying out any general scheme of street improvement which may be under the consideration of the Corporation,

(ii) if the proposed street does not conform to the provisions of this Act referred to in sub-section (2), or

(iii) if the proposed street is not designed so as to connect at both ends with streets one at least of which is already open.

(5) If further information is asked for, no steps shall be taken to make or lay out the street until orders have been passed upon receipt of such information.

Prohibition of breach of section 348.

349. No person shall lay out, make or build upon any street referred to in section 348, sub-section (1), in contravention of that section or of any orders made thereunder.

(Calcutta Municipality.—Part V.—The Public Health, Safety and Convenience.—Chapter XXI.—Streets and Public Spaces.—Sections 350—352.)

Levelling, etc., of private streets.

350. (1) If any private street or any part thereof be not levelled, paved, metalled, flagged, channelled, sewered, drained and lighted to the satisfaction of the General Committee, they may, by written notice to the respective owners or occupiers of the land fronting, adjoining or abutting upon such street or part, as the case may be, require them to level, pave, metal, flag, channel, sewer, drain and light such street or part. [Cal., s. 215.]

(2) If such notice be not complied with, the General Committee may, if they think fit, direct the Chairman to execute the works mentioned or referred to therein; and the expenses thereby incurred shall be paid by the owners in default, according to the frontage of their respective lands, in such proportion as may be settled by the General Committee or, in case of dispute, as may be settled under section 640.

Power of General Committee to take over private streets

351. (1) If any private street which conforms to the provisions of this Act referred to in section 348, sub-section (2), be levelled, paved, metalled, flagged, channelled, sewered, drained and lighted to the satisfaction of the General Commitee, they may, if they think fit, and if three-fourths of the owners of houses in such street signify in writing their consent thereto, declare the same, by written notice put up in any part of such street, to be a public street, and thereupon the same shall become a public street and shall vest in the corporation. [Cal., s. 126.]

(2) The General Committee may, with the consent of the owner or all the owners thereof, take possession of any private street which conforms to the provisions of this Act referred to in section 348, sub-section (2); and thereupon such street shall become a public street and shall vest in the Corporation.

Powers and duties in reference to the acquisition of land.

Acquisition of open land, or land occupied by platforms, etc., lying across proposed street alignment of public street.

352. If any land, whether open or enclosed, not vested in the Corporation, lies across the proposed street alignment of a public street, and is not occupied by a building, or [Bom., s. 299; C. P. C., para. 59.]

if any platform, verandah or step, or any other structure external to a building abutting on a public street, or any portion of any such platform, verandah, step or other structure, lies across the proposed street alignment of a public street,

the Chairman may, after giving to the owner of the land or building not less than seven clear days' written notice of his intention so to do, take possession on behalf of the Corporation of such land, with its enclosing wall, hedge or fence (if any), or of such structure or portion, as the case may be, and, at his discretion, clear the land; and the land so acquired shall thenceforward be deemed a part of the street:

Provided that, if the land or building is vested in Her Majesty or in any Corporation constituted by Royal Charter or by an Act of Parlia-

(Calcutta Municipality.—Part V.—The Public Health, Safety and Convenience.—Chapter XXI.—Streets and Public Spaces.—Sections 353, 354.)

Compensation to be paid when action taken under section 336 or section 352.

353. When any action is taken under section 336 or section 352, the Corporation shall make full compensation to the owner of the building, wall, structure or land for any direct damage which he may sustain thereby.

[Cal., s. 207; Bom., s. 301; C. B. C., paras. 58, 59.]

Explanation.—The expression "direct damage," as used with reference to land, means the market-value of the land taken and the depreciation, if any, in the ordinary market-value of the rest of the land resulting from the area being reduced in size; but does not include damage due to any particular use to which the owner may allege that he intended to put the land, although such use may be injuriously affected by the reduction of the site.

Acquisition of land and buildings for improvement of public streets.

354. (1) The Chairman, with the approval of the General Committee, may acquire any land required for the purpose of opening, widening, extending or otherwise improving any public street, or of making any new public street, and the buildings, if any, standing upon such land.

[Cal., s. 204.]

(2) The Chairman, with the approval of the Corporation and the sanction of the Local Government, may acquire [in addition to land and buildings acquired under sub-section (1)] any land outside the proposed street alignment, with the buildings, if any, standing thereupon, which the General Committee may, in the exercise of any of the powers conferred by sub-section (1), consider it expedient to acquire:

[C. B. C., para. 131.]

Provided that, whenever it is decided to acquire any land under this sub-section —

(a) the owner of such land may retain it by paying to the Corporation a frontage rate to be fixed by the General Committee in that behalf, or a lump sum to be fixed by the General Committee as representing the capitalised value of such rate, or

(b) the General Committee may make a contract with the owner of the land, conferring on him a right to retain the same or any portion thereof subject to such recurring payments or the payment of such lump sum (not being a frontage rate or the capitalised value thereof) as they may fix in that behalf.

(3) Any land or building acquired under sub-section (2) may be leased, sold or otherwise disposed of by the General Committee; and any conveyance made for that purpose may comprise such conditions as the Committee think fit as to the removal of the existing building (if any), the description of new building (if any) to be erected, the period within which such new building (if any) shall be completed, and any other similar matters.

(Calcutta Municipality.—Part V.—The Public Health, Safety and Convenience.—Chapter XXI.—Streets and Public Spaces—Sections 355—358.)

Acquisition of open spaces.

355. The Corporation may, by purchase on voluntary sale, or by the gift of the person or persons legally entitled to dispose of the same, or by proceeding under the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, or by the reclamation of tanks, or by taking possession of and laying out disused cemeteries or burial grounds, acquire or accept the ownership of any open spaces, whether enclosed within rails or palings or unenclosed, and hold the same in trust for the perpetual use thereof by the public for exercise and recreation.

(2) Subject to the provisions of sub-section (1) the General Committee may, at their discretion, give written permission, on such conditions as to payment of fees or rent as they may think fit, to owners or occupiers of buildings abutting on any public street to put up verandahs, balconies, sunshades, weather-frames and the like, to project from any upper storey thereof over such street.

Hoards, fences and scaffoldings.

357. (1) If any person intends to erect or take down, or to alter or repair the outward part of, any building, and if any public street would be obstructed or rendered dangerous or inconvenient in consequence of the work, he shall, before beginning the work, cause sufficient hoards or fences to be put up in order to separate the building from the street, and shall maintain such hoards or fences standing and in good condition, to the satisfaction of the General Committee, during such time as the public safety or convenience requires, and shall cause the same to be sufficiently lighted at night.

[Cal., ss. 245, 246.]

(2) No person shall put up any hoard, fence or scaffolding in a public street without the written permission of the General Committee.

Restrictions on deposit of materials or making of holes in public street.

358. (1) No person shall in any public street deposit any building or other materials for any time longer than is necessary for immediate transit, or make a hole, without the written permission of the General Committee.

[Cal., ss. 229, 230.]

(2) When such permission has been granted to any person, he shall, at his own expense, cause such materials or hole to be sufficiently fenced and enclosed until the materials are removed or the hole is filled up and otherwise made secure, and shall cause the same to be sufficiently lighted at night.

(3) If such person fails to obey any of the directions contained in sub-section (2), and any damage or injury arises, he shall be liable to the Corporation for any expense which they may incur by reason of such failure.

(4) If any person deposits materials or makes a hole in contravention of sub-section (1), or without obtaining permission under that sub-section, or encloses more of the public street than the General Committee have under that sub-section permitted him to enclose, or fails to fence, enclose the General Committee may, by written notice, require him to remove such materials or fill up such hole.

Prohibition of obstructions in public street.

359. (1) No person shall build any wall, or, without the consent of the Chairman, erect or set up any fence, rail, post, platform or other obstruction, projection or encroachment (not being fixture referred to in section 339), or deposit any materials or goods, in a public street, or in or over any drain, sewer or aqueduct in a public street. [Cal., s. 212; C. B. C., para. 61.]

360. (1) The General Committee may make bye-laws—

(a) for the regulation of open spaces acquired under section 355, and

(b) regulating, in any particular not specifically provided for in this Act, all matters relating to the width and construction of streets and the fittings of streets.

(2) Any bye-laws made under clause (a) of sub-section (1) may provide for the removal by any police constable of any person infringing such bye-laws.

CHAPTER XXII.—BUILDING REGULATIONS.

A.—Building Sites.

Requirements as to building sites.

361. No piece of land shall, after the commencement of this Act, be used as a site for the erection of a building—

(1) unless the side boundaries of the site run at right angles to the street alignment, or are altered so as to make them run as nearly at right angles to the street alignment as the Chairman may consider practicable; and

(2) if the building to be erected is a public building, a dwelling-house or a hut,—

(a) unless the site either (i) is dry and well drained, or (ii) is capable of being well drained, and is so drained before building operations are commenced, and

(b) if the site is a filled-up tank, or has been filled up with or used for depositing rubbish, offensive matter or sewage, unless the Engineer has examined the site and granted a certificate to the effect that it is, from a sanitary point of view, fit to be built upon, and [Cal., s. 217 (c); Bom., s. 243 (e); Bye-law (f) 1; C. B. C. para. 78.]

(Calcutta Municipality.—Part V.—The Public Health, Safety and Convenience.—Chapter XXII.—Building Regulations.—Sections 362—364.)

(c) if the site is in a locality in which continuous building is allowed, unless it abuts on a street and is at least thirty feet in depth and one cottah in area, and

(d) if the site is in a locality in which only detached buildings are allowed, unless it is at least two cottahs in area; and

(3) if the building to be erected is a hut, when the site is within thirty feet of a tank and the Engineer considers that there would be any risk of the domestic drainage of the hut passing into the tank. [Cal., s. 217 (d).]

Payment of cost of boring site.

362. If the Engineer considers it necessary to make borings for the purpose of examining a site in pursuance of clause (b) of section 361, the cost shall be paid by the person applying for permission to use the site.

Sale of site unsuitable for building.

363. (1) If any building site is so shaped or situated or is of such size that the owner is debarred, by the operation of this Act or the bye-laws made hereunder, from erecting a building on the site, the Chairman may, with the consent of the owner, sell the site by public auction. [C. B. C., para. 74.]

(2) The Chairman shall, with the like consent, fix a price below which the site shall not be sold, and owners of adjacent lands shall have a right, in preference to all other persons, to buy the site at any sum bid at the auction over and above such price.

(3) The proceeds of the sale shall, after deducting the expenses of effecting it, be paid to the aforesaid owner.

Formation of plots into suitable building sites, and sale of such sites.

364. (1) When two or more plots of land, whether occupied by buildings or not, are, by reason of their shape, situation or size, unsuitable for the construction of independent buildings in accordance with the provisions of this Act and the bye-laws made hereunder, and the owners of such plots cannot agree to amalgamate and re-divide the plots in order to admit of the construction of independent buildings as aforesaid, the General Committee may, on the application of the owners of not less than half of the area of such plots, take possession of the land and form it into suitable building sites.

(2) When such sites have been so formed, the General Committee shall cause each of them to be separately put up for sale by public auction, and may fix in respect of each site a price below which it shall not be sold.

(3) If no sufficient offer is made at the auction for any site, the General Committee may cause it to be again put up for sale, or, with the consent of all the owners of whose land the site forms part, may dispose of it by private sale.

(4) The proceeds of every sale of a site under this section shall, after deducting the expenses of effecting the sale, be divided among the owners of the land from which the site was formed, in proportion to the relative value of their shares in such land, and such proportion shall be determined by the General Committee, whose decision shall be final.

(Calcutta Municipality—Part V.—The Public Health, Safety and Convenience.—Chapter XXII.—Building Regulations.—Sections 365,—366.)

(4) The Local Government, after considering the said objections (if any), may confirm the declaration, and before doing so may modify it, but not so as to extend its effect.

(5) When any such declaration has been so confirmed, it shall be published in the Calcutta Gazette and shall take effect from the date of such publication.

(ii) if the market-value is specially high in consequence of the property being put to a use which is unlawful or contrary to public policy, that use shall be disregarded and the market-value shall be deemed to be the market-value of the land or buildings if put to ordinary uses;

(iii) if the market-value has been increased by means of any improvement made by the owner or his predecessor in interest within two years before the aforesaid declaration was published, such increase shall be disregarded, unless it be proved that the improvement was made bonâ fide and not in contemplation of proceedings for the acquisition of the land being taken under the said Land Acquisition Act.

(g) Clauses fourthly and fifthly of sub-section (1) of section 23 of the said Land Acquisition Act shall not apply in the case of tanneries, surki mills or other offensive trades.

(3) Every such scheme shall be published in the Calcutta Gazette and in such other manner as the General Committee may think fit, together with a notice specifying a period within which objections will be received.

Ventilation of drains.

(i) He shall provide at least two untrapped openings to the drains, and in the provision of such openings, he shall adopt such of the two arrangements hereinafter specified as the circumstances of the case may render the more suitable and effectual.

(a) One opening being at or near the level of the surface of the ground adjoining such opening shall communicate with the drains by means of a suitable pipe, shaft, or disconnecting chamber, and shall be situated as near as may be practicable to the trap which, in pursuance of the bye-law in that behalf, shall be provided between the main drain or other drain of the building and the sewer or other means of drainage with which such drain may lawfully communicate. Such opening shall also in every case be situated on that side of the trap which is the nearer to the building.

The second opening shall be obtained by carrying up from a point in the drains, as far distant as may be practicable from the point at which the first-mentioned opening shall be situated, a pipe or shaft vertically to such a height and in such a manner as effectually to prevent any escape of foul air from such pipe or shaft into any building in the vicinity thereof, and in no case to a less height than ten feet.

(b) In every case where the foregoing arrangement of the openings to the drains may be impracticable, there shall be substituted the arrangement hereinafter prescribed.

One opening shall be obtained by carrying up from a point, as near as may be practicable, to the trap, which, in pursuance of the bye-law in that behalf, shall be provided between the main drain or other drain of the building and the sewer or other means of drainage with which such drain may lawfully communicate, a pipe or shaft vertically, to such a height and in such a manner as effectually to prevent any escape of foul air from such pipe or shaft into any building in the vicinity thereof, and in no case to a less height than ten feet. Such opening shall also in every case be situated on that side of the trap which is nearer to the building.

The second opening, being at a point in the drains as far distant as may be practicable from the point at which such last-mentioned pipe or shaft shall be carried up, shall be at or near the level of the surface of the ground adjoining such opening, and shall communicate with the drains by means of a suitable pipe or shaft.

(ii) He shall cause every opening provided in accordance with either of the arrangements hereinbefore specified to be furnished with a suitable grating or other suitable cover for the purpose of preventing any obstruction in or injury to any pipe or drain by the introduction of any substance through any such opening. He shall, in every case, cause such grating or cover to be so constructed and fitted as to secure the free passage of air through such grating or cover by means of a sufficient number of apertures, of which the aggregate extent shall be not less than the sectional area or the pipe or drain to which such grating of cover may fitted.

(iii) Every pipe or shaft which may be used in connexion with either of the arrangements hereinbefore specified, shall be of a sectional area not less than that of the drain with which such pipe or shaft may communicate, and not less in any case than the sectional area of a pipe or shaft of the diameter of four inches.

(iv) No bend or angle shall (except where unavoidable) be formed in any pipe or shaft used in connection with either of the arrangements hereinbefore specified.

(v) Provided always that for the purpose of either of the arrangements hereinbefore specified, the soil pipe of any water-closet. in every case where the situation, sectional area, height and mode of construction of such soil pipe shall be in accordance with the requirements applicable to the pipe or shaft to be carried up from the drains, may be deemed to provide the necessary opening for ventilation which would otherwise be obtained by means of such last-mentioned pipe or shaft.

Provdied always that where a water-closet shall be constructed so as not to have any internal communication with any building, and where the distance between the water-closet and the trap which, in pursuance of the bye-law in that behalf, shall be provided between the drain with which such water-closet communicates, and the sewer or other means of drainage into which such drain may lawfully empty, shall be not more than ten feet or shall be more than ten feet and not more than thirty feet, the following provisions shall have effect, that is to say :—

(a) Where such distance shall be not more than ten feet, the requirements of this bye-law shall not aoply to the case.

(b) Where such distance shall be more than ten feet, but shall not be more than thirty feet, an opening shall be obtained by carrying up from a point in the drain with which the water-closet communicates, as far distant as may be practicable from the trap which, in pursuance of the bye-law in that behalf, shall be provided between such drainage and the sewer or other means of drainage into which it may lawfully empty, a pipe or shaft vertically to such a height and in such a manner as effectually to prevent any escape of foul air from such pipe or shaft into any building in the vicinity thereof, and in no case to a less height than ten feet, and such pipe or shaft shall be of a sectional area not less than that of the drain with which it may communicate, and not less in any case than the sectional area of a pipe or shaft of the diameter of four inches.

5. A person who shall erect a new building shall not construct any drain of such building in such a manner as to allow any inlet to such drain (except such inlet as may be necessary from the apparatus of any water-closet) to be made within such building.

Soil and waste-pipes.

He shall cause the soil pipe from every water-closet in such building to be at least four inches in diameter, and to be fixed outside such building, and to be continued upwards without diminution of its diameter, and (except where unavoidable) without any bend or angle being formed in such soil-pipe to such a height and in such a position as to afford, by means of the open end of such soil-pipe, a safe outlet for sewer air.

He shall so construct such soil-pipe that there shall not be any trap between such soil-pipe and the drains, or any trap (other than such as may necessarily form part of the apparatus of any water-closet) in any part of such soil-pipe.

He shall also cause the waste-pipe from every bath sink (not being a slop sink constructed or adapted to be used for receiving any solid or liquid filth), or lavatory, the overflow pipe from any cistern and from every safe under any bath or water-closet, and every pipe in such building for carrying off waste water, to be taken through an external wall of such building, and to discharge in the open air over a channel leading to a trapped gully grating at least eighteen inches distant.

He shall, as regards the mode of construction of the waste pipe from any slop sink constructed or adapted to be used for receiving within such building any solid or liquid filth, comply in all respects with such of the provisions of this bye-law as are applicable to the soil-pipe from a water-closet.

Drains for surface water.

6. Drains from houses, tenements or holdings for the discharge of surface or sullage water shall be constructed of brick masonry or concrete plastered with Portland cement, or of artificial or natural stone, or glazed half round pipes. All open drains shall be connected with the public sewers through trapped inlets, as prescribed by the rules sanctioned by the Commissioners from time to time for the regulation of house drainage.

(Calcutta Municipality.—Schedule XV.—Rules for the construction of drains.—Schedule XVI.—Rules for the construction of buildings.)

Disposal of drainage.

7. Every building shall be provided with suitable and sufficient down-pipes and drains for the conveyance of the drainage from the roof and house, and from the ground adjacent to such building, into the nearest public sewer. In the case of existing buildings, the owners shall be bound to make such drains as the Commissioners may consider necessary within a month after the serving of a notice. If the order be not complied with, the owner shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding 50 rupees and to a daily penalty not exceeding 10 rupees.

8. Type-plans for the construction of house drains shall be prepared by the General Committee and kept open to the inspection of any applicant at the Municipal Office at all reasonable times.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE Calcutta Municipal Consolidation Act has now been in force since the 1st April, 1889. Actual experience and the decisions of the Courts have shown it to be in many instances imperfectly drafted and to stand in need of material alteration. The necessity of legislation was originally urged upon Government in order to enable the Commissioners to recover license tax from certain companies which now escape payment and in order to supply an omission in section 237 of the Act which renders it impossible for the Commissioners to exercise effective control over rebuilding and alterations in buildings. Since the amendment of the law in respect of these points was decided on, facts were brought to light in connection with the alarm of plague in Calcutta, which showed that the town was in a terribly insanitary condition, and that the present constitution of the Municipality is ill-adapted to stand the strain of a grave and sudden emergency, and fails to secure the prompt and continuous executive action which is necessary in view of the fact that the sanitation and conservancy of the great Indian maritime cities has now become a matter of international concern. About the same time it came to notice that the collection of the rates had for a long time been defective; that important branches of the accounts had fallen into confusion; and that considerable uncertainty prevailed as to the respective functions of the Chairman and the Corporation. It has for long been recognised as a defect in the present law that the European community is inadequately represented, and does not exercise the influence to which it is entitled.

2. The Bill is intended not only to remedy these defects, but also to provide for a responsible municipal executive, and to furnish this executive with a law adequate to the present sanitary requirements of the city and to modern standards of municipal administration. It is sought to attain these ends by reconstructing the Act more or less on the lines of the City of Bombay Municipal Act, with certain material changes which appear to be called for in view of the special conditions of Calcutta and the course of previous legislation on the subject. The constitution of the Corporation itself, so far as concerns the electoral franchise, the arrangement of wards, the number of Commissioners, and the methods in which they are elected or appointed have been left unchanged. But in order to enable the heavy and complicated business of the city to be carried on smoothly, the Bill interposes a small working Committee between the Chairman and the main body of Commissioners; and the functions of these three authorities—the Corporation, the General Committee, and the Chairman—are precisely defined and carefully distinguished.

3. The Bill abandons the system, followed in the previous Acts, of vesting the entire municipal government in the Commissioners, with permission to the Chairman to exercise such powers of the Commissioners, not being expressly reserved to the Commissioners in meeting, as they may not withdraw from him by resolution, and subject to such conditions as they may lay down. It provides for three co-ordinate municipal authorities—the Corporation, the General Committee, and the Chairman assisted by the Deputy Chairman, who will act only under the Chairman's orders. All powers conferred by the Bill are distributed among these authorities, with reference to their assumed fitness to exercise them and to general administrative convenience. To the Corporation are reserved the right of fixing the rates of taxation and all those general functions which can be efficiently performed by a large body, provision being at the same time made against the contingency of their deliberations impeding the transaction of necessary business. Following the Bombay Act the Bill (section 24) vests the entire executive power in the Chairman to be exercised either independently or subject to the approval or sanction of the Corporation wherever this is expressly so directed. The General Committee stands between the deliberative and the executive authorities, and deals with those matters which by their nature are ill adapted for discussion by the Corporation, and yet are too important to be left to be disposed of by the Chairman alone. Power is also taken for the General Committee to appoint Sub-Committees, either from their own body or from the general body of the Commissioners, on which all the working talent among the Commissioners will find a place.

4. Proceeding on these principles, section 5 enumerates the municipal authorities, while section 23 defines their respective functions and provides for a reference to the Local Government in case of doubt arising. Sections 6 and 7 define the constitution of the Corporation, which will remain unchanged.

5. Section 8 reduces the number of the General Committee from 18 to 12 members, and provides for the appointment of these from among the general body of Commissioners in equal proportions by (a) the elected Commissioners voting in four electoral divisions, (b) the Chamber of Commerce, the Trades' Association, and the Port Commissioners, and (c) the Government. It is based on the principle of giving adequate representation on the governing body of the Municipality to the three chief interests in Calcutta—to the European commercial community which has made the city a centre of trade; to the Government which has made it the capital of the Indian Empire, and is responsible to the world at large for its sufficient and progressive municipal administration; and, lastly, to the residents, householders, and ground-landlords who have been attracted to Calcutta by its creation and maintenance as a commercial capital.

6. For the purpose of electing the four members of the General Committee who are to represent the elected Commissioners, it is proposed to divide the twenty-five wards into the groups or electoral divisions shown in Schedule II, each of which will elect one member from among the entire body of Municipal Commissioners. The four seats reserved to Government will enable it to provide for the representation of minorities and also to nominate at least one Commissioner as the special representative of the humbler working men of all ranks and trades who earn their livelihood in Calcutta, and who are wholly unrepresented under the present system.

7. Section 88 empowers the General Committee to appoint Sub-Committees of not less than three or more than six Commissioners who may or may not themselves be members of the General Committee. Section 93 provides for the payment of fees to members of the General Committee and of Sub-Committees.

8. Sections 10 to 18 treat of the Chairman and Deputy Chairman. The power of appointing the Chairman is vested in the Local Government as under the existing law, and the Bill further withdraws from the Commissioners the discretion they have hitherto exercised of fixing the Chairman's salary and house-rent allowance. A Government officer specially selected for this difficult and important post is placed in a wholly false position by the present law which makes him dependent on the good will of the Commissioners for an addition to his pay which, owing to the great cost of living in Calcutta, is in most cases no more than is required to save him from positive loss while holding the appointment of Chairman. Section 18 removes all doubts as to the power of Government to appoint an Acting Chairman and to fix his pay.

9. Provision has also been made in sections 12 and 13, for the appointment by Government of a Deputy Chairman who must ordinarily possess engineering and architectural qualifications. The new building regulations will greatly extend the duties of the Chairman, and it is essential for him to have the assistance of a competent adviser to whom he can on occasions delegate his duties. In order to get rid of the present uncertainty as to the functions of the executive, section 24, following the Bombay Act, vests all executive power in the Chairman subject to such express limitations as are elsewhere laid down.

10. The section of the existing Act, conferring certain powers of control upon the Government, is framed in very general terms, and would be difficult to put in force effectively. It is also unfair to the Commissioners, in that it gives them no distinct right to show cause against an order, and forces the Government to take the extreme course of at once appointing some person to perform the duty alleged to be neglected, instead of calling upon the Commissioners to perform it themselves within a given time. Section 22, of the Bill, which is based upon section 64 of the City of Madras Municipal Act, reserves to the Government ample powers of intervention, while at the same time providing for a fair enquiry into the facts and giving the Corporation sufficient opportunity for stating their view of the matters in dispute.

11. In view of certain decisions of the High Court, and of the uncertainty that has been felt as to the interpretation of sections 19-29 of the existing Act, the Bill proposes to incorporate, in the substantive law, definite rules for the procedure in municipal elections instead of leaving such matters to be dealt with by rule. The draft sections proposed are based upon sections 19-34 of the Bombay Act, modified and simplified with reference to the rules issued under the Bengal Municipal Act, which worked well and smoothly in the general elections held in March, 1897, throughout Bengal. Some important changes have been introduced with reference to recent experience. Section 43, sub-sections (1) and (2), provide that persons who wish to be enrolled as voters must register their names in the Assessor's office, and must show that they have paid in their own names all rates and taxes due from them for the first two quarters of the municipal year. Section 43 sub-sections (10) to (21), transfer the duty of revising the list of electors from the Chairman to a revising Magistrate, who would be selected from among the Presidency Magistrates.

12. Sections 56 to 63 of the Bill, dealing with the officers of the Corporation, transfer from the main body of Commissioners to the General Committee the power of appointing the Engineer, Surveyor, Health Officer, Collector, Assessor and any other officers drawing Rs. 300 a month and upwards; and they vest in the Chairman the right of appointment to offices with a salary of less than Rs. 300 a month They also empower the Government to make rules prescribing the qualifications of candidates for employment in the Health, Conservancy, and Engineering Departments of the Municipality, and providing for the inspection of any Department by an officer specially or generally appointed by the Government for this purpose.

13. Sections 96 to 102, dealing with the municipal funds, are based on the corresponding sections of the Calcutta Act. Sections 103 to 122 and 141 to 144 are borrowed from the Bombay Act with certain modifications, and lay down more fully than is the case in the Calcutta Act, the procedure for making payments, investing surplus funds, keeping accounts, preparing and passing the budget, and carrying out a periodical audit of the accounts of the Corporation

14. Part IV of the Bill dealing with rates, taxes, and the assessment of buildings and lands, has been left for the most part unchanged, except in so far as all executive power is vested in the Chairman instead of in the Commissioners. Sections 206 to 210 and Schedule III are intended to remove certain defects in the present Act which were brought to notice by the Commissioners in 1895.

15. Section 193, following section 202 of the Bombay Act, requires municipal dues to be paid direct into the Municipal Office, a system which has been tried with success in some mufassal municipalities.

16. Chapter XVIII, relating to water-supply, provides for a continuous supply, so far as may be practicable, of both filtered and unfiltered water. It is also proposed to abolish ferrules of sizes lower than a quarter of an inch, and to check the waste of water by dividing the town into districts and measuring the consumption of each district by meters attached to the mains and sub-mains of the Corporation. Water used in excess of the statutory allowance to which the district is entitled may be charged for and the value recovered from the connected premises in the district rateably in proportion to the water-rate paid. Individuals who think themselves aggrieved by the levy of this extra water-rate will have the option of claiming meters for their own houses at a reasonable rate of hire.

17. The drainage provisions of Chapter XIX of the Bill are mainly based upon the Bombay Act, the most useful clauses of the Calcutta Act being also incorporated. Of new points the following are the most important:—

(a) The clauses giving the Local Government control over the outfall of the sewage system, especially with reference to any alteration in the outfall works made necessary by the decay of river channels—a possible, but at present remote contingency attaching to all outfalls into the network of tidal creeks which intersect the Salt Water Lakes. These provisions embody the orders on the outfall works now under construction, which were passed under section 274 of the Calcutta Act.

(b) Care has been taken in drafting the Bill to emphasise the rights of the rate-payers, as well as the duties and responsibilities of the Corporation with regard to drainage matters.

(c) By sections 315 to 322 it is proposed to substitute an unpaid agency of licensed plumbers working at rates approved by the General Committee for the Drainage Inspectors now appointed by the Corporation.

The number of house connections now amounts to nearly 30,000, which is likely to increase, and it is found practically impossible at reasonable cost for the Corporation to do more than exercise a general control over house fittings or to accept responsibility for the repair and maintenance of these fittings with all the contingencies of occasional stoppages from misuse The Bill provides an agency, of which the public must avail themselves, to carry out house drainage works at reasonable rates, and the Corporation is bound to exercise proper control over this agency, and to punish breaches of the laws and bye-laws in cases where house fittings are not properly maintained.

18. The provisions of Chapter XXII are based partly upon the report of the Calcutta Building Commission and partly on the London Building Act, 1894, and other English and Continental building laws. The subject is a peculiarly difficult one owing to the irregular manner in which buildings have been constructed in Calcutta in past years. The general principle on which the draft proceeds is to lay down rules for new buildings and to provide that existing buildings shall come under those rules when they are re-erected or, at the discretion of the General Committee, when they are materially altered. A special power of dispensation is also given to the Local Government, to be exercised on the recommendation of any two of the municipal authorities. Following modern legislation on the continent of Europe, the Bill provides for the reservation of particular streets and quarters of the City for particular kinds of buildings. Government buildings are exempted by section 414 from all the provisions of this Chapter.

19. Under the head of the lighting of streets and public places, the Calcutta Act (sections 296 and 297) is singularly meagre, and the provisions in Chapter XXV of the Bill are accordingly based upon sections 330-335 of the Bombay Act.

20. The sanitary provisions contained in Chapters XXVI to XXXIII and XXXV of the Bill are based mainly on Chapter XV of the Bombay Act, which is in many respects more effective than the corresponding sections of the Calcutta Act.

21. Chapter XXXIV, dealing with the registration of births and deaths, is new. The experience gained in other parts of India in dealing with plague has proved the immense importance of an effective system of registering deaths. Owing to the fact that the registrars and sub-registrars are mere clerks who have no medical knowledge, the entries relating to the cause of death in column 8 of the form in the eleventh schedule of the present Act are in a large proportion of cases wholly untrustworthy. Of the 70 persons who on an average die every day in Calcutta, the returns show that from one-third to one-half have had no medical attendant, and in all these cases the cause of death is more or less a matter of conjecture. The evils of this state of things are obvious, more especially in view of the increasing tendency on the part of foreign nations to restrict privileges in respect of quarantine to vessels coming from ports which can show accurate vital statistics. In order to comply with these requirements, the Bill introduces the following new provisions :—

(1) by section 552 no corpse can be removed without a certificate in the form of Schedule XIX;
(2) section 553 authorises the Chairman to license medical practitioners as registrars ;
(3) section 554 forbids the keeper of a burial or burning ground to bury or burn a corpse without the prescribed certificate;
(4) section 555 requires the relatives and friends of the deceased to procure the certificate;
(5) section 556 obliges the registrar of the district to give a certificate free of charge;

(6) section 557 obliges medical men to furnish this certificate of their own motion within 24 hours of the death of any one whom they have attended;

(7) section 562 provides that if a corpse is brought to a burial or burning ground without a certificate, it shall be detained there till the friends procure a certificate or the registrar in charge of the district ascertains by inquiry and certifies the cause of death;

(8) section 564 gives the Local Government power to make rules and to prescribe the qualifications of registrars and sub-registrars.

The above scheme seems calculated to bring about a great improvement in the mortuary statistics of Calcutta, and to assist the Corporation in dealing with epidemic disease. The danger that the poorer classes who do not employ licensed medical practitioners may have difficulty in procuring certificates is merely a question of organization. Section 556 obliges the district registrar to attend free of charge for the purpose of granting such certificates, and if enough registrars are appointed no delay should occur. Under section 546 (2) the Local Government has power to determine the number of districts, each of which must have a registrar whose qualifications will be laid down under section 564. In case of epidemics, the Chairman may appoint additional registrars under section 546 (3).

22. Chapter XXXVI, relating to the taking of a census, contains no material change.

23. Chapter XXXVIII, which is based on the recommendations of the Calcutta Building Commission, modifies the Land Acquisition Act in some material points. Section 584 extends the power of the Corporation to acquire land and buildings; section 585 creates a presumption, which in the case of unhealthy areas may be conclusive, that the market value of property so acquired is twenty-five times its annual value as entered in the municipal assessment book. Section 588 further empowers the Corporation to transfer land acquired by them to a Company or a private individual for the purpose of carrying out improvements in accordance with a regular scheme.

24. The procedure proposed for the framing of bye-laws in Chapter XXXIX of the Bill is new. It will give both the public and the Corporation ample opportunity of expressing their views, and will leave the final decision, as it is left by the present Act, to the Government.

25. The scheme of Chapter XL, which brings together in one place all penalties imposed, is borrowed from the Bombay Act. The Bill makes no material changes in the existing scale of penalties.

26. Chapter XLI, dealing with procedure, has also been adapted from the Bombay Act. Power has been taken to appoint special Magistrates for the trial of offences against the Act as experience has shown that the Honorary Magistrates, before whom a large proportion of municipal cases come, are dilatory in their procedure and impose merely nominal penalties.

27. Chapter XLII reproduces the provisions of the present Act relating to the alteration of the limits of Calcutta, and contains an important section (660) giving power to extend to Howrah by notification any specified portion of the Bill subject to such restrictions and modifications as may be thought fit. A special procedure is laid down for this purpose which provides for notice being given of the intention to extend any portion of the Act and for the hearing of objections. Provisions have also been introduced into this Chapter for the purpose of securing the more active co-operation of the Police in the administration of the law.

DISTRICT AND SESSIONS JUDGE FOR KHULNA.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked—

I have the honour to ask whether the attention of the Government has been called to the serious public inconvenience which is caused by there not being a separate District and Sessions Judge for the district of Khulna?

Whether it is the case that when Khulna was formed into a separate district, the Secretary of State sanctioned the appointment of a separate District and Sessions Judge for Khulna, and whether or not, on a reference being made to the High Court, the Commissioner of the Division and the District Judge of Jessore, who performs the duties of District Judge for Khulna, these authorities recommended the appointment of a separate District Judge for Khulna?

Whether or not, in consequence of the Sessions Judge of Jessore being also Sessions Judge of Khulna, the Sessions cases are often tried many months after the occurrences to which they refer, and the interests of justice thus suffer, and for the same reason persons who after trial are found not guilty, have to remain in hajat for months together, and criminal appeals are not disposed of in time, although the District Judge is a very hardworking officer?

Having regard to these considerations, will the Government be pleased to sanction the appointment of a separate Judge for the district of Khulna?

The Hon'ble MR. BOLTON replied:—

"A general reply may be conveniently given to the Hon'ble Member's questions. The present arrangement in regard to the district of Khulna causes inconvenience and delay in the disposal of judicial work. When Khulna was constituted a district in 1882, the civil and criminal jurisdiction was vested in the District and Sessions Judge of Jessore. In 1891 work having increased in Backergunge, Dacca and Jessore-Khulna, an Additional Judge was appointed for those districts, to which Mymensingh was added in 1893. The relief thus given has, however, been found inadequate, and a recommendation with the object of increasing it has been made to the Government of India, who have called for a further report. Khulna itself would not provide sufficient employment for a separate District and Sessions Judge. It should continue to form with Jessore one Sessions Division, and provision should be made for further assistance to both the Judge of that Division and the Judges of the other districts named."

THE CYCLONE AT CHITTAGONG.

The Hon'ble BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE asked—

Will the Government be pleased to state what was the total number of (a) human lives, (b) cattle, and (c) houses destroyed by the late cyclone and the storm-wave, respectively, in the district of Chittagong?

What sum of money has been spent in the areas affected in giving relief in food, &c., and in the re-building of houses, and from what sources these funds have been supplied?

The Hon'ble MR. FINUCANE replied:—

"The number of human lives lost in Chittagong is reported to be about 14,000.

"The number of cattle lost is estimated by the Collector at 15,000. The number of houses destroyed is not known.

"A sum of Rs. 65,000 has been placed at the disposal of the local officers for the relief of distress, of which Rs. 50,000 was given from the funds of the Provincial Charitable Relief, and the rest was made up by other subscriptions. Of this Rs. 30,899 was expended up to the middle of January. Rs. 50,000 have been sanctioned by Government for advances under the Agricultural Loans Act, and a sum of one lakh of rupees for loans under the Land Improvement Act. Of this latter sum, Rs. 85,162 was distributed up to January last. Rs. 10,000 have been sanctioned for giving employment in digging tanks, and Rs. 30,000 will be expended in repairs to the Kutubdia embankment during the remainder of the current financial year 1897-98. Relief has also been given in the shape of remission of tolls on timber and thatching-grass for building houses."

REMISSION OF FOREST TOLLS.

The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee asked—

Will the Government be pleased to state whether the facts, stated in the Chittagong newspaper Jyoti, in its issue of the 27th January, with respect to the partial remission of forest tolls, are correct? What loss of revenue has Government suffered by the remission of half the rates of these tolls on building materials for two months as compared with the average of the previous three years? Whether February and March are not the two months when bamboos, canes, and especially thatching-grass are largely brought down from the hills and when the houses are usually re-built, and whether the period of remission will cover these two months?

The Hon'ble Mr. Finucane replied:—

"Government has not before it a copy of the newspaper Jyoti, which, it is understood, has been recently started, and is not aware what the alleged facts referred to by the Hon'ble Member, are. Under a Government order of the 6th November, the tolls on grass, bamboos, canes and certain kinds of timber taken from the Government forests in Chittagong were reduced to half rates for the period of two months, a concession which, as regards timber, was, at the instance of the local officers, extended by an order of 11th January for two months more in the areas affected by the storm-wave, i.e., in Jaldee, Chakaria, Kutubdia, and Moheskal, and for one month as regards thatching-grass in the three southern tehsils. The loss to Government on account of the reduction of the forest tolls to half rates is estimated at about Rs. 25,000."

The Hon'ble Babu Surendranath Banerjee asked—

Whether any loss that Government is likely to suffer by this remission of half the rate of tolls is not likely to be wholly or partially recouped by the considerably larger importations of building materials due to the wholesale destruction of houses by the cyclone?

The Hon'ble Mr. Finucane replied:—

"It is anticipated that the loss to some extent may be recouped in the way suggested in the Hon'ble Member's question."

STATEMENT OF THE COURSE OF BUSINESS.

The Hon'ble The President said:—"In welcoming the members back to work, I must preface what I have to say as to the business likely to be brought before them by extending a hearty greeting to the new members who have joined the Council since it last met. I trust that the Council will maintain its old reputation of being a business-like and practical body, where more weight is attached to experience and brevity than to lengthy speeches, however able and interesting.

"The first measure that I must mention is the Bill for amending the Bengal Tenancy Act. The opinions of the officers and Associations that were consulted upon the Bill as introduced were duly received. A good deal of opposition was raised by the Landholders' Associations and by Judicial officers to the proposal to abolish the Civil Procedure Code in the settlement of rents of permanently-settled estates, and to confer on the Revenue authorities the power of finally determining what are fair and equitable rents in such estates.

On considering these objections, I addressed the Government of India in the following terms:—

'The Government of India are aware that one of the Lieutenant-Governor's main reasons for making the proposal to withdraw the judicial procedure in the settlement of rents both in permanently-settled and temporarily-settled estates was that the observance of that procedure was thought to be cumbrous, dilatory and unnecessarily expensive.

'When a settlement of revenue is undertaken in temporarily-settled estates in Bengal, fair rents must be settled for all tenants of all classes, whether they or their landlords apply for a settlement of rents or not, the fair rents so settled being made the basis of the revenue demand, and the entire cost of such settlement being borne by Government. For this reason the adoption of a cumbrous and dilatory procedure entails unnecessarily large expenditure by Government; and it was partly with a view to remedy this evil that Sir Charles Elliott suggested, and Sir Alexander Mackenzie accepted the suggestion, to transfer the settlement and final determination of fair rents in temporarily-settled estates to the Revenue authorities, and to substitute for the Civil Procedure Code in the settlement of rents the procedure proposed in the Bill introduced in the local Legislative Council. His Honour thought that the procedure proposed by him would be less expensive and more efficient than that prescribed in the Bengal Tenancy Act. But as it had been conceded at the time the Tenancy Act was passed that Government claimed no facilities for the enhancement of rents in its own estates, or in estates under settlement of revenue which it was not prepared to give to proprietors of permanently-settled estates also, Sir Alexander Mackenzie thought it right to offer to those proprietors the same methods and procedure for settlement of rents in their estates that he proposed for adoption in Government and temporarily-settled estates.

'As, however, the proprietors of permanently-settled estates prefer the Civil Procedure Code and the method of settling rents prescribed in Chapter X of the Bengal Tenancy Act as it stands, the Lieutenant-Governor sees no reason to press on them against their consent what he believes would be a more efficient and less expensive procedure. In permanently-settled estates rents are settled only on the application of the parties concerned, who have to pay the cost. If they prefer the more expensive procedure prescribed in the Act with the guarantees which they think are afforded by appeals to the Judicial instead of to the Revenue authorities, there is no reason why their opposition should be courted by forcing on them a more summary and less expensive method of settling rents.

'As regards Government and temporarily-settled estates, the case is different. In the first place, as already remarked, rents have in these cases to be settled on a great scale at the expense of Government, and Government alone suffers the loss entailed by dilatory proceedings; in the next it has always been admitted that Government is the sole arbiter of the amount of land revenue which may be equitably demanded; and as that amount depends on the amount of the rents or assets on which it is based, it necessarily follows that the superior Revenue authorities and not the Civil Courts should be the final authorities for the determination of fair rents where a settlement of revenue is being made or about to be made; and lastly, there are indications in the reports received that while the High Court and the Landholders' Associations are strenuously opposed to the transference to the Revenue authorities of the final determination of fair rents in the case of permanently-settled estates, there would certainly be less and possibly no serious opposition to such transference in the case of estates under settlement of land revenue.

'For these reasons His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor proposes to adhere to the principles of the Bill for the settlement of rents and decision of disputes as regards areas under settlement of land revenue, and to adopt the principles of Chapter X of the Act as it stands in the settlement of rents and decision of disputes in the case of permanently-settled estates, while at the same time removing the doubts and difficulties which have arisen in the interpretation of that chapter owing to conflicting or erroneous judicial decisions. The Lieutenant-Governor also proposes, as regards temporarily-settled and permanently-settled areas alike, to adhere to the amendments in the substantive law relating to the enhancement and reduction of rents already approved by the Government of India.

'If the Supreme Government accept these proposals, His Honour would briefly explain them in referring the Bill to a Select Committee, and leave the Committee to formally embody them in the Bill.'

"Scarcely had that letter issued when the following letter was received from the British Indian Association:—

"Scarcely had that letter issued when the following letter was received from the British Indian Association:—

'Dated Calcutta, the 11th January, 1898.

From—Rai Raj Kumar Sarvadhikari Bahadur, Secretary, British Indian Association,

To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Revenue Department.

In continuation of my letter No. 283, dated 11th June 1897, containing the opinion of the Committee of the British Indian Association on the provisions of the Bill to amend the Bengal Tenancy Act which is now before the Bengal Legislative Council, I am directed by the Committee to state that they have reconsidered their representation to Government regarding the proposed procedure for the settlement of rents, the withdrawal of the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts in the matter, and the vesting of such jurisdiction in the Revenue authorities. Since my letter was forwarded to you, the Committee have had the advantage of receiving important communications on the subject from several mufassal members of the Association, who are of opinion that the proposal for the alteration of the procedure for the settlement of rent, and the transfer of the right of appeal on questions relating to the fixing of rents from the Special Judge to the Revenue authorities, has much to commend it, and that they are inclined to think that the proposed change will be an improvement upon the existing procedure. My Committee have carefully reconsidered the question in the light of the facts and arguments placed before them by the mufassal members of the Association, with the result that their views have undergone considerable modifications. Under the circumstances, the Committee are of opinion that they will best serve the interests of the class they represent by withdrawing the objections advanced in paragraph 4 of my letter, to which reference has been made above. They submit that private landlords should be in the same position as the State, and that the procedure proposed for the settlement of rents in Government estates should be open to all private landlords.

'If, however, the Government does not see its way to adhere to the original principle of the Bill in its entirety, the Committee would venture to suggest that, in cases where the settlement of the rate of rent is likely to affect a large area or the interests of the majority of the raiyats in a village, it shall be incumbent upon the Civil Court to refer such cases to an experienced Revenue officer for local investigation and report, and that the finding of the Revenue officer on the question of liability to enhancement and on the rate of rent be made binding on the Civil Court. What the Committee desire is that the Civil Court shall adjudicate in accordance with the report of the Revenue officer, and that appeals from the Civil Court shall be disposed of by the Special Judge who may be appointed for the purpose.'

"Satisfactory in one way as this change of front is, I thought it did not do away with the weight of adverse opinion originally received, and I informed the Government of India that I adhered to my letter above quoted, but would leave the Select Committee to discuss the proposal in the last paragraph of the Association's letter. The Government of India and the Secretary of State have accepted my suggestion, the Government of India remarking:—

'* * * * while the Government of India have accepted the recommendations of the Government of Bengal, they fear that they may not prove to be in the best interests of landlords and tenants, and believe that both classes will eventually recognize that this is so.

'The principal ground for the change of policy was the opposition of the landlord class to the executive fixation of rents. There is no reason why the interests of Government should be prejudiced on this account, and the amended Bill should provide for the retention of the procedure for executive rent adjustment in the case of all Government estates as well as in the case of temporarily-settled areas under settlement.'

"The Secretary of State's Orders are—

'I have no objection to proposed compromise, provided original Bill is maintained as far as concerns temporarily-settled tracts during settlement.'

"We have recast the Bill accordingly. The measure, as originally introduced will be referred to a Select Committee which will be invited to recast the Bill on the lines now approved by higher authority.

"Correspondence has been going on between this Government, the Government of India, and the Government of the North-Western Provinces with reference to certain proposed amendments of the Court of Wards Act. I am not, however, yet in a position to explain the scope of the intended legislation. I hope to have the preliminary discussions finished in time to introduce the measure some time this session. One main object of the Bill will be to place persons with a life interest only, or holding as executors, administrators, or trustees, on the same footing as beneficial owners so far as the Court of Wards is concerned. It is anomalous that a person who would be disqualified if he were a beneficial owner, should be treated as qualified if he be an executor or trustee.

"Passing from the Land Revenue to the Municipal Department, we hope to lay before you very shortly an elaborate Bill for reforming the Municipal Law of Calcutta.

"The necessity of legislation was originally urged upon us for the purpose of enabling the Commissioners to recover license tax from certain companies which now escape payment, and in order to supply an omission in section 237 of the Act which renders it impossible for the Corporation to exercise effective control over alterations in buildings. Since the amendment of the law with regard to these points was decided on, facts were brought to light in connection with the alarm of plague in Calcutta, which showed that the present constitution of the Municipality is ill-adapted to stand the strain of a grave and sudden emergency, and fails to secure the prompt and continuous executive action which is necessary in view of the fact that the sanitation and conservancy of the great Indian maritime cities has now become a matter of international concern. In point of fact under the present law there is no Municipal constitution at all in the proper sense of the word. Everything is fluid and indefinite. The Act vests in the Commissioners all powers whether they are such as a large deliberative body can properly exercise or not; but it allows the Chairman to exercise all the powers vested in the Commissioners, except those reserved to the Commissioners in meeting, subject to such limitations and conditions as may be imposed, before or after he has acted under this power, by a resolution of the Commissioners. It further confers an unlimited power of controlling the Chairman by the action of Committees. By thus failing clearly to define the powers of the Executive, the Act renders it impossible to say as regards any given matter in what part of the Corporation the Executive resides or indeed whether there is any Executive at all. The consequences have been what might have been expected—a complete breakdown of the conservancy of the town at a critical period and serious confusion in many other departments of the municipal administration, without the possibility of determining with any approach to certainty where the responsibility for such a state of things lies.

"It was felt that it would be unfair to the Commissioners as a body, no less than to the Chairman and the heads of the Departments under him, to expect them to carry on the administration of the city under the altered conditions arising from the danger of the plague and the threatening attitude of European powers with a machinery so ill-adapted for its purpose, and the Government of India have accepted the opinion that material changes in the municipal constitution of Calcutta are called for. The proposals of this Government which were embodied in a provisional sketch of the amended law have been submitted to the Secretary of State, and as soon as his sanction is received, a complete Bill which is now under preparation will, after receiving the formal sanction of the Government of India, be introduced into this Council. I may mention that I found, when at home on leave, that a keen interest is taken in this measure by the Secretary of State personally, by the commercial community at home and many Home authorities, who consider that a reform is called for without unnecessary delay. My proposals have met with the general approval of the Government of India. We are awaiting the orders of the Secretary of State (telegraphic intimation of his assent has just been received), and we shall then do our best to get the measure passed after a reasonable amount of discussion and consideration. The Bill is a large and, I hope, very complete measure, and deals with all branches of the administration of the city. It leaves untouched the number of Commissioners and the existing methods of electing and appointing them. While it reforms the procedure for election, which is admitted by every one to be defective, it does not alter the franchise, nor does it reconstruct the present arrangement of wards. It provides the Corporation with an efficient executive and interposes between the main body of the Commissioners and the Chairman a working Committee of twelve, elected and appointed so as to represent the three chief interests in Calcutta—the Government, the commercial community and the residents. We have made use of the experience of Bombay which Mr. Risley was specially deputed to examine on the spot. The functions of the three Municipal authorities—the Corporation, the General Committee, and the Chairman—are precisely defined and carefully distinguished. To the Corporation is reserved the power of fixing the rate of taxation, of passing the Budget and of deciding all the large issues which can properly be discussed by a deliberative assembly of 75 members. The Chairman, as in the Bombay Act, is vested with all executive power, to be exercised, as is laid down in each case, either independently or subject to the approval or sanction of the Corporation or the General Committee as the case may be. The General Committee as the working body of the Municipality stands between the deliberative and Executive authorities and deals with those matters which by their nature are ill-adapted for discussion by the Corporation, and yet are too important to be left to be disposed of by the Chairman alone. Power is taken for the General Committee to appoint Sub-committees, on which I hope to see all the real workers among the Commissioners utilised. When the Bill is introduced and referred to a Select Committee, the distribution of powers between the Municipal authorities will be a matter requiring careful discussion, but there can be no doubt that the principle of distributing powers somewhat in the manner proposed is essential to the smooth and efficient working of the municipal constitution.

"One great advantage from the proposed change in the constitution is that I have reason to believe that the European community of Calcutta will, if it is accepted, no longer stand aloof from the Corporation, acting generally as hostile and not always well-informed critics, but will (as Kristo Das Pal hoped in 1876) take their fair share in municipal work and responsibilities.

"The remaining provisions of the Bill are of less general interest, and will be explained when the measure is introduced. Mr. Risley has been for some weeks past on special duty in connection with the Bill, preparing it Chapter by Chapter in communication with our Assistant Secretary and other competent advisers for my orders. I have been over it again and again section by section, and it is in my judgment a measure which will be welcomed by all who have at heart the interests of Calcutta and the trade of Upper India.

"The Bill embodies such of the suggestions of Mr. Justice Trevelyan's Building Commission as could properly come within the scope of a Municipal Bill, and I take this opportunity of heartily thanking Mr. Trevelyan and his colleagues for the time and trouble they have bestowed on the important matters referred to them.

"The question of opening up the unhealthy and congested areas in Calcutta, in some of which 75 per cent. of the space is occupied by solid masonry, is a very difficult one and no attempt has been made to deal with it in this Bill. A well-considered scheme for meeting a similar difficulty is now under discussion in Bombay, and a Bill for giving effect to it has been introduced into Council there. It seems probable that whatever action may be taken hereafter in Calcutta will have to proceed on the same general lines, that is to say, a special Commission or Trust will have to be formed, and funds will have to be placed at their disposal. Where are the funds to come from? In Calcutta there is no land for the Government to make over for the Trust to manage and improve and thus convert it into a valuable asset on the security of which money may be borrowed and applied to the formation of new streets. The only alternative seems to be the imposition of some tax which might be administered by the Trust and might form the basis of their financial operations. Several suggestions of this kind have been made by the Building Commission presided over by Mr. Justice Trevelyan, the report of which will be published as soon as the Municipal Bill is introduced into Council. Each of these suggestions raises large economic questions on which wide differences of opinion may exist, but there can be no doubt that unless some means of raising funds can be devised, the prospect of improving the congested areas of Calcutta must be indefinitely deferred.

"Then we have a Bill to amend the Excise Act. The Bill has been approved of by the Government of India subject to certain modifications which we have now referred to the Board of Revenue. It ought to be ready for introduction by July.

"The existing Excise Law [Bengal Act VII of 1878] has been in force for nearly 20 years, and like most measures of that kind, which deal with administrative arrangements liable to change from time to time, stands in need of amendment on a variety of points, some of which have been met by the amending Acts IV of 1881 and I of 1883. The main objects of amending it at the present time are to carry into effect the policy adopted by the Local and Imperial Governments in respect of—

(1) the introduction into Bengal of the Madras system of levying a revenue on tari by taxing the trees tapped for the purpose of drawing tari for sale as an intoxicant;

(2) the export of exciseable articles, including ganja, on payment of excise duty; and

(3) the improvement of the provincial system of excise in regard to hemp drugs in accordance with the recommendations of the Indian Hemp Drugs Commission in so far as they have been accepted by the Government of India.

"The opportunity has been taken of consolidating and re-arranging its provisions so as to follow the general form and arrangement of the Excise Act, 1896. After introduction the Bill will be circulated for the opinions of district officers and public bodies.

"Next there is the Bill to amend the Salt Act. This Bill was published on the 17th July last under Rule 34 of the Council Rules and was circulated for opinion. All the opinions but one (that of the Indian Association) have been received. The objects of the Bill are as stated in the first paragraph of the Objects and Reasons. The necessity for taking power to control the possession of salt-earth was forced upon us by the discovery of the existence in the 24-Parganas of an elaborate system of manufacturing illicit panga salt for sale, involving a loss of revenue which is estimated by different observers at 2 lakhs and 6 lakhs a year. There is also some reason to believe that illicit manufacture of the same kind exists, though not on so large a scale, in parts of Midnapore. The Bill has been circulated, and the opinions received, which are on the whole favourable, are being considered. It is probable that some of its provisions may be modified with the object of making it more clear that it is directed at the manufacture of illicit salt in large quantities for sale and not at petty domestic manufacture for family consumption.

"Although the Bill has not yet passed into law, we resumed charge of the salt administration of Orissa on the 1st October last, and the Salt officers there are working under the Collectors there in accordance with the provisions of Act XII of 1882, the Northern India Salt Act, which is in force.

"In the other saliferous tracts Bengal Act VII of 1864 is still in force. This does not recognise Salt officers as such, and gives all powers to the Police. It would be possible of course if the passing of our Bill were long delayed to extend Act XII of 1882 to the coast districts, but I hope we shall be able to get our own Bill through very shortly.

"I may perhaps refer to the Bill to amend the Local Self-Government Act. This was drafted to enable District Boards to start veterinary dispensaries and pay veterinary doctors. In the hot weather of 1896 it was expanded into a measure legalising permissive local taxation for water-supply and village sanitation and providing for tolls on bridges. Opinions were collected, and in October 1896 the Government of India communicated certain criticisms.

"We cannot, however, proceed with the Bill at present, as it is understood that the Government of India has under consideration a new set of arrangements affecting Provincial and local finance, but I hope that the measure will not be lost sight of. The necessity of improving the water-supply and sanitation of villages is generally admitted, and District Boards are at present suffering from the inexpansive character of their revenues under all heads except that of road cess, which increases but very slowly as revaluations are made. The only means of giving them relief is by vesting them with certain powers of permissive local taxation for purposes of local interest and importance such as water-supply, sanitation, education and medical relief.

"A further reason against proceeding with the Bill at present is that a proposal is before the Government of India for reorganising the Public Works and District Works establishments in Bengal.

"In the Judicial Department we have a short Bill for extending to the Town and Suburbs of Calcutta, with such modifications as are required by local circumstances, the provisions of sections 15, 15A and 16 which were inserted by Act VIII of 1895 in the Police Act, V of 1861, together with portions of other sections of a subsidiary character.

"The sections in question authorize (a) the quartering of additional police in areas which are in a disturbed or dangerous state, and the recovery of the cost from the inhabitants, and (b) the award of compensation to sufferers from misconduct of the inhabitants of such areas They do not at present apply either to Calcutta or the suburbs thereof, for which there are special Police Acts (viz., Acts IV and II of 1866, passed by the Bengal Council), and the riots which occurred in the Northern Division of Calcutta in June and July last have suggested the desirability of introducing them into these areas, to be ready for use in case of need. Provisions similar to section 15 of the Act of 1861 (as to the quartering of additional police in a disturbed area at the cost of the inhabitants) have been enacted also for the City of Madras by Madras Act

III of 1888, sections 20 and 22, and for Bombay districts by Bombay Act IV of 1890, sections 25 and 26. The necessity of this measure was brought out in connection with the Tallah riots, and it has been sanctioned by the Government of India.

"Mr. Wigley has also kindly drafted for us a General Clauses Bill which has gone to the Government of India for approval. The Bill follows the General Clauses Act passed by the Supreme Council last year, and it is necessary because (1) that Act applies only to laws passed by the Supreme Council, and (2) the General Clauses Act of this Province [V (B.C.) of 1867] contains but a very small number of definitions. Each Province should have a General Clauses Act on the lines of the Government of India's Act of last year dealing with the Acts of its Council."

AMENDMENT OF THE BENGAL TENANCY ACT, VIII OF 1885.

The Hon'ble MR. FINUCANE moved that the Bill to amend the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885, be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Hon'ble Rai Durga Gati Banerjea, Bahadur, the Hon'ble Mr. Pratt, the Hon'ble Mr. Toynbee, the Hon'ble Norendra Nath Sen, the Hon'ble Saligram Singh, the Hon'ble Maharaja Bahadur Sir Luchmessur Singh of Darbhanga, and the Mover.

The HON'BLE BABU SURENDRANATH BANERJEE said:—"Now that the motion has been made that this Bill be referred to a Select Committee, the time has come when under the rules of the Council the principle of the Bill may be discussed, and those principles, I may observe, are of the greatest possible importance in a country like Bengal, with its teeming agricultural population. But apart from its intrinsic importance, the Bill raises collateral issues which deserve serious consideration. The Bill may be divided into two parts—the first part has reference to what may be called the 'prevailing rate' clauses of the enhancement sections which purport to afford facilities to zamindars to enhance rents. The second part raises issues of a still graver character. It practically repeals Chapter X of the Bengal Tenancy Act and substitutes for it provisions which cannot but lead to considerable discussion and controversy, and which, I am afraid, will be considered in some quarters as being retrograde and reactionary in their character. With reference to the first part of the Bill—I would refer to section 30 of the Bengal Tenancy Act. The section lays down the conditions under which zamindars may enhance rents, and clause (a) provides that when a tenant holds land at a rate lower than the prevailing rate for land of the same description in the same village that constitutes a ground of enhancement. It is now proposed to alter the law and substitute the words 'adjoining or neighbouring village' for the words 'same village.' That was the law before 1885. The law then was much more elastic, and afforded wider facilities to zamindars for purposes of enhancement. But in 1885 the law was amended, and, as I have said, for the words 'adjoining or neighbouring village' the words 'the same village' were substituted, thus imposing a restriction upon the power of enhancement possessed by zamindars. It is now proposed to place zamindars in the same position in which they were before 1885. If the present law is a real hardship to zamindars, if it operates as an injustice, I would not be understood as standing in the way of the removal of a real grievance. At any rate this is a matter we ought to consider, and I have not the slightest doubt that it will be carefully considered by the Select Committee to whom the Bill will be referred. Then as regards the second point to which Your Honour has referred in your opening statement, I desire to call the attention of the Council to an observation which the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill made in introducing the Bill into Council. He said it was no part of the intention of the authors of the Bill in any way to interfere with the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts or the jurisdiction by way of appeal to those courts which is conferred by the existing law. As far, however, as I can see, I hold that the modifications which this Bill proposes will have the effect of curtailing to a very serious extent the jurisdiction now vested in the Civil Courts. Under the existing law the matters which are referred to in Chapter X are matters which are disposed of by the Revenue authorities in accordance with the forms of judicial procedure. In the exercise of their functions under this chapter, such officers are to all intents and purposes judicial officers. Against any orders passed by them an appeal lies to the Special Judge, who for the most part is a Covenanted Civilian of the rank of a District Judge; and there is a further appeal to the High Court. Now all this is altered under the Bill. The Revenue officers will not be guided by the provisions of the Civil Procedure Code; they will act in accordance with rules laid down by the Government, but not necessarily subject to the procedure of the Civil Courts, those rules being in the nature of instructions issued by the executive authority of the Government and subject only to its discretion. Again, the appeals against the orders of the Revenue authorities will be preferred no longer to the Civil Courts or the Special Judge, but to higher Revenue authorities. The procedure will be summary, and the tribunal will not be a judicial tribunal; and the appellate authority of the High Court, as I read the Bill, will also be curtailed."

The HON'BLE MR. FINUCANE said:—"The provisions of the present law both as to appeals to the Special Judge and to the High Court remain in the revised Bill exactly as they are now in respect of permanently-settled estates."

The HON'BLE SURENDRANATH BANERJEE said:—"The revised Bill has just been laid before us, and I have not had time to study its provisions."

The HON'BLE THE PRESIDENT said:—"As regards permanently-settled estates, things will remain practically as they now are, except for a slight shortening of the procedure to make it more simple and expeditious. As regards temporarily-settled estates and estates directly under Government, we intend to adopt a new procedure."

THE HON'BLE SURENDRANATH BANERJEE said:—"That limits the scope of the Bill; but having regard to the sympathy which the Government showed for the peasantry of the country when the Tenancy Act was passed in 1885, when it modified the summary procedure, it does not seem to me that a case has been made out for the resumption of the powers which it parted with in 1885. I thankfully admit that the scope of the Bill has been restricted, but as regards the Government and its tenants, I say with great deference that the Government having deliberately given up the right which it possessed of a summary procedure between itself and its tenants, no case has been made out for the resumption of the powers which it abandoned of its own will in 1885. I must say that I cannot express any sympathy with the letter which Your Honour read as having been received from the British Indian Association in which they have withdrawn from the position which they formerly maintained in condemnation of this summary method of procedure. I think the judicial procedure is best suited to the circumstances of this country, and that procedure ought to be continued. I have one other remark to make. This Bill provides—I speak subject to correction—for a table of rates. I desire to record my humble protest against the adoption of any such table. There are distinguished Revenue officers in this Council, and I ask them whether it will be possible for Revenue officers to look carefully into these rates. They will involve the inspection of every piece of land in the village, and I ask whether it is within the range of practical politics for the Revenue officer to go from field to field to satisfy himself that the rate which is to be fixed is a fair and correct rate? The practical result will be that the fixing of the rates will be left to the amins, and we all know what that means. One of the worst-paid class of public servants, their financial exigencies too often put a very severe strain upon their honesty. It is, therefore, most undesirable to add to the powers which they possess. These are the observations which I desire to submit for the consideration of the Council and the Select Committee, and I hope and trust that when the Bill emerges from the hands of the Select Committee, it will be so modified and revised that it will commend itself to the approval and judgment, not only of this Council, but of the country at large."

THE HON'BLE BABU KALI CHARAN BANERJEE said:—"I think it my duty to take exception, at this stage, to the principle of the Bill, even with the modifications which, we are now informed, have been introduced into it. What I feel is that the principle of the Bill, in certain contexts at any rate, is tainted with the tendency, observable of late, to neutralise the judicial control of the High Court, in the interests of Revenue officers who think they are hampered in the discharge of their functions by such judicial control. In paragraph 3 of the Statement of Objects and Reasons, in connection with the Bill, certain complaints are made on behalf of Revenue officers. Now, these complaints are nothing more or less than complaints against certain decisions of the High Court, in which it was held that Revenue officers had no jurisdiction in certain matters in which they would fain have jurisdiction, and the object of the Bill is, as we have it in the opening clause, 'to clear up doubts and difficulties.' Those doubts and difficulties are cleared up by expressly conferring on Revenue officers jurisdiction in matters in which, as the present Act is interpreted by the High Court, they have no jurisdiction, and should not have jurisdiction. But not only so. In certain contexts at any rate, as the Bill provides, Revenue officers are exempted from what, perhaps, they consider to be the trammels of certain provisions of the law under which the Civil Courts have to act. The assumption of summary jurisdiction by Revenue officers will entail an amount of hardship to tenants which it is impossible to overestimate, especially, coupled, as it is, with the provision that appeals from their decisions will lie to the superior Revenue authorities in an ascending scale. The poor tenant will hardly be in a position to challenge these decisions in the Civil Court, and, in most cases, they will remain unchallenged altogether; for he will have to wait all the time taken up in the decision of the lower Revenue authorities and the review of that decision by the higher Revenue authorities, before he can institute proceedings in the Civil Court; and the same litigation will have to be prosecuted twice over. This, I submit, will be a great grievance as far as tenants are concerned. Then, with regard to the settlement of rent, it has already been observed, and I may repeat, that no principle of any kind has been laid down for the guidance of the Revenue officers. In the last clause of the section bearing on it, there is a reference to certain principles regarding the enhancement of rent, but they involve a cumbrous procedure, and as the preceding clauses provide a readier procedure, it is not difficult to imagine which of these procedures will be availed of by Revenue officers for the settlement of rent. Practically, it will be based on no appreciable principle, and rent will have to be settled more or less arbitrarily. It may be said that, sometimes, matters are disposed of more readily, if we adopt what may be described as the patriarchal system, but that is a system which can be worked by patriarchs alone, and not by young and inexperienced Revenue officers. One remark more, and that with regard to the definition, proposed to be introduced, of the term 'prevailing rent.' The definition is very obscure, and what is more, it will be unworkable, and lead to consequences detrimental to the interests of tenants. A new principle has been introduced in the definition of 'prevailing rent.' Instead of understanding the expression in the sense of rent paid by the majority of tenants, section 4 of the Bill amending section 31A provides that 'the highest of such rates at which and at rates higher than which a larger portion of those lands is held than is held at lower rates may be taken to be the prevailing rate.' It very often happens that in a village, a large portion of the land is held by a single individual. Some one in favour with the landlord may help the landlord to bolster up the rate of rent. But that is not all. Having regard to the procedure in the Civil Court, it will be impossible to ascertain the prevailing rent according to this method. When the tenants are examined, although they may be in a position to say what their rents are, they are often ignorant of the area of land comprised in their holdings, and it will be next to impossible for the Courts to ascertain the prevailing rate of rent according to this definition. The matter is not made at all clearer, while there is danger of rents being fixed arbitrarily, which will be disastrous. It may be said that there is a provision in the Bill for instructions from the Local Government to Revenue officers in the matter of the settlement of rent, and that they may be expected to settle rent in accordance with those instructions; but I venture to say that such instructions may not have anything like consistency or continuity of principle characterising them, and as not open to inspection by the people, will strike the public as charged with a periodic element of variance. For these reasons, I oppose the principle of the Bill."

The Hon'ble Mr. Finucane said:—"I shall reply very briefly to the observations which have been made upon the principle of this Bill, and first of all I may say that I understand that the two Honourable non-official members, who have addressed the Council, have spoken in the interests of raiyats. I cgratulate them and the Council on the fact that there are some Honourable elected Members who speak on behalf of raiyats and lookafter their interests, and from that point of view they have my entire sympathy. But I think the conclusions to which they have come are based on a misapprehension of the Bill as it is now proposed to modify it. As I have already said, it is not proposed to alter the present procedure, or to abolish the Civil Code Procedure in the settlement of rents in permanently-settled estates, which comprise more than 90 per cent. of the whole of the estates in Bengal. With reference to them, there is absolutely no change proposed in the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts, appeals being heard by the Special Judge and High Court exactly as at present. In the case of all other estates, that is to say, temporarily-settled and Government estates where questions of right, title and the like arise in connection with the settlement and preparation of a record-of-rights, not only is the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts not curtailed, but it is actually extended. It is left to the parties to move the Civil Courts on all questions except the amount of a fair rent. There is no appeal to the High Court under the present law in respect of questions of rent, the Special Judge giving the final decision, and there is to be no appeal to the High Court on the question of amount of a fair rent under the Bill. Therefore, I say that the idea that the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts is interfered with is without foundation. Then as regards the prevailing rate, I explained, when I introduced the Bill, the reasons that have influenced the Government in extending the area of comparison, and I don't think it necessary to reiterate what I then said. The Hon'ble Member who spoke last said that the procedure for ascertaining a prevailing rate will be unworkable; I can only say that the object is to make it possible to find what the prevailing rate is, where there is one at all. At present it is said that it is illusory to give zamindars the prevailing rate as a ground of enhancement of rent, when, in fact, it can nowhere be worked as a ground of enhancement. If any Honourable Member will suggest a more workable definition that that proposed in the Bill, I feel sure that the Government will be very glad to consider it. The Courts have held that the prevailing rate is a uniform rate paid by the majority of tenants in a village. Such a thing as a uniform rate paid by a majority of the tenants in a village does not generally exist even where rates do exist and are recognised, and therefore it is necessary to have some sort of definition, such as we here propose, if the prevailing rate is to be worked at all. The only other point on which any remarks have been made is regarding the proposed table of rates. It is said that a table of rates cannot be made; that it is impossible for a Settlement or Revenue Officer to prepare such a table. But I would point out that the section is permissive merely, as it says that if the Revenue Officer finds it practicable to do so, he may prepare a table of rates. If it is not practicable, he will not attempt to prepare a table. In some parts of the country it is practicable; where it is not a table of rates will not be framed. It has been said that no principle has been laid down in the Bill for the settlement of rents. Rents in permanently-settled estates are only to be enhanced on certain grounds which are distinctly specified in the law; as regards estates which are temporarily-settled and Government estates, three or four systems are laid down under which all or any of the Revenue officers may act. I think Honorable Members, when they examine the revised Bill, will be satisfied that it is not so very dangerous a measure as they think, and I hope that when it emerges from the Committee, it will meet with the approval of the Council."

The Hon'ble The President said:—"I hope Honourable Members will study with very considerable care the provisions of this Bill which relate to the question of the prevailing rate, and I hope they will carefully read the papers which have been sent up with regard to the Bill, and that the deliberations of the Select Committee will result in evolving a satisfactory measure. It is an extremely difficult subject, I admit. The papers relating to this Bill were sent out to me when I was on my way out from home, and having nothing to do, I carefully studied them on board, and came to the conclusion that it would be better not to interfere with the procedure prescribed by the existing law with regard to permanently-settled estates. Both the Government of India and the Secretary of State have accepted that view, and they have equally accepted the view that as regards Government estates and other temporarily-settled estates, the law should be in Bengal as it is in other parts of the country; and as regards such estates, I think the Council will not be wrong in accepting the proposals which are put forward in the Bill now before the Council."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

AMENDMENT OF THE POLICE ACT, V OF 1861.

The Hon'ble Mr. Pratt moved for leave to introduce a Bill to extend certain portions of the Police Act, V of 1861, to the town and suburbs of Calcutta.

He said :—

"I move for leave to introduce a Bill to extend certain portions of Act V of 1861 to the town and suburbs of Calcutta. The power of quartering additional police in disturbed areas at the expense of the inhabitants was conferred on the Local Government by section 15 of Act V of 1861 as originally passed. That section was recast by Act VIII. of 1895, and a clause was added empowering the Local Government to exempt any person or class of persons from liability to bear any portion of the cost of such extra police. By section 15A of this latter Act an important provision was introduced whereby any inhabitant of an area proclaimed as being in a disturbed or dangerous state might recover compensation from the inhabitants of that area for damage to property or for grievous bodily injury. The circumstances of the riots which occurred at Chitpur and in the northern parts of Calcutta on the 30th of June and the 1st of July last, must still be fresh in the memory of Hon'ble Members of this Council. On that occasion His Honour the Officiating Lieutenant-Governor considered the question of quartering additional police in the disturbed parts of the town at the expense of the Muhammadan inhabitants; but when a reference was made to the Advocate-General and myself as to the legality of any such action, we gave it as our decided opinion that Act V of 1861 does not apply to Calcutta and its suburbs, and that the proposed expedient was therefore not possible.

"And we gave our opinion in the form of the joint memorandum in my hands. It is a somewhat lengthy opinion; I therefore do not propose to read it to you in extenso, but will only state the substance. Act V of 1861 never did apply to the town of Calcutta. If Honourable Members will refer to that Act, they will see that it applies to what is described as the 'General Police District' under the control of an officer called the Inspector-General of Police and his Deputies. Now, by Act XIII of 1856 of the Supreme Council, which was repealed by Act IV of 1866 of this Council, the police of Calcutta were placed under the control of an officer called the Commissioner of Police, who still occupies the position given to him on that occasion. With reference to the suburbs of Calcutta, no doubt Act V of 1861 did apply to them at the time it was passed, but subsequently by Act II of 1866 the suburbs were excluded from the provisions of that Act by a notification issued under section 1 of that Act. There the matter would have rested were it not for the introduction in section 15 of the Act as amended by Act VIII of 1895 of the words 'any area subject to its authority.' At first sight it would seem that that expression was wide enough to include Calcutta and its suburbs, but as a matter of fact, the Act nowhere repeals the special enactments to which I have referred, and to this day the Commissioner of Police exercises control both over the town and suburbs of Calcutta. And when we examine how those words came into the section, we find that they were brought in simply to make the language of the first sub-section uniform with that of sub-sections (2) and (3). As a matter of fact the draft Bill presented to the Supreme Council did not contain the words to which I have referred, and neither in the speeches in Council, nor in the report of the Select Committee is there the slightest allusion to the reason for changing the language employed. Thus by reference to the general scope of the Act and the history of Act VIII of 1895, we came to the decided conclusion that Act V of 1861 extends neither to the suburbs nor the town of Calcutta.

"Now the Bill which it is desired to introduce is in itself a small measure, having for its object the removal of an anomaly whereby the Local Government is debarred from using in the metropolis the resource of quartering extra police on the inhabitants of a disturbed locality. The power to take such action already exists with respect not only to all rural areas, but also to the great cities of Northern India, and such large and populous towns as Patna, Gaya, Dacca and Howrah, the last of which is practically a suburb of Calcutta. Moreover, there is a similar provision as regards the city of Madras to be found in section 20 of Madras Act III of 1888.

"The causes which lead to agrarian disturbances, such as quarrels about chur land or rent disputes between landlords and tenants, may not be expected to find a place in Calcutta. But experience has shown, both in the case of last year's riots and in the serious riots at Sham Bazaar in 1891, that religious excitement in a populous city may quickly be fanned into a flame, spreading disaster and consternation far and wide. Outbursts of popular excitement are often sudden, and cannot generally be foreseen, and where, as in Calcutta, the population is mixed and comprises a large body of low Muhammadans employed at the mills and factories, there is necessarily a risk of occasional outbreaks of lawlessness. Apart from disturbances which arise from religious excitement or class animosity, there might possibly be an outbreak of persistent incendiarism, such as has been known to happen in some mufassal districts. Is it right or expedient that the arm of the Local Government should remain shortened so that it cannot use the same repressive and punitive measures for organized terrorism and crime in Calcutta, as it can in all other territories under its sway? I think there can be but one answer to this question, and I trust this Council will speedily provide the remedy by means of the enabling Bill which I now seek to introduce.

"The material sections of Act V of 1861, as amended by Act VIII of 1895, which should be extended to the town and suburbs of Calcutta, are sections 15, 15A, and 16, with some modifications to suit local circumstances. As regards the Town of Calcutta, an officer to be appointed by Government would assess and levy the cost of additional police and of compensation for injury, while the Magistrate of the 24-Parganas, who exercises jurisdiction over the suburbs, would perform those functions in the Suburbs. In sub section (2) of section 16 the words 'All moneys paid or recovered under sections 13, 14 and 15 shall be credited to a fund to be called the General Police Fund,' and' have been replaced by 'All moneys paid or recovered under section 15 —as sections 13 and 14 are not extended under the Bill, and there is no existing General Police Fund for Calcutta and the suburbs, nor is it necessary to establish one for the purposes of this Bill alone. Finally, I would draw attention to the proposed omission from sub-section (1) of section 15A of the words 'being an inhabitant of such area.' Under the existing law, only residents of the disturbed area can be awarded compensation for injury from the misconduct of the inhabitants. Such a limitation seems hardly just for Calcutta, where a disturbed area would often be frequented by strangers on business or by persons passing through and who had received no warning of impending danger. Such was the case during the recent riots, and I need only instance the case of the two young officers travelling inoffensively on bicycles towards Dum-Dum, who were attacked on the Circular Road by an excited and insensate mob, and who might have been killed had it not been for the humane intervention of a Hindu mill-owner who afforded them a temporary asylum. With those observations, I move for leave to introduce the Bill."

The Motion was put and agreed to.

IN

The Commission was constituted by the Government of Bengal under Resolution No. 1973M, dated the 6th April, 1897,[1] the personnel being as follows:—

THE HON'BLE MR. JUSTICE TREVELYAN	President.
THE HON'BLE MR. H. H. RISLEY, C.I.E.	Members.

SURGEON-MAJOR H. J. DYSON	Members.
MR. W. BANKS GWYTHER	Members.
MR. F. G. WIGLEY	Secretary.

On the 4th June, 1897, Mr. W. R. Bright was appointed to be a member vice Mr. Williams who had proceeded on furlough. Mr. F. Peacock acted as Secretary from the 6th May to the 30th June, 1897, during Mr. Wigley's employment on other work. There have been no other changes in the personnel of the Commission.

Duties of Commission.

2. The duties of the Commission, as described in the Resolution of the 6th April, 1897, may be stated as follows:—

(1) to inquire into the history and operation of the statute-law and bye-laws for regulating the construction of buildings, the formation of streets, and the protection of streets from encroachment, in Calcutta;

(2) to ascertain in what particulars (if any) such law and bye-laws have proved defective;

(3) to inquire whether new building regulations are needed for Calcutta, and, if so, whether a Building Act is necessary, or whether the case can be met by amending the existing law;

(4) to consider whether different sets of building regulations are not desirable for different quarters of the town, looking to the local circumstances of the different areas;

(5) if new building regulations be found necessary, to ascertain what changes in the existing law are needed, with special reference to—

(a) fixing the minimum width of public streets,

(b) limiting the height of houses in relation to the width of the streets on which they stand,

(c) controlling the construction of brick buildings on bustee lands,

(d) fixing the minimum size of courtyards within houses, and

(e) fixing the minimum space to be left between the backs of houses for the purpose of ventilation;

(Preliminary.)

(6) to consider to what extent the principles recognised in European enactments relating to town buildings require to be modified with reference to the soil, climate and rainfall of Calcutta, the prevailing diseases, and the habits of all classes of the population ;

(7) to inquire into the desirability of opening out congested tracts in Calcutta, and to ascertain the most feasible plan for opening out such tracts ; and

(8) to inquire whether the special circumstances of Calcutta call for any modification of the ordinary law of land acquisition.

Main object of Commission's inquiries.

3. The intimate connection between defective dwelling-houses and spaces and epidemic disease was mentioned in the Resolution, and reference was made to the spread of plague in Western India, to the extent to which overcrowding prevails in Calcutta, and to the fact that the method of construction of buildings in the older part of the town impedes or renders impossible any effective conservancy. It was, in short, mainly in the interests of the public health that the Commission was called into existence.

General directions to Commission.

4. As regards the direction, character and limits of their inquiries, the Commission were given a perfectly free hand. With reference to the opening out of congested tracts, the Commission were requested (with or without going into the details of any particular scheme of street improvement) to examine the general principles on which such operations ought to be conducted in order to make them financially as well as structurally successful. And it was explained that the issue which lies in fact at the root of the whole inquiry is to what extent and in what directions private rights may equitably be made to give way to public needs.

Directions as to earthquakes.

5. In consequence of the earthquake of the 12th June, 1897, which caused widespread damage to buildings in Calcutta, the Government of Bengal, in a letter dated the 21st idem,[1] requested the Commission to consider whether any regulations should be framed with the object of rendering buildings in the City less liable to be damaged by earthquakes. Again, in a memorandum dated the 9th August, 1897,[2] the Commission were requested by the Government to consider the question of amending the law so as to provide for the possible contingency of earthquakes, or to give the Municipal Commissioners wider powers than those which they at present possess for determining the nature of the repairs that should be executed after an earthquake.

Delay in submission of Commission's Report.

6. The Commission were, by the Resolution of the 6th April, 1897, requested to enter upon their labours at once, and to report to the Government the results of their deliberations within six months. An apology is due for the delay which has occurred in submitting this report, but it may be explained that some of the members of the Commission were absent from Calcutta for several months, and that, in consequence of all having other duties to attend to, it was found impossible to arrange for frequent sittings. Difficulty was also experienced in obtaining prompt replies to some of the letters issued by the Commission, and even now replies have not been received from some of the gentlemen who were asked to assist the Commission by an expression of their views.

Method of work.

7. The Commission have sat twenty-one times, to discuss the questions referred to them, to consider the materials supplied to or collected by them, and to take the evidence of witnesses. It was considered that the best way to obtain the assistance of gentlemen and associations having knowledge of the circumstances with which the Commission had to deal was to formulate a set of questions. This was done at an early stage, and the questions[3] were widely circulated. Many valuable opinions have been received in answer to the said questions. Some other circulars were sent to gentlemen and associations from whom it was desired to obtain opinions on particular points. As the papers received by the Commission in reply to their Circulars provided ample materials, it was only found necessary to take the evidence of three gentlemen, namely, Dr. Simpson, Dr. Banks and Babu Jadu Nath Sen. The various materials obtained and considered by the Commission, together with minutes of their proceedings, are appended hereto.

HISTORY AND OPERATION OF THE STATUTE-LAW AND BYE-LAWS FOR REGULATING THE CONSTRUCTION OF BUILDINGS, THE FORMATION OF STREETS, AND THE PROTECTION OF STREETS FROM ENCROACHMENT, IN CALCUTTA.

Statute-law.

Preliminary.

8. The statute-law relating to the construction of buildings, from the earliest times, has been collected and printed in Paper No. 1 in Appendix II to this report. The portions of that law which bear more particularly on the matters dealt with by the Commission, and the statute-law relating to the formation of streets and the protection of streets from encroachment, are as follows.

Incombustible roofs.

9. The earliest enactment for regulating the construction of buildings in Calcutta was Act XII of 1837, passed by the Governor-General of India in Council. The object of this Act was merely to secure the provision of an outer-roof of incombustible materials on houses and out-houses. The Act authorised Magistrates to impose a fine not exceeding Rs. 100 on the owner of any house or out-house built after the 1st November, 1837, and not duly provided with such a roof; empowered the Superintendent of Police to tender to the owner of any house or out-house built before the 1st November, 1837, the amount required for covering the same with such a roof; and authorised the same official to cause such a roof to be constructed in any case in which an owner had neglected to do so.

Inflammable roofs and walls.

10. (1) Act XIV of 1856, section 36, prohibited, under penalty of a daily fine not exceeding Rs. 10,—

(a) the use of grass, leaves, mats or other inflammable material for the external roofs or walls of huts or other buildings erected in the future, and

(b) the continued use, except with the written consent of the Commissioners, of such materials in such buildings erected in the past which were contiguous to or adjoined any other building.

(2) Bengal Act VI of 1863, section 142, and Bengal Act IV of 1876, section 211, contained similar provisions.

(3) Bengal Act II of 1888, section 224, re-enacted the former law, with some modifications.

Erection and alteration of buildings.

11. (1) Act II of 1848, section 18,—

(a) required 14 days' notice to be given to the Commissioners before beginning to dig or lay the foundations of any new house, or to rebuild any house; and

(b) provided that every such foundation should be laid at such level as the Commissioners' Surveyor should direct.

(2) Act XII of 1852, section 40, repeated section 18 of Act II of 1848 with some modifications.

(3) Act XIV of 1856, section 54, provided that, before beginning to build or re-build a house, notice should be given to the Commissioners and a plan submitted showing the levels at which it was proposed to lay the foundation and lowest floor. Section 55 allowed the Commissioners a period of 14 days for signifying their disapproval of the proposed levels and fixing other levels; section 56 empowered them to alter or demolish a building within the same period if no notice had been sent or if the building had been constructed at disapproved levels; and section 57 authorised the builder to proceed according to the plan sent in if the Commissioners failed to act within that period.

(4) Bengal Act VI of 1863, sections 160 to 163, and Bengal Act IV of 1876, sections 268 to 271, contained similar provisions, the latter Act however dealing with width as well as levels of foundations.

(5) Act XIV of 1856, section 52, prohibited the erection of buildings upon a lower level than would allow of the drainage being led into a public sewer or into some place into which the Commissioners were empowered to empty their sewers.

(History and operation of the statute-law and bye-laws for regulating the construction of buildings, the formation of streets, and the protection of streets from encroachment, in Calcutta.)

(6) Bengal Act VI of 1863, section 158, and Bengal Act IV of 1876, section 275, contained similar provisions.

(7) The present Act (Bengal Act II of 1888)—

(a) by section 235, provides that before beginning to build a new house, or to convert a hut or temporary structure into a house, a site plan shall be submitted to the Commissioners and their sanction to the site obtained, the Commissioners being bound to approve or disapprove of the site within 30 days;

(b) by section 236, provides that before beginning to build a new house on a site approved under section 235, or to re-build or materially alter the structure of any house, an application shall be made to the Commissioners, describing the building, stating its dimensions and the purposes for which it is intended, and giving a plan of the building and other details;

(c) by section 237, requires the Commissioners within 30 days from receipt of such application either to sanction or to disallow the building, or to call for further information in respect of certain details, and authorises the Commissioners to reject any plan, section or description unless signed by a competent builder or surveyor;

(d) by section 238, requires the Commissioners, within 30 days from receipt of details required under section 237, either to approve of the proposed building, or to disapprove of it for certain specified reasons, and provides that, if the Commissioners so disapprove of the building, it shall not be proceeded with until their requirements are met;

(e) by section 239, allows the simultaneous submission of site-plan, application, plans and details in respect of a new house, with the proviso that the prescribed period of 30 days shall not commence to run until the site has been approved, and that, if work be not commenced within one year from date of approval, it shall not be begun without submitting a fresh application;

(f) by section 240, authorises the Commissioners to demolish any building which has been commenced without sending in a site plan or without obtaining their approval to the site plan;

(g) by section 241, authorises the Commissioners to demolish or alter any building or alteration which is commenced—

(i) without sending in an application, or

(ii) without waiting the prescribed period of 30 days, or

(iii) otherwise than in accordance with the information furnished by the builder, or

(iv) in contravention of any lawful orders issued by the Commissioners;

(h) by section 242, authorises fines for building a new house without sending in the prescribed site-plan, or for building, re-building or materially altering the structure of any house without making the prescribed application;

(i) by section 243, lays down, in respect of buildings which it is proposed to construct under section 236, certain requirements and prohibitions as to levels and width of foundation, level for facilitating drainage, height of plinth, privies, ventilation and free circulation of air; and

(j) by section 244, authorises building or re-building to be proceeded with if the Commissioners fail to pass orders within the prescribed period of 30 days.

(History and operation of the statute-law and bye-laws for regulating the construction of buildings, the formation of streets, and the protection of streets from encroachment, in Calcutta.)

12. (1) Act XIV of 1856, section 50, empowered the Commissioners to control the erection of buildings over sewers or drains. Building over sewer or drain.

(2) Bengal Act VI of 1863, section 156, and Bengal Act IV of 1876, section 274, contained similar provisions.

(3) The present Act (Bengal Act II of 1888), section 243, clause (d), re-enacts the former law.

13. (1) Act XII of 1852, section 10, empowered the Commissioners or their surveyor to secure the demolition or repair of any house, building or wall, or anything affixed thereto, when in a ruinous state or likely to fall. Notice was to be given to the owner or occupier to demolish or repair, and in his default the Commissioners themselves were empowered to take the necessary action, all expenses incurred being recoverable from the owner. Ruinous buildings, etc.

(2) Act XIV of 1856, section 37, Bengal Act VI of 1863, section 143, and Bengal Act IV of 1876, section 266, contained similar provisions.

(3) The present Act (Bengal Act II of 1888), section 233, re-enacted the former law, and declared that sections 207 and 208 [summarised in paragraphs 25 (5) and 20 (8), infra] shall apply to houses demolished or repaired under these powers.

14. (1) Act XIV of 1856, section 90, authorised the Commissioners to repair, protect or enclose any building, tank, etc., which was, for want of sufficient repair, protection or enclosure, dangerous to passengers. Dangerous buildings, etc.

(2) Bengal Act VI of 1863, section 195, and Bengal Act IV of 1876, section 262, contained similar provisions.

(3) The present Act (Bengal Act II of 1888), section 231, re-enacted the former law.

15. (1) Act XIV of 1856, section 22, required notice to be given to the Commissioners before erecting a hut or range or block of huts in or near any street on ground not previously built upon, and gave the Commissioners power to require such huts to be built so as to stand— Erection and alteration of huts.

(a) in regular lines, with a free passage or way in front of such width as to secure ventilation and facilitate scavenging, and

The section further empowered the Commissioners to secure the demolition of huts erected without notice or otherwise than as required by them.

(2) Bengal Act VI of 1863, section 128, contained similar provisions.

(3) Bengal Act IV of 1876, section 277, required notice to be given to the Commissioners before erecting a hut or a range or block of huts or sheds, or before adding a hut or shed to any range or block existing at the commencement of the Act, and gave the Commissioners power to require such huts or sheds to be built so as—

(i) to stand in regular lines, with a free passage or way, in front of and between every two lines, of such width as to secure ventilation and facilitate scavenging;

(ii) to have the necessary number of privies and the necessary means of drainage;

(iii) to stand at such level as would admit of such drainage; and

(iv) to have a plinth of at least two feet above the level of the nearest public street.

(4) Section 278 of the same Act empowered the Commissioners to cause the demolition of huts or sheds erected without notice or otherwise than as required by them, and section 279 provided pecuniary penalties.

(5) Bengal Act VI of 1881, section 20, declared that the powers given to the Commissioners by Bengal Act IV of 1876, section 277, should be exercised within 14 days after receipt of the notice prescribed by that section.

(6) The present Act (Bengal Act II of 1888),—

(i) by section 247, provides that before beginning to build, re-build or add to any hut, an application shall be submitted to the Commissioners, together with a ground-plan, the Commissioners

(History and operation of the statute-law and bye-laws for regulating the construction of buildings, the formation of streets, and the protection of streets from encroachment, in Calcutta.)

being bound within 14 days either to approve of the proposed work or to disapprove of it for certain specified reasons; and provides also that if the proposal is approved the work must be done within six months, and if disapproved the work shall not be commenced until the plan has been modified as the Commissioners may deem necessary;

(ii) by section 248, authorises the Commissioners to demolish or alter any hut or addition which has been built (i) without making the prescribed application, or (ii) without obtaining the Commissioners' approval;

(iii) by section 249, authorises fines for building, re-building or adding to a hut in contravention of section 247;

(iv) by section 250, authorises building or re-building to be proceeded with if the Commissioners fail to pass orders within the prescribed period of 14 days.

Block of huts causing risk of disease.

16. (1) Act XIV of 1856, section 23, authorised the Commissioners to enforce measures for the avoidance of risk of disease to the inhabitants or the neighbourhood arising from a block of huts being huddled together, or being without drainage and being so situated as to make scavenging impracticable. The procedure prescribed was for the Commissioners to affix a notice requiring the owner or occupier to take measures for the avoidance of such risk, and, in default of such owner or occupier, for the Commissioners themselves to pull down the huts or take such other measures as they might consider necessary.

(2) Bengal Act VI of 1863, section 129, contained similar provisions.

(3) Bengal Act IV of 1876, sections 280 to 283, contained similar provisions, but gave the Commissioners power to take action only at a special meeting and upon the report of two medical officers whom they were empowered to depute to make an inspection. It was further provided by sections 284 to 286 of the same Act that the Local Government might take action in default of the Commissioners. By section 283A of the same Act (which was inserted by Bengal Act VI of 1881, section 21), the Commissioners were given an alternative power, acting with the sanction of the Local Government, to acquire the land occupied by an insanitary block of huts, to frame a scheme for the improvement of the area, and to sell or let the land to any person undertaking to carry out such scheme, or to engage with any person to carry out the scheme, or to carry out the scheme themselves. The Commissioners were further empowered to borrow money for purchasing land and carrying out a scheme of improvement as aforesaid. And restrictions were imposed on the length of time for which the Commissioners might keep possession of land acquired by them under the section.

Re-modelling of bustees.

17. The present Act (Bengal Act II of 1888) contains provisions for the re-modelling of bustees, which may be summarised as follows:—

(a) By section 251 the Commissioners are empowered, subject to certain restrictions, to define and alter the external limits of any bustee.

(b) By section 252 the Commissioners may require the owners of a bustee to prepare a joint plan showing (i) the manner in which the bustee should be laid out, with the huts standing in regular lines and with a free passage in front of and behind each line for ventilation and scavenging purposes, and (ii) the proposed drains, the water-supply, the bathing arrangements, privy accommodation, roads, common lands, &c. The Commissioners may modify such plan, and when they approve of it it becomes a standard plan. No hut may be built, re built, or added to, after a plan has been called for, until a standard plan has been prepared.

(c) By section 253 the Commissioners themselves are authorised to prepare a standard plan at the cost of the owners of the bustee.

History and operation of the statute-law and bye-laws for regulating the construction of buildings, the formation of streets, and the protection of streets from encroachment, in Calcutta.)

(d) By section 254 provision is made for hearing and disposing of objections by bustee owners to the standard plan.

(e) By section 255 the building or re-building of or adding to huts is prohibited, except in accordance with the standard plan, and provision is made for the re-building of existing huts in accordance with the plan, compensation being paid to the owners. The Commissioners are further empowered to require the owners of a bustee to carry out improvements to meet the plan.

(f) By section 256 a bustee brought into conformity with a standard plan is to be deemed to be a re-modelled bustee.

Speedy improvement of bustees.

18. The Act further reproduces the provisions of Bengal Act IV of 1876, sections 280 to 283 and 283A [summarised in paragraph 16(3), supra], with modifications. The new sections may be summarised as follows:—

(a) Section 257 empowers the Commissioners to have a bustee inspected by two medical officers when they (the Commissioners) consider that by reason of the manner in which the huts are crowded together, or for any other reason, the bustee is in such an unhealthy condition that the procedure prescribed by sections 252 to 256 [summarised in paragraph 17, supra] would be too dilatory. The medical officers are to make a report on the sanitary condition of the bustee, to frame a standard plan of the bustee, and to certify which of the proposed works should be taken in hand forthwith and which of them should be deferred for action under sections 252 to 256.

(b) Section 258 authorises the Commissioners to modify and approve the said standard plan and to require the owners or occupiers of the huts, or the land-owner, to execute the works which the medical officers have certified should be taken in hand forthwith.

(c) Section 259 authorises the Commissioners to execute such works themselves, in default of the said owners or occupiers and at the expense of the land-owners.

(d) Section 260 contains provisions as to the disposal of the materials of huts pulled down in the course of executing such works.

(e) Section 261 authorises the Commissioners to acquire land other than bustee land in the course of executing such works.

(f) Section 262 declares that, when such works have been completed, section 255 shall apply to the bustee until it is brought into complete conformity with the standard plan approved under section 258, after which the bustee shall be deemed to be a re-modelled bustee.

(g) Section 268 gives the Commissioners an alternative power, acting with the sanction of the Local Government, to acquire the bustee, and to sell or let the land to any person undertaking to carry out the standard plan, or to carry out the standard plan themselves. Restrictions are imposed on the length of time for which the Commissioners may keep possession of land acquired by them under the section, and it is declared that, when a bustee has been improved under the section, it shall be deemed to be a re-modelled bustee.

Further provisions as to bustees.

19. The Act further contains the following provisions, which are new.

(a) Section 263. Standard plans, whether prepared under section 252, section 253, section 257 or section 268, shall not, without the consent of the owners, show more than ⅛th of the area of the bustee as roads, or more than ½ as open lands, excluding tanks which are not to be filled up. And they must, as far as possible, provide for one or more huts being completely contained in each separate plot of bustee land; also for a due proportion of roadway and open ground in each plot, compensation being paid where more than the prescribed proportion of land is taken from any plot for roadway or open ground.

(History and operation of the statute-law and bye-laws for regulating the construction of buildings, the formation of streets, and the protection of streets from encroachment, in Calcutta)

(b) Section 264 empowers any owner of bustee land by notice to the Commissioners to take it out of the category of bustee land.

(c) Section 265 provides that private roads shown in a standard plan shall remain the property of their owners, but shall be kept open to the Commissioners' conservancy carts and to the use of tenants of the bustee.

(d) Section 266 provides that notices under section 264 shall not, without the express consent of the Commissioners, affect any road shown in a standard plan.

(e) Section 267 secures to owners of land and huts the right to occupy roads, common ground, &c., shown in the standard plan.

Formation of streets by Municipal Commissioners.

20. (1) The earliest enactment which dealt with the formation of streets in Calcutta was Act XVI of 1847, passed by the Governor-General of India in Council. Section 15 of that Act directed that the municipal funds should be applied inter alia to the opening of streets and squares in crowded parts of the town, and the removal of obstructions to the free circulation of air, but no detailed procedure was laid down for effecting such improvements.

(2) Such a procedure was provided by Act II of 1848. Section 11 of that Act recited—

(a) that it was essential to the health and convenience of the inhabitants that straight and spacious streets and thoroughfares should be continued where they had been begun, and should in other cases be opened out so as to perforate the mass of buildings in the town in straight lines from south to north, from east to west, from south-east to north-west, and from south-west to north-west, large open spaces being left from which the said streets should diverge in lines without interruption to the river and to the surrounding open country, and

(b) that it was necessary that the narrow lanes and gullies inhabited by the native residents should be converted into straight and spacious streets and thoroughfares form d as aforesaid, compensation being paid to owners of buildings.

The section then proceeded to require the Commissioners to have plans of streets, thoroughfares and open spaces made; to select one of such plans and submit it to the Government with their recommendations, and to carry the selected plan into execution if sanctioned by the Government, and so far as funds and circumstances should permit. If any plan selected by the Commissioners was rejected by the Government, a new plan was to be submitted, and so again until a plan was finally sanctioned by the Government.

Section 12 of the Act required the Commissioners to purchase buildings and land for carrying out the plan, and left them a free hand in executing the necessary works.

(3) Act X of 1852, section 65, merely repeated the provisions of Act XVI of 1847, section 15 [summarised in paragraph 20(1), supra].

(4) Act XII of 1852, section 4, authorised the Commissioners, with the consent of the Governor of Bengal, to lay out, make, build and construct streets, to alter and widen narrow streets, and to turn, divert, discontinue, or stop up streets, due compensation being paid to owners of land. It was, however, declared that neither the Commissioners nor any one else should make or lay out any new street unless the same be, if a carriage road, at least 50 feet wide, or, if not a carriage road, at least 20 feet wide, the drains at the side of the street being excluded in both cases.

(5) The next Act was Act XIV of 1856. Section 6 of this Act authorised the Commissioners, with the consent of the Local Government, to lay out and make new streets, to turn, divert, discontinue or stop up any public street, and to widen, open, enlarge or otherwise improve any such street, due compensation being paid to owners and occupiers of land and buildings.

History and operation of the statute-law and bye-laws for regulating the construction of buildings, the formation of streets, and the protection of streets from encroachment, in Calcutta.)

Section 7 authorised the application of the principle of recoupment with the consent of the Local Government.

Section 8 authorised the Commissioners to agree with owners of land for the absolute purchase thereof for the purpose of laying out and making new streets or of widening, enlarging, or otherwise improving any public street or road.

(6) Bengal Act VI of 1863, sections 110 to 112, contained similar provisions.

(7) Bengal Act IV of 1876, section 190, contained similar provisions, save that the consent of the Local Government was not required, and that the principle of recoupment was not authorised.

(8) The provisions of the present Act (Bengal Act II of 1888) as to the formation of streets by the Municipal Commissioners are as follow:—

(i) Section 37 declares it to be the duty of the Commissioners, inter alia to open out and improve bustees and to make adequate and suitable provision for the regulation of new streets, while section 36 (7) declares that the municipal property and funds shall be applicable, inter alia, to the construction and alteration of streets.

(ii) Section 203 empowers the Commissioners to lay out and make new streets, to turn, divert, discontinue, or close any public street or part thereof, and to widen, open, enlarge, or otherwise improve any such street.

(iii) Section 204 empowers the Commissioners to acquire land and buildings for improving or making any public street, and authorises the application of the principle of recoupment.

(iv) Section 208 empowers the Commissioners to prepare plans of projected public streets, showing alignment, intended regular line, and other details, and declares that section 207 [as to line of street—summarised in paragraph 25 (5), infra] shall apply to such streets.

Control by Municipal Commissioners over formation of streets by private individuals.

21. (1) Act XIV of 1856, section 21, gave the Commissioners powers of control over the making of new streets by private individuals, as regards level and width. Their powers were to be exercised within one month after receipt of notice.

(2) Bengal Act VI of 1863, section 127, and Bengal Act IV of 1876, section 200, contained similar provisions.

(3) The present Act (Bengal Act II of 1888), section 213, contains similar provisions, and gives the Commissioners powers of control over the drainage arrangements as well as the level and width of such streets.

Prohibition and removal of projections or obstructions in streets.

22. (1) Act II of 1848, section 10, authorised a fine of Rs. 50 for causing any obstruction to, or making any encroachment upon, any street.

(2) Act XII of 1852, section 41, authorised a fine of Rs. 50, with one month's imprisonment in default of payment, for—

(a) allowing any verandah, balcony, &c, to project into a public street or place at a height of less than 11 feet or to a distance exceeding 4 feet;

(b) setting up a verandah, balcony, &c, to project into the road, without a license from the Commissioners;

(c) placing any board, scaffolding, post, &c., in a public street, without or in contravention of a license granted by the Commissioners; or

(3) Act XII of 1852, section 23, empowered the Commissioners or their Surveyor to remove any wall, fence, rail, post, or other obstruction or encroachment in any street or in or over any drain, sewer, or aqueduct.

(History and operation of the statute law and bye-laws for regulating the construction of buildings, the formation of streets, and the protection of streets from encroachment, in Calcutta)

(4) Act XIV of 1856, section 19, authorised a fine of Rs. 100 for the erection of any wall, fence, rail, post or other obstruction or encroachment in any public street, or in or over any drain, sewer or aqueduct along the side of any such street, and empowered the Commissioners to remove such obstruction or encroachment at the expense of the person who erected it.

(5) Bengal Act VI of 1863, section 125, contained similar provisions.

(6) Bengal Act IV of 1876, section 199, also contained similar provisions, the Commissioners being further empowered to remove any such obstruction or encroachment erected subsequent to the 1st June, 1863.

(7) Act XIV of 1856, section 33, empowered the Commissioners to secure the removal or alteration of any projection, encroachment or obstruction erected or placed in the future against or in front of a building. It was provided, however, that roofs, eaves, sunshades, &c., might be projected 3 feet over a street at not less than 12 feet above the surface.

Section 34 of the same Act empowered the Commissioners to secure the removal or alteration of projections, &c., erected or placed in the past against or in front of a building in a public street, paying compensation, if the projection, &c., had been lawfully made.

(8) Bengal Act VI of 1863, sections 139 and 140, contained similar provisions, but the proviso authorising 3 feet projections was not re-enacted.

(9) Bengal Act IV of 1876, section 208, empowered the Commissioners to secure the removal or alteration of any projection, encroachment or obstruction erected or placed after the 1st June, 1863, in front of a house; and section 209 of the same Act empowered them to secure the removal or alteration of projections, &c., erected or placed before the said date against or in front of any house in a public street, paying compensation if the projection, &c., had been lawfully made.

(10) The present Act (Bengal Act II of 1888).—

(i) by section 212, re-enacted the provisions of Act XIV of 1856, section 19; and (ii) by sections 221 and 222, re-enacted the provisions of Bengal Act IV of 1876, sections 208 and 209.

Permission of projections over streets.

23. (1) Act XIV of 1856, section 35, empowered the Commissioners to permit owners or occupiers of buildings in public streets not less than 25 feet wide to put up verandahs, balconies, sunshades, weather-frames, &c., to project from any upper-storey over the street, to an extent not exceeding 4 feet, or in special cases 5 feet, from the foundation.

(2) Bengal Act VI of 1863 section 141, contained similar provisions, but the restriction as to the width of the street was not re-enacted, and a projection of 5 feet was allowed in all cases.

(3) Bengal Act IV of 1876, section 210, repeated the provisions of Bengal Act VI of 1863, section 141, but omitted the direction as to the permissible width of a projection.

(4) The present Act (Bengal Act II of 1888), by section 223, re-enacted the provisions of Bengal Act IV of 1876, section 210, and empowers the Commissioners to impose conditions on the erection of verandahs, &c., and to remove such verandahs, &c., on breach of conditions so imposed.

Doors or gates not to open outwards on street.

24. (1) Act XII of 1852, section 48, prohibited the future placing of doors or gates so as to open outwards on a street, and empowered the Commissioners to alter any door or gate so placed before the passing of the Act.

(2) These provisions were repeated in an amplified form by Act XIV of 1856, sections 30 and 31, and Bengal Act VI of 1863, sections 136 and 137.

(3) Bengal Act IV of 1876, section 206, provided that all doors, gates, and ground-floor windows opening upon a public street, whether hung or placed before or after the commencement of the Act, should be hung or placed so as not to open outwards and cause obstruction, and empowered the Commissioners to secure the alteration of any door, &c., hung or placed otherwise.

(4) Section 219 of the present Act (Bengal Act II of 1888), re-enacted section 206 of Bengal Act IV of 1876, with slight modifications.

(History and operation of the statute-law and bye-laws for regulating the construction of buildings, the formation of streets, and the protection of streets from encroachment, in Calcutta.)

25. (1) Act XIV of 1856, section 26, authorized the Commissioners to allow any building to be set forward for improving the line of a public street.

Line of streets.

(2) Bengal Act VI of 1863, section 132, and Bengal Act IV of 1876, section 264, contained similar provisions.

(3) Act XIV of 1856, section 27, authorized the Commissioners to require a projecting building to be set back to or towards the regular line of a public street or the line of the adjoining houses or buildings, when the building had been taken down, full compensation being given to the owner.

(4) Bengal Act VI of 1863, section 133, and Bengal Act IV of 1876, section 265, contained similar provisions.

(5) The present Act (Bengal Act II of 1888),—

(a) by section 206, authorizes the Commissioners to prescribe a regular line for a public street;

(b) by section 207, re-enacted the former law as to setting buildings back, but authorizes action being taken when a building has either fallen down or been burnt down or been taken down; and

(c) by section 209, re-enacted the former law as to setting buildings forward.

Bye-laws.

26. None of the Acts prior to Bengal Act II of 1888 gave any specific power to make bye-laws for regulating either the construction of buildings or the formation of streets. Some bye-laws were, however, framed for the guidance of municipal employés in working section 277 of the Act of 1876, relating to the erection of huts. These bye-laws are printed on pages 82 to 84 of Mr. O. C. Dutt's "Hand book of the Rules, Bye-laws, Regulations, &c., of the Calcutta Municipality," published in 1886, and are reproduced, with but little alteration, as bye-laws 10 to 19 made under clause (e) of section 412 of Bengal Act II of 1888.

Bye-laws prior to 1888.

27. By clause (e) of section 412 of Bengal Act II of 1888, power is conferred on the Commissioners to make bye-laws with regard to the "height and mode of construction of buildings," and, by clause (f) of the same section, power is given to make bye-laws with regard to "ventilation, and the extent to which space must be left for the free circulation of air as required by the provisions of section 243." These are the only powers given by the present Act for the making of bye-laws as to the construction of buildings, and there are no powers for making bye-laws as to the formation of streets.

Powers given by Bengal Act II of 1888 for making bye-laws.

28. The existing bye-laws may be summarised as follows:—

Existing bye-laws.

(1) Bye-law (e) 1 declares that the re-building of an old masonry building shall be regarded as the erection of a new building if more than half of the old building has been taken down.

(2) Bye-laws (e) 2 to 7 contain directions as to foundations, walls, footings, the provision of a damp-proof course, support to beams and girders, and the use of incombustible materials for roofs. No. 5 incorporates by reference certain bye-laws of the Metropolitan Board of Works relating to walls and height of storeys.

(3) Bye-law (e) 8 requires a declaration to be made when a proposed building or hut is intended to be used for an oil, flour or soorkey mill, or an iron foundry.

(4) Bye-law (e) 9 directs that buildings and huts shall be constructed in accordance with the plan approved by the Commissioners.

(5) Bye-laws (e) 10 to 21 regulate the erection of new huts in bustees. Nos. 10 to 13, 15 and 16 contain directions as to building huts in lines and as to the preservation of roadways, paths and spaces; No. 14 directs that no new hut shall, without special sanction, be erected at more than 100 feet from a road; No. 17 directs provision of privies; No. 18 regulates the height of the plinth; Nos. 19 and 20 deal with drainage, and No. 21 declares that the approval of the Commissioners shall be required to the re-building of the sides and roof of a hut.

(6) Bye-laws (f), 1 to 7, deal with masonry buildings to be newly erected on sites previously unbuilt upon.

No. 1 regulates construction on sites filled up with refuse.

No 2 prohibits more than two storeys abutting on a street less than 40 feet wide except with the special consent of the Commissioners.

No. 3 requires, as to dwellings,—

(a) that the whole of at least one side of every room shall either be an external wall or abut on an interior open space or on a verandah;

(b) that such interior space shall have an area equal to not less than ¼th of the aggregate floor area of all the rooms abutting thereon, and shall not be in any direction less than 6 feet across;

(c) that such external wall shall, where it faces a street less than 16 feet wide, have between it and the boundary line of the premises an open space not less than 2 feet wide;

(d) that there must be a space at the back, and if not attached to the adjacent premises then at the sides also, of 4 feet along the whole length between the building and the boundary line of the premises, or, if the boundary line is a wall, then between the building and the inner edge of that wall; and

(e) that every prescribed open space, whether exterior or interior, must be kept free from any erection other than a boundary wall, and must be open to the sky, and must be kept open to access from each end.

No. 4 requires that every such open space must be raised at least one foot above the level of the nearest street, so as to admit of easy drainage.

Nos. 5 to 7 require that every room intended to be used as a dwelling-room, except rooms on the roof, shall be in every part 10 feet high, shall have a clear superficial area of not less than 80 square feet, and shall be ventilated by doors or windows opening directly into the external air or into a verandah, and having an aggregate opening of not less than ⅕th of the superficial area of the side of the room which faces an open space.

(7) Bye-law (f) 8 authorises the Commissioners to exempt from the provisions of all or any of the preceding bye-laws (e) and (f) any particular building or class of buildings to which the same may appear to them to be inapplicable.

INADEQUACY OF PAST AND PRESENT LAW, AND CONTINUANCE OF EVILS.

Inadequacy of law prior to 1888 as to construction of masonry buildings

29. The foregoing abstract shows that until the year 1888 no real attempt was made to control the construction of masonry buildings in Calcutta. Useful provisions were enacted for preventing the use of inflammable materials in the construction of roofs and external walls, and the placing of buildings over sewers was controlled; but beyond these points the powers conferred upon the Commissioners were of the most meagre description. Between the years 1848 and 1856 the Commissioners had authority merely to fix the level of foundations. From 1856 to 1876 they had no power beyond fixing the levels of the foundations and lowest floor, and in the latter year the only additional power conferred upon them was to fix the width of foundations. These were the only powers exercisable by the Commissioners in the case of new buildings. In the case of buildings in a ruinous or dangerous state they had powers of demolition and repair.

30. In regard to huts, the Commissioners had fuller powers. The Acts of 1856 and 1863 empowered them to enforce the erection of huts in regular lines, with proper passages for ventilation and scavenging, and at such level as would admit of sufficient drainage; but those powers could only be exercised where the ground had not already been built upon. The Act of 1876 removed the restriction just mentioned, and also empowered the Commissioners to require the provision of privies, drainage and a properly raised plinth. Special powers have also been enjoyed by the Commissioners from 1856 onwards for demolishing or otherwise dealing with blocks of huts found to be in an insanitary condition.

Law prior to 1888 as to erection, &c., of huts.

31. As regards the formation of streets, the necessity for empowering the Commissioners to open out streets was recognised by an Act passed so long ago as the year 1847. In the following year an important declaration was made by the Legislature as to the necessity for forming straight and spacious streets and thoroughfares and breaking up narrow lanes and gullies, and the Commissioners were required to make plans and execute the necessary works for these purposes, so far as funds and circumstances should permit. The Act of 1848 was, however, repealed in 1852, and from that year up to 1888 the Commissioners were merely empowered to lay out, alter and close streets. Between 1852 and 1876 those powers could only be exercised with the consent of the Local Government. From 1856 to 1876 the principle of recoupment was authorised, but it was not re-established until 1888.

Law prior to 1888 as to formation of streets.

From 1856 to 1876 the Commissioners were empowered to control the making of new streets by private individuals, but their control extended only to level and width.

From 1852 to 1856 streets (whether made by the Commissioners or by private individuals) were required to be at least 50 feet wide, or, if not intended for carriage traffic, then at least 20 feet wide (the drains at the side of the street being excluded from these measurements); but this provision was repealed in the latter year.

32. For the protection of streets from encroachment there has been legislative provision of gradually increasing efficiency from the year 1848 onwards, while from 1856 there have been provisions for improving the line of streets by setting buildings forward or back.

Law prior to 1888 as to protection of streets from encroachment.

33. It was not until the year 1888 that the statute law was substantially improved on the foregoing points, and it was not until that year that the Commissioners were given power to make bye-laws to supplement the statute-law. Both the new Act and the bye-laws are, however, drawn in such a manner that many of the improvements which they were intended to introduce have proved impossible of achievement.

Substantial improvement in the law not effected until 1888.

34. The omission of the Legislature to control the construction of houses and other masonry buildings in this city until 1888 is the more extraordinary when we find that, early in the century, the attention of the Government had been called to the necessity for suitable regulations. So far back as the 6th of June, 1803, the then Governor-General of Fort William, the Marquis of Wellesley, in a minute of that date, wrote as follows[1] :—

Former representations to Government as to necessity for proper building regulations.

"The increasing extent and population of Calcutta, the capital of the British Empire in India, and the seat of the Supreme Authority, require the serious attention of Government. It is now become absolutely necessary to provide permanent means of promoting the health, the comfort, and the convenience of the numerous inhabitants of this great Town."

Amongst the defects which His Lordship enumerated as contributing to the unhealthiness of Calcutta, he mentioned—

"the houses in those quarters of the Town occupied principally by the native inhabitants, having been built without order or regularity, and the streets and lanes having been formed without attention to health, convenience, or safety of the inhabitants, to which cause must be chiefly ascribed the frequency of fires, by which many valuable lives had been annually lost and property to a great extent had been destroyed."

"It is a primary duty of Government," His Lordship continues, "to provide for the health, safety, and convenience of the inhabitants of this great Town by establishing a comprehensive system for the improvement of roads, streets, public drains and water-courses, and by fixing permanent rules for the construction and distribution of the houses and public edifices, and for the regulation of nuisances of every description.

"The appearance and beauty of the Town are inseparably connected with the health, safety and convenience of the inhabitants, and every improvement which shall introduce a greater degree of order, symmetry, and magnificence in the streets, roads, ghats, and wharfs, public edifices and private habitations, will tend to ameliorate the climate and secure and promote every object of a just and salutary system of police. * * *"

Improvement of roads under auspices of Lord Wellesley.

35. It is recorded that, under the auspices of Lord Wellesley, all the roads in and about Calcutta were greatly enlarged, widened, and made conducive to public convenience and health, but no permanent or other regulation was fixed during His Lordship's tenure of office for the construction and arrangement of houses.

Committee of 1836.

36. In 1836, in pursuance of a recommendation made by Lord Auckland, the then Governor-General of India, a Committee was formed for the purpose of, amongst other things, framing a plan of local management and taxation for matters connected with the health, comfort and improvement of the Town of Calcutta. In one of the reports made by that Committee, the personal inspection of the portion of the town which is now included in Wards Nos. 7 and 8 was described by Sir John Grant and Mr. Rustomjee Cowasjee, members of the Committee, in the following words :—

"We have passed through the greater part of the roads and lanes in the native part of the town bounded by Lall Bazar, Clive Street, Muchooa Bazar, and College Street. Setting out from Tank Square, we passed through Old China Bazar, passed the Armenian Church up to Burra Bazar, through all the windings of which we passed as far as the Mint, from thence to the Portuguese Church, Moorghehatta, along the Chitpur Road to Muchooa Bazar, and back through Colootollah Road. Through several of the lanes and alleys we could not pass, the same not being wide enough for the admission of any wheeled carriage or cart. The whole of this space, with the exception of some places near College Street, is most thickly inhabited; the houses and shops adjoin; and though not lofty are sufficiently high to exclude sun and air, the free circulation of the latter of which is effectually prevented by the extreme narrowness, sharp angles, and perpetual tortuosities of the streets, few streets being more than a quarter of a mile in length in the same direction, and many not so much ; none of the streets, except those to be presently mentioned, much exceeding twelve feet between the front walls of the opposite houses, many being much narrower ; and of this space, from one foot to one and-a-half foot in width, being occupied by a kennel on each side. These kennels are apparently two and-a-half feet deep, with brick sides, the bottoms filled with perfectly stagnant water and filth ; and the tops covered, at distances of from one foot to two feet and two and-a-half feet apart, with buildings from six to ten feet in length, which in a few places are the entrances to houses, but which in all other instances are the supports of platforms used as shops, which platforms are erected immediately over the kennel, from one foot to three feet above it, the space between the bridge and the platform being closed to the front, so that no part of the kennel is accessible for the purpose of cleansing it, but the above-mentioned intervals of one, two, or two and-a-half feet in length, at various distances of not less than six, or more than ten, feet from each other; while the whole stench freely escapes into the streets and houses.

The space above described is the most populous part of Calcutta, and forms the "chief seat of its wealth and place of the residence of all the native bankers, merchants and tradesmen of Calcutta."

In spite of these reports, nothing seems to have been done before the year 1863 to improve the portion of the town the state of which was thus described,[1] nor was any attempt made till then to prevent the condition of the remainder of the city becoming equally objectionable.

Present state of overcrowding.

37. Although much has been done under the powers conferred by the Acts of 1876 and 1888 to reduce the state of overcrowding described by Sir John Grant, by including the old surface drains in the road area and by opening out new streets, the action of the Corporation has been limited by the funds available, and many portions of the town are still greatly overcrowded. For a description of the present overcrowded state of the town as a whole, we beg to refer to the portions of the following documents which refer to that subject, namely :—

(a) the report addressed on the 28th October, 1896, to the Sanitary Commissioner for Bengal, by Drs. Vaughan, Deare, Peck, Dawes and Hay-Jagannadham [2] ;

(b) the reports by Dr. Pilgrim on the sanitation of Bhawanipur, Kidderpore and Watgunge, [3] and

(c) the extracts from Dr. Simpson's memorandum of the 23rd December, 1896, which are printed as Papers No. 19 in Appendix I to this Report.

Legislation of 1888.

38. In 1888, by Act II of the Acts of the Bengal Council of that year, what was intended to be a complete set of Building Regulations was enacted. We are asked to report on the operation of the building clauses of that Act, and of the bye-laws passed under the powers given by that Act.

Question whether buildings erected since 1888 are superior to those previously built.

39. There is a certain amount of difference of opinion as to whether buildings which have been erected since the passing of that Act are superior to those previously built.[1] In dealing with this question, we refrain from comparing the houses now being built with those which were built many years ago in parts of Calcutta where land was cheap, and where it was possible for the person building a new house to make ample provision for the admission of light and air. We can compare only the buildings constructed since April, 1889, the date on which the new Act came into force, with those which were built in recent times, but before that month. We are satisfied, on the evidence before us, that, in consequence of the provisions of the new Act and of the bye-laws passed thereunder, improvements have been made in the construction of houses; but, in consequence of defects in the Act and bye-laws and of difficulties in the working of them, to which we will hereafter refer, the improvements have not been so marked as might have been hoped.

Opinions of authorities consulted on that question.

40. Of those Associations and gentlemen who answered No. 19 of our Questions of the 3rd May, 1897, the British Indian Association, Brigade-Surgeon-Lieutenant-Colonel Joubert, Mr. Braunfeld, Messrs. Martin and Company, Babu Priyanath Mullick, Babu Jadu Nath Sen, Babu Koilas Chundra Bose, Babu Kanty Chunder Banerjee, Babu Radha Churn Pal and Moulvie Ahmud, Khan Bahadur, all speak to the present buildings being superior.

Dr. Banks and Babu Denendro Narain Roy say they are inferior. The former, however, says that the material of which houses are built now-a-days is better, but the walls are not so thick.

Dr. Simpson, in his answer to No. 19 of our Questions of the 3rd May, said that the passing of the Act of 1888 had not improved matters; but, when examined by us, he admitted that if the Act and bye-laws had not been passed building on sites formerly unbuilt upon would have been done in a more insanitary way, [2] and that to the extent to which the Act goes it is an improvement [3].

Dr. Bully Chunder Sen, Babu Satish Chandra Ghose and Rai Okhil Chunder Mukerji also consider that there has been no improvement. The Bengal Chamber of Commerce consider that there has been no material improvement [4]. The Calcutta Trades Association also take the view that there has been no improvement [5].

Mr. Broughton (the Administrator-General of Bengal) [6], Babu Nilamber Mukarji (the Vice-Chairman of the Calcutta Corporation) [7], Babu Mano Mohun

[4] Answer of Bengal Chamber of Commerce to Question No. 19 of the 3rd May, 1897:—

"Since the passing of Act II of 1888, there has been no material improvement in the construction of buildings. It is difficult to say whether buildings erected since the passing of this Act are superior or inferior to those previously built, but in the northern portion of the town, especially in Burra Bazar, there has apparently been no change for the better." (Paper No. 7 in Appendix V.)

[5] Answer of Calcutta Trades Association to Question No. 19 of the 3rd May, 1897:—

"Since the passing of Act II of 1888, there does not seem to have been any improvement in the construction of buildings. In many parts, we think, especially in the more congested portions, things are worse, land having increased so much in value that every foot is utilised now, overcrowding being the result." (Paper No. 16 in Appendix V.)

[6] Mr. Broughton's answer to Question No. 19 of the 3rd May, 1897:—

"I think that buildings erected since 1888 are better in some respects than earlier buildings—

(1) because of the restrictions placed upon building, &c., by the Act and bye-laws;

(2) because beams, iron and steel girders and burgahs are now used instead of wooden beams and burgahs.

I think that they are inferior to many of the older buildings—

(a) because the walls are not so thick; and

(b) because, under the system of sub-contracts, it is almost impossible to avoid imposition by the building contractors who do the work. Even the few European firms there are have not time to supervise efficiently the numerous buildings undertaken by them." (Paper No. 14 in Appendix V.)

[7] Babu Nilambur Mukarji's answer to Question No. 19 of the 3rd May, 1897:—

"Since the passing of the Act II of 1888, the buildings erected are superior to those previously built, having—

(a) generally more breathing space in the dwelling-rooms;

(b) wider and higher windows;

(c) surface drains in better working order in consequence of more frequent and extended use of Portland cement;

(d) higher plinths;

(e) most privies not being under dwelling-rooms;

(f) better finish in construction;

(g) better architectural decorations;

(h) more extended use of venetians;

(i) more extended use of iron in lieu of wood, thereby slightly diminishing danger from fire;

(j) diminution of the extent of surface drains carrying impurities.

Those buildings are, however, inferior to those previously built in having generally—

(1) a larger number of storeys in height, obstructing light and ventilation to the adjacent streets and to the spaces inside the houses;

(2) narrower court-yards;

[N.B.—The necessity for shortening the space in court-yards and availing of the space in height has been caused by the rise in value of land.]

(3) closer proximity of privies to dwelling-rooms." (Paper No. 34 in Appendix V.)

(Main defects in present Act and Bye-Laws.—Form of new legislation.—Whether different regulations for different quarters of the town are necessary.)

Ghose (Assistant Superintendent of Roads and Buildings), Dr. R. Sen (the Assistant Health Officer) and Dr. B. M. Sircar consider that in some respects the new houses are superior and in others inferior. The matters in respect of which Mr. Broughton considers the new buildings to be inferior are not matters dealt with by the Act or the bye-laws.

MAIN DEFECTS IN PRESENT ACT AND BYE-LAWS.

Main defects in the present Act and bye-laws.

41. Before dealing in detail with the alterations which we consider ought to be made in the existing law, we desire to report that the main defects which we find in the Act and bye-laws and in their working are as follow :—

(1) the absence of power to prevent the construction of buildings contrary to the regulations contained in the bye-laws;

(2) the want of effective powers of punishment for offences against the Act;

(3) the absence of any provision in the Act for the width of streets or for the height of houses;

(4) that much of the matter contained in the bye-laws would properly find its place in the Act;

(5) that the Building Committee of the Commissioners is too large a body for the purpose of dealing with questions relating to buildings;

(6) that bye-law (f) 8 [1] is too wide in its terms.

Complaint has also been made against the first proviso in section 235 of the Act, but provided that the Committee we recommend (see paragraph 44, infra) be appointed we see no objection to such a proviso.

FORM OF NEW LEGISLATION.

Form of the legislation now required.

42. To remedy these defects extensive amendments in the law will be required; but it would be possible, by amending Bengal Act II of 1888, to provide for all that is necessary. The question whether the alterations in the law should take the shape of a new Act, or should be introduced into the existing enactment, is one rather of form than of substance. The amendments which we are about to recommend are numerous, but they can conveniently be made by repealing the building sections [2] of the present Act and inserting new sections in their place.

As the regulation of streets and buildings will remain a part of the municipal system and, if our recommendations (see paragraph 44, infra) are accepted, will be placed under the control of a Committee to be composed of members of the Corporation, it will be more convenient that the rules governing the construction of buildings should remain as a part of the law which constitutes the Municipality.

A large majority of the persons whom we have consulted [3] are in favour of an amendment of the present Act in preference to the separation of the building law from the rest of the law relating to the Municipality, and we see no reason to differ from their views.

WHETHER DIFFERENT REGULATIONS FOR DIFFERENT QUARTERS OF THE TOWN ARE NECESSARY.

Whether different regulations for different quarters of the town are necessary.

43. We are asked to consider whether different sets of building regulations are not desirable for different quarters of the town. When we come to consider the question as to the possibility of framing a scheme for the laying out of the town, we will point out how differences will have to be made between areas which are now built upon and those which, as in some of the suburbs of the town, have as yet only small portions covered with masonry buildings; but we may say at once that the necessities of the several portions do not require any variations in the general elementary rules, which are as necessary for sanitation and ventilation in one part of the town as in another. The question will, however, be further dealt with in the Bill which, as stated in paragraph 143, infra, we intend to submit to the Government.

[1] Bye-law (f) 8 is as follows :—

"The Commissioners may exempt from the provisions of clause (e) or (f) any particular building or class of buildings to which the rules or any particular rule may appear to them to be inapplicable."

CHANGES NEEDED IN THE EXISTING LAW.

Committee for control of building and street regulations, etc.

44. We consider it to be of the utmost importance that the powers now possessed by the Commissioners to control the action of the Executive with regard to the erection of buildings, the enforcement of building regulations and the protection of streets from encroachment, together with such further powers in the same behalf as may be considered necessary, should be entrusted to a small Committee, to whom only an appeal should lie from the action of the Executive officers. This Committee should be entirely independent of the general body of the Commissioners, and their decisions, when in accordance with law, should be final. The formation of new streets and the carrying out of other schemes of improvement out of funds provided by the Corporation should also be in the hands of this Committee. We think that the Commissioners in meeting should have power to settle the amount to be spent and to impose such conditions as they may think fit on the expenditure of such funds, but that the land should be acquired and all the work should be executed under the direction of the Committee. The Committee, however, should neither undertake any work nor make any substantial alteration in the details of any scheme without the permission of the Commissioners in meeting.

Prosecutions should only be instituted with the sanction of the Committee, and orders for demolition should be made only on their application.

In order to relieve the Committee of difficulties in the interpretation of the law, and to secure uniformity in such interpretation, they should be empowered, either at the request of parties or at their own instance, to state a special case for the opinion of the High Court. The costs of such reference should be in the discretion of the Court. We have no doubt that the High Court would, in order to prevent such references becoming unduly costly, frame, as in the case of Small Cause Court references, a scale of costs which would be confined within reasonable limits. Power should be given to the High Court to frame such scale. The powers suggested in this paragraph could apparently only be given by the Supreme Legislative Council.

We have carefully considered how the Committee should be constituted, and are of opinion that it might well consist of the following:—

(a) the Chairman, or, in his absence, the Vice-Chairman of the Commissioners, as President;
(b) the Engineer of the Corporation;
(c) two Commissioners, to be elected every three years by the general body of Commissioners;
(d) one Commissioner, to be nominated every three years by the Local Government.

It should be in the power of this Committee to obtain the advice and assistance of the Health Officer and of other sanitary and engineering experts.

The Bengal Chamber of Commerce [1] and the Calcutta Trades Association[2] have suggested that this Committee should include the Health Officer, a Public Works Department Engineer, and two representatives from the leading architects, contractors or builders in the town; but, so far as the Health Officer is concerned, we think it preferable that he should be subordinate to the Committee rather than one of its members, and, after careful consideration, we see no reason for including in the Committee persons who are unconnected with the Municipality.

Trustees for administration of funds provided, otherwise than by the Corporation, for the opening out of congested areas.

45. We are of opinion that, for the administration of any funds which may be provided, otherwise than by the Corporation itself, for the opening out of congested areas, a separate Act should be passed constituting a body of trustees comprising representatives from the Calcutta Corporation, the Bengal Chamber of Commerce, the Bengal National Chamber of Commerce, the Calcutta Port Trust, the Calcutta Trades Association, the British Indian Association and the Railways running to Calcutta.

Assistance should be rendered by Police in carrying out orders of Commissioners, etc.

46. In order to make any regulations effective, there should be the most complete power to carry out the orders of the Committee. As matters stand at present, the orders of the Commissioners have frequently been defied, [1], and they obtain no assistance whatever from the Police.[2] Either the police officers should be obliged to afford all necessary assistance for the purpose of carrying out the orders of the Committee, of the Commissioners, or of the Chairman [3], or the powers of police officers should be given to the officers of the Municipality. The former course is preferable.

Speedy service of summonses required.

47. Complaints have been made to us as to the great delay which at present takes place in prosecutions by the Municipality. It is said that it always takes a long time, and sometimes as much as two months, to serve a summons. Summonses are served by police officers. There should be a sufficient number of officers specially detailed for this work, or other provision should be made for the service of summonses more expeditiously than is possible under present arrangements.

Stipendiary Magistrates should be appointed.

48. In order to secure uniformity of decisions, one or more special stipendiary Magistrates for the trial of offences against the provisions of the Act should be appointed under section 422 of the Act. Complete jurisdiction over the whole of the Municipal area should be given to each such Magistrate.

Necessity of careful selection of and supervision over subordinate officers.

49. It is also necessary, in order to carry out effectually any new laws which may be enacted, that the greatest care should be taken in the selection of the subordinates who have the carrying out of work, and the supervision over the work of such subordinates should be complete. However good the machinery provided may be, it can do little real good unless those who have to work it are both qualified and trustworthy.

Only licensed builders should be permitted to build.

50. In the opinion of the majority of us, it is necessary, in order that the law might more effectually be carried out, and that houses might be built in a better way, that only builders who have received a license from the Engineer of the Corporation should be permitted to build. A fee would be chargeable for such license, and the license would at any time be liable to withdrawal. An appeal should lie to the Committee from the refusal or withdrawal of a license.

Minimum width of public streets.

51. The most marked defect in the existing law is the absence of any provisions for the minimum width of streets and for the maximum height of houses with reference to the width of the streets which they abut. Had it not been for the power of the sun's rays and for the strength of the winds which blow in Calcutta for a large portion of the year, there is no doubt but that many quarters of the town would have been infinitely more insanitary than they now are. It is necessary, so far as possible, that these natural sanitary agents, light and air, should have greater opportunity of rendering the town

[1] For some examples, see Dr. Simpson's answer to Question No. 2 of the 3rd May, 1897, in Paper No. 45, Appendix V. As an illustration of the difficulties in the administration of the law, see Papers No. 1 in Appendix X.

[2] As to the view taken by the late Commissioner of Police respecting the powers of the police, see his letter to the Chairman of the Corporation, dated the 3rd July, 1894 (Appendix X, Paper No. 1, pages 17, 18).

[3] See Bombay Act III of 1888, section 522, which is as follows :—

Co-operation of Police.

"(1) The Police Commissioner shall, as far as may be, co-operate, by himself and through his subordinates, with the Commissioner for carrying into effect and enforcing the provisions of this Act and for the maintenance of good order in the city.

(2) It shall be the duty of every police officer in the city to communicate without delay to the proper municipal officer any information which he receives of a design to commit or of the commission of any offence against this Act or against any regulation or bye-law made under this Act, and to assist the Commissioner or any municipal officer or servant reasonably demanding his aid for the lawful exercise of any power vesting in the Commissioner or in such municipal officer or servant under this Act.'

more wholesome than it is. Moreover, for purposes of traffic and locomotion, it is necessary that the width of streets should be regulated. We will hereafter consider how far it is desirable and possible that new streets and spaces should be opened out in congested areas; but, apart from this, we think it absolutely necessary that a minimum width should be fixed for all public streets to be opened out in any part of the town. We are satisfied on the evidence [1] before us that the proper minimum to fix for the width of public streets in masonry areas is forty feet. This will give twenty-four feet for roadway and sixteen feet for footpaths. Twenty-four feet would admit of two lines of traffic progressing at moderate speed without getting into the channels, and would also give room for a heavy wagon or large carriage to turn safely [2] Forty feet will of course not be sufficient width for main roads which have to be opened out as arteries of traffic and communication, but it is quite enough for a minimum.

Opinions of authorities consulted as to minimum width of streets.

52. A minimum of forty feet has been recommended by the British Indian Association, Dr. O'Brien, Dr. Simpson, Dr. Banks, Mr. J. G. Apcar, Babu Jadu Nath Sen, Mr. Braunfeld, Dr R. Sen and Babu Denendro Narain Roy. This is also the view taken by the Calcutta Trades Association. Babu Nilambor Mukarji, the Vice-Chairman of the Corporation, would place that limit in cases of roads running from east to west, while he would allow twenty-four feet roads running from north to south. Babu Priyanath Mullick would fix forty feet as the minimum of streets running north to south, and sixty feet in case of streets running east to west. Of those who recommend a higher minimum, the Bengal Chamber of Commerce suggest eighty feet as the minimum width of what they describe as main roads, but they do not suggest any minimum for ordinary roads. Babu Joy Gobind Law would fix for main roads sixty to seventy feet, and for others twenty-four to thirty feet in residential quarters, and fifty feet in business parts. Messrs. Martin and Company recommend a minimum of sixty feet [3].

No variation should be made in minimum width of street in accordance with the direction of the street.

53. We have endeavoured to ascertain whether there should be any variation in the minimum width of a street in accordance with the direction of the street and with regard to the fact that the prevalent winds are from the north and from the south. The answers [4] given to us show that there is a difference of opinion on the subject. We think that there should be no such variation. Even if the width of the street be not so important for purposes of ventilation in streets running north and south as in streets running east and west, it is as important for purposes of traffic in the one case as in the other.

Minimum width of public roads in bustees.

54. With regard to bustee areas, we consider that the minimum width for public roads should be fixed at 20 feet.

Minimum not necessarily applicable where lanes widened.

55. In fixing a minimum for new streets to be opened out, we do not desire to prevent the widening of existing lanes to a width less than such minimum. It is better that narrow lanes should be widened to a small extent than that they should not be widened at all.

Height of houses in relation to width of streets.

56. The conclusion at which we have arrived as to the relation which the height of a house should bear to the width of the street which it abuts is supported by the opinions of a large majority of the gentlemen whom we have consulted [5].

[1] See letter dated the 6th May, 1897, from Mr. Hughes (Appendix X, Paper No. 10). In London 40 feet is the minimum—see the London Building Act, 1894 (57 & 58 Vict., c. 213) s. 11. In his evidence (see Answer No. 174, in Appendix IV), Dr. Simpson gives other reasons for a minimum of 40 feet. The law in Bombay (section 294 of Bombay Act III of 1888) is as follows :—

Minimum width of new public streets.

"294. No new public street made under section 291 shall be less than forty feet in width if such street be made for carriage traffic, or 20 feet if such street be made for foot traffic only; and no steps and, except with the written permission of the Commissioner under section 310, no other projection shall extend on to any such street."

Act XII of 1852 required carriage roads to be of a minimum width of 50 feet—see paragraph 20(4), supra.

The following advise a lower minimum :—Mr. Simmons thinks 36 feet sufficient. Babu Bully Chunder Sen, while requiring 50 feet in the case of first class streets, would permit second class streets from 20 to 25 feet wide, and third class streets from 10 to 12 feet. Dr. Koilas Chundra Bose considers 20 feet to be sufficient. Babu Kanaye Lall Mukherjee recommends 16 feet, and Dr B. M. Sircar considers 24 feet sufficient for short streets of a local nature.

Babu Radha Churn Pal thinks that, while all main roads should be not less than 40 feet wide, it would be sufficient to prescribe for connecting or cross roads a minimum of 20 feet, or, where the road is short (say, 100 or 200 feet in length), then 16 feet; these several widths to be exclusive of footpaths, which should be provided wherever necessary.

(Changes needed in the existing law.)

In our opinion, what is generally known as the 45-degree rule [1] should be adopted, that is to say, no portion of any building hereafter erected, re-erected or materially altered, and situated at the side of a street, should intersect any of a series of imaginary lines drawn across the street at an angle of 45 degrees with the ground; such lines being drawn from the adopted or prescribed line of the street, opposite the building in question, at the level of the pavement or of the centre of the street. Thus, if a house be built at the edge of the street, it must not exceed in height the width of the street, but, by setting back the house or some of its storeys, it would be possible to increase the height of the house.

The British Indian Association, in the answers which they have been good enough to send to our questions, recommend [2] that, "having regard to the dampness of the soil, a second storey should be allowed irrespective of the width of the street or lane—dampness being perhaps more prejudicial to health than imperfect ventilation." The great majority of the answers which we have received to our Question No. 13 [3] show that with proper precautions houses with one storey can be built so as to be both dry and sanitary.

Amendment of Bengal Act II of 1888, section 206 (additions to buildings within regular line of street).

57. The first section of the Act, the amendment of which we recommend, is section 206. We would give the Committee power to permit additions to existing buildings within the regular line of the street, upon the applicant executing an agreement binding himself and his successors in interest not to claim compensation in the event of the Committee at any time thereafter deciding to remove any portion of such additions.

Any additions made under such permission should be carried out in accordance with the regulations for the time being in force.

Not only should power to enter into such an agreement be given to the Committee, but they should have power to apply to the Magistrate whenever they think fit for an order to demolish the additions at the cost of the owner.

Section 206 should apply to walls as well as buildings.

Amendment of Bengal Act II of 1888, section 207 (setting buildings back).

58. Section 207 requires alteration. At the end of the first clause we would recommend that the words "or the line of either one of the adjoining houses" be added. The house which is being dealt with may stand between two houses, one of which projects less than the other It should be open to the authorities to require the house to be set back to the line of either of the two adjoining houses.

It should also be provided, as in section 91(1) of the Punjab Municipal Act (XX of 1891), that the portion of land added to a street by virtue of any order issued under this section shall become part of the street, and shall vest in the Commissioners, payment being made under the proviso to section 207.

A clause should be added to section 207 providing, as in section 298(2) of the City of Bombay Municipal Act, 1888, that when a house or wall, or any part thereof, projecting beyond the regular line of a public street, has fallen down or been burnt down or been taken down, the Chairman may at once take possession, on behalf of the Corporation, of the portion of land within the regular line of the street and, if necessary, clear the same, the sum due for compensation being paid immediately.

Section 207 should apply to walls as well as houses.

New section for Bengal Act II of 1888 (power for Chairman to take possession of land, etc., within regular line of street).

59. A new section should be inserted in the Act, on the lines of section 299 of the City of Bombay Municipal Act, 1888, as follows:—

"If any land, whether open or enclosed, not vesting in the Corporation, lies within the regular line of a public street and is not occupied by a building, or if any platform, verandah or step, or any other structure external to a building abutting on a public street, or any portion of any such platform, verandah, step or other structure, is within the regular line of a public street, the Chairman may, after giving to the owner of the land or building not less than seven clear days' written notice of his intention so to do, take possession on behalf of the Corporation of such land, with its enclosing wall, hedge or fence (if any), or of such structure or portion, as the case may be, and, in his discretion, clear away the same; and the land so acquired shall thenceforward be deemed a part of the street:

Provided that, if the land or building is vested in Her Majesty or in any Corporation constituted by Royal Charter or by an Act of Parliament or an Act of the Governor General in Council or the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in Council, possession shall not be taken as aforesaid without the previous sanction of the Local Government."

It should also be provided that the provisions of section 207 as to compensation shall apply when possession is taken under this new section, and that the sum due for compensation shall be paid immediately.

Amendment of Bengal Act II of 1888, section 208 (width of public streets).

60. The provisions which we have suggested in paragraph 51, supra, as to the minimum width of public streets, would properly find a place in section 208 of the Act.

Amendment of Bengal Act II of 1888, section 212 (obstructions in street).

61. A good deal of difficulty has been found in the working of section 212, especially in the added area. Little by little encroachments are made, and eventually it becomes difficult to enforce their removal. We recommend that it be provided that, unless the contrary be shown, it shall be presumed that every public street extends to the outside edge of the drain (if any) on either side of the street, or, in the absence of a drain, up to the wall of the building. Where the Committee, taking advantage of this presumption, remove projections, &c., they should not be bound to pay compensation, but they should be bound to provide proper means of access to and from the street if none exist already.

A daily fine should be provided in the case of an offence under section 212 continuing.

Amendment of Bengal Act II of 1888, section 213 (private streets).

62. It should be provided in section 213 that private streets shall be subject to the same regulations as public streets as regards level and width, and that the rules as to the height, &c , of buildings abutting them should be the same as in the case of public streets.

Amendment of Bengal Act II of 1888, section 221 (obstructions in street).

63. There is also a necessity for a daily fine in the case of the continuance of an offence under section 221. There have been great difficulties in dealing with this section. The Municipal Commissioners necessarily find it difficult to prove at what time a projection or obstruction was made, and, as this is a penal clause, the presumption would under the present law be made in favour of the defendant, that is, that the projection had been erected before the 1st June, 1863. We think that it should be provided that, unless the contrary be shown, it shall be presumed that any projection, encroachment or obstruction was erected or placed after the 1st June, 1863. Section 221 is a reproduction of section 139 of Bengal Act VI of 1863, and, although its provisions were fair when they were enacted in 1863, they have now, after the lapse of more than thirty years, changed their character and become unfair to the Municipality.

Amendment of Bengal Act II of 1888, section 223 (verandahs).

64. We think that section 223 requires alteration. We are divided in opinion on the subject. The majority, consisting of the Hon'ble Mr. Risley, the Hon'ble Mr. Glass, Babu Nalin Behari Sircar, Dr. Dyson and Mr. Banks-Gwyther, consider that no verandahs supported by pillars resting on the public footpath or road should be allowed. The President, Mr. Bright and Mr. Hughes would allow the Committee to permit supported verandahs provided there be no roof or covering over them [1]. Babu Kally Nauth Mitter would permit a roof or covering.

It is, however, very doubtful whether the Commissioners have power under the present law to allow the supports of a verandah to rest on a public pathway or road, and we think that this question should be settled by the Legislature.

We are unanimously of opinion that no verandahs should be allowed in streets without footpaths or streets less than forty feet wide, and that no supported verandahs should be permitted to be erected where the footpath is less than nine feet wide.

Powers of contract.

65. The Corporation has been advised that it has no power to contract for letting the right to put up verandahs, and, in one case, where an arrangement had been come to, the party resiled from it on the pretext that the

[1] This is the present practice—see the Resolution passed by the Commissioners on the 6th September, 1888, cited in the paper appended to Babu Nalin Behari Sircar's note dated the 9th December, 1897 (Paper No. 21 in Appendix X).

(Changes needed in the existing law.)

contract was beyond the powers of the Corporation. We consider that, if supported verandahs be allowed, powers should be given to the Committee to contract for rent or to make any other conditions with persons desiring to erect them.

We think also that such powers should be retrospective, i.e., that contracts hitherto made by the Commissioners should be declared to be valid.

We further think that with regard to all matters the most complete powers of contract should be given to the Corporation and to the Committee.

Amendment of Bengal Act II of 1888, section 429 (fees).

66. The limit of Rs. 500 imposed by section 429 should be withdrawn.

Building work should not be commenced without sanction, or carried on contrary to sanctioned plan.

67. Section 235 and the following sections require much amendment. It is remarkable that, as the law at present stands, there is nothing to prevent a house or hut being built without sanction, or to prevent a deviation from the sanctioned plan. Provided that a ground plan as required by section 235 be sent in, and an application be made under section 236, a person building, re-building, or materially altering a house incurs no penalty, and may build how he likes. In the same way a person building a hut, provided he sends in a notice under section 247, is not bound to follow the plan which has been approved.

In our opinion no building, re-building, or material alteration should be commenced until sanction has been obtained [1], and any deviation from the sanctioned plan should render the owner liable to fine, and the building, re-building, or alteration, as the case may be, liable to demolition to the extent of such deviation.

Prevention of delay in sanctioning building work.

68. On the other hand, complaint has been made to us that persons contemplating building are subjected to undue delay after applying for sanction, and are harassed by unnecessary and unauthorised objections. We therefore think it desirable that the grounds of objection should appear specifically in the Act, that no others should be permissible, that all objections to sanction be formulated in the first instance, and that, in case sanction has neither been given nor refused during the prescribed period, the Committee should be required to determine, immediately on the expiration of such period, whether the building may be sanctioned or not. In the case of lawful objections to the sanction being made, a further application, giving the required particulars, or otherwise seeking to conform with the law, should be treated as a new application. The power of giving or refusing sanction would lie in the first instance with the Engineer, subject to an appeal from his decision to the Committee.

Employment of officer having architectural qualifications.

69. For the purpose of assisting the Engineer in the consideration of applications for sanction, there should be on the staff of the Corporation an officer having architectural qualifications.

Requisition for information before giving sanction.

70. Power should be given to make a requisition for such information as the Act justifies the officers of the Municipality in asking for; and, if the requisition be not complied with within a reasonable time, the application for sanction might be deemed not to have been made [2].

Amendment of Bengal Act II of 1888, sections 235 and 236 (plans).

71. Sections 235 and 236 should be combined. A person intending to build any house or to convert any hut or temporary structure into a house, or to re-build or materially alter the structure of any house, should be required to send in both a site plan and the plan of the house and necessary sections and elevations when applying for sanction. It is desirable that the officers of the Municipality should be able to see at once what is proposed to be done. A site may be suitable for a house built in one way, but not for one built in

[1] Cf. Bombay Act III of 1888, section 347, which is as follows:—

When work may be commenced.

"(1) No person shall commence to erect any building or to execute any such work as is described in section 342—

(a) until he has given notice of his intention, as hereinbefore required, to erect such building or execute such work and the Commissioner has either intimated his approval of such building or work or failed to intimate his disapproval thereof within the period prescribed in this behalf in section 345 or 346;

(b) after the expiry of the period of one year prescribed in sections 345 and 346, respectively, for proceeding with the same.

(2) If a person who is entitled under section 345 or 346 to proceed with any building or work fails so to do within the period of one year prescribed in the said sections, respectively, for proceeding with the same, he may at any subsequent time give a fresh notice of his intention to erect such building or execute such work, and thereupon the provisions hereinbefore contained shall apply as if such fresh notice were a first notice of such person's intention."

(Changes needed in the existing law.)

another way, and, moreover, it will simplify the procedure to require the whole matter to be dealt with at once. At present a site plan is only necessary in the case of building a new house or converting a hut or a temporary structure into a house, but, in our opinion, in order that the regulations may be complied with, it may be equally necessary in the case of re-building or material alteration.

Applications for permission to execute building work.

72. Every person intending to erect or re-erect or materially alter any building should make an application in writing to the Committee for sanction to the work, and should submit (in triplicate) complete plans, elevations, and sections of the work to be executed, neatly and accurately drawn to a scale of one-eighth of an inch to a foot; also (in triplicate) a site or block plan, showing the name of the street, the number of the premises and the position of the proposed work in relation to the boundaries of the land on which it is to be executed, and to all adjacent roads, buildings, and premises within a distance of 60 [1] feet of the plot to be built on, drawn to a scale of not less than one-twenty fifth of an inch to a foot. Such plans should be signed clearly and in a prominent place by the builder who is to erect the building, and by the owner. It should also be provided that on the demand of the Committee the plans must be certified by a surveyor to be licensed by the Committee.

Means of access.

73. The site plan should show the means of access from the street. No site should be approved unless the passage affording access to the proposed building is at least 9 feet wide, and a passage 16 feet wide should be required where possible. If, however, the applicant has not sufficient land to admit of such a passage being provided, the Municipality should be empowered to assist him to acquire land by taking proceedings at his expense under the Land Acquisition Act.

Sale of land which amendments in law make unsuitable for building.

74. It should be provided that if in any case a piece of building land is so shaped or situated or is of such size that the owner is debarred, by the operation of amendments made by the new Act, from building upon it, the Committee should be empowered to sell the land (with the owner's consent) for his benefit by public auction, an upset price being fixed by the Committee, and owners of adjacent lands being allowed a prior right to buy it at any sum bid over and above such price.

Specification of work.

75. The Act should further provide that the plans shall be accompanied by a specification of the work to be constructed, comprising full information as to the following particulars, namely :—

[2] (a) the materials and method of construction to be used for external and party walls, foundations, roofs, floors, fireplaces and chimneys;

(b) the provision, position, and ventilation of drains, water-closets, privies, stables and cow-houses;

(c) free passage or way in front of the building;

(d) space to be left about the building to secure a free circulation of air, admission of light, and access for scavenging purposes;

(e) the manner in which roof and house drainage and surface drainage of land will be disposed of;

(f) the level at which it is proposed to form all court-yards and open spaces within the holding, and the plinth-level of buildings with reference to the level at the centre of the nearest public street;

(g) the manner, if any, in which it is proposed to pave the court-yards and open spaces within the holding, and the slopes to which the surface is to be made in each case;

[1] This is necessary, having regard to our recommendation (paragraph 77, infra) that a house should not be built within 50 feet of a public latrine or night-soil depôt.

[2] The following portions of these clauses are new, namely :—
in clause (a), the words "and method" and the specification of foundations, floors, fire-places and chimneys, in clause (b), the specification of stables and cow-houses, clauses (c), (e), (g), (h) and (i),
in clause (d), the references to light and scavenging, in clause (f), the reference to court-yards, the concluding clause, as to proportion of site which may be built over.

(Changes needed in the existing law.)

(h) the means of access that will be available to scavengers to get to service privies;
(i) the purpose for which the building is to be used when completed; and (j) any particulars specified in sections 237 and 243 of the present Act which are not already mentioned above.

The plan of a residential masonry building should be so drawn up that the total area to be covered by all the buildings upon the site shall not exceed two-thirds of the total area of the site.

Retention of first proviso to section 235 of Bengal Act II of 1888 (power of dispensation). 76. We are very doubtful whether the first proviso to section 235, authorising the sanctioning of a site, for special reasons, without reference to its position in relation to any street, should be retained, as to some extent it opens the door to difficulties which have given rise to complaints. If, however, our recommendation (paragraph 44, supra) as to the appointment of a small Committee with full powers be adopted, we are not prepared to recommend the repeal of this proviso.

Refusal of sanction to building work. 77. The Act should state all the grounds on which sanction to build may be refused, and the refusing authority should state in each case the particular grounds on which it bases its action.

There should be an appeal to the Committee from a refusal.

It will appear from our suggestions as to the Act and bye-laws what the grounds for refusal should be, and it is not necessary for us to detail them here. One of the grounds should be that the building would be within 50 feet of a public latrine or night-soil depôt, but when a building is disallowed on this ground compensation should be given.

Erection of building on filled-up tank. 78. It should be provided in the Act that no building should be erected on a filled-up tank unless the Engineer to the Corporation has examined the site and given a certificate to the effect that the site is, from a sanitary point of view, fit to be built upon. We think it is unsafe to lay down precisely within what number of years a filled-up tank can be built upon [1]. Everything must depend upon the materials with which the tank has been filled up. A tank which has been properly filled up with broken bricks or such like could be built on almost at once, whereas a tank filled up with refuse could not safely be built upon except after a very long period had elapsed. There would be, as in other cases, an appeal to the Committee from the order of the Engineer refusing a certificate. The absence of such certificate would be a ground for refusing sanction to build.

Right to sue for damages where sanction to building work unlawfully withheld. 79. In addition to the powers contained in section 45 of the Specific Relief Act (I of 1877), a person whose application for permission to build, re-build or alter has been rejected on grounds not authorised by the Municipal Act, not only by the Engineer, but also by the Committee, should have a right to sue the Commissioners for damages; but in giving that right care must be taken not to invite the interference of Courts of law in cases where discretion is left to the Committee.

Suggested definition of "erect or re-erect any building." 80. A good deal of difficulty has arisen with regard to the expressions "new house," "re-build," and "materially alter" in sections 235 and 236. We think that the best way of dealing with this matter is, instead of using the words "build any new house" or "re-build or materially alter the structure of any house," to use the words "erect or re-erect any building," and, as in section 94 of the Punjab Municipal Act (XX of 1891), to enact that "the expression 'erect or re-erect any building,' includes—

(a) any material alteration or enlargement of any building;
(b) the conversion into a place for human habitation of any building not originally constructed for human habitation;
(c) the conversion into more than one place for human habitation of a building originally constructed as one such place;
(d) the conversion of two or more places of human habitation into a greater number of such places;

(Changes needed in the existing law.)

(e) such alterations of the internal arrangements of a building as affect an alteration of its drainage or sanitary arrangements, or affect its security; and

(f) the addition of any rooms, buildings, out-houses, or other structures to any building."

Definition of "material alteration."

81. It is also very desirable that the expression "material alteration" should be defined. It is not an easy task to define it. The best definition we can suggest is the following, which is taken from the Building Regulations of the City of Berlin, namely:—

"'Material alteration' means any alteration of a masonry wall, frame wall, ceiling, iron construction, staircase, shaft for lighting or ventilation, lift-shaft, fire-place or chimney in a building, or any alteration of any projecting part of a building" [1].

Amendment of Bengal Act II of 1888, section 236 (details to be furnished before building).

82. In section 236 the words "as may be deemed requisite" are too indefinite. The words "as may be prescribed" would be preferable.

Amendment of Bengal Act II of 1888, section 237 (applications for permission to build).

83. Section 237 should apply to re-building and material alterations, as well as to the building of new houses.

Amendment of Bengal Act II of 1888, section 238(a) (applications for permission to build).

84. In section 238, clause (a), the words "or insanitary" should be inserted after the word "unsafe."

Powers of inspection.

85. In order effectually to control the erection of buildings, the Committee, the Engineer, and the officers and agents of the Municipality should be empowered to inspect at all reasonable times, after giving reasonable notice,—

(a) all buildings in course of erection, re-erection, or alteration, and

(b) all buildings newly erected, re-erected, or altered, provided that the inspection be made during a period of one month after the owner of the building has given notice to the Commissioners or to the Committee that the building has been completed.

Amendment of penal sections of Bengal Act II of 1888.

86. We now come to the penal sections of the Act. They should provide effectually for the punishment of any breach of the Act or of orders lawfully issued under it.

In the opinion of the majority of us, the owner and the builder should be made responsible for all offences against the Act.

Section 242 should render all persons building, re-building or materially altering without sanction or in a way contrary to the Act or bye-laws, or deviating from the sanctioned plan, liable to fine, and also to daily fine. The penalty under section 242 should be raised. At present it is the same as in the case of huts (see section 249).

Demolition of buildings.

87. We think that orders for demolition should be made only by a Magistrate, and, if possible, by a special Magistrate to be appointed under section 422.

The powers of demolition under sections 240 and 241 should apply to every case where building, re-building or alteration is commenced without sanction, and also to every case of deviation from the sanctioned plan, and of breach of the provisions of the Act or of the bye-laws. It should be in the power of the Magistrate to order demolition, and the Police should assist to carry out the order.

We think it also desirable that the Committee, and any persons lawfully acting under their orders, should be indemnified in respect of any action bonâ fide taken by them under the order of a Magistrate directing demolition. One of the difficulties which has arisen in the exercise of the powers which the

---

[1] Dr. Simpson has suggested the following definition :—

"'Material alteration' means any alteration to the height, width or depth of a building, or any addition to, or encroachment upon or alteration of, the air spaces, interior or exterior, provided by the Act or by the bye-laws"—see Answer No. 208 in Appendix IV.

(Changes needed in the existing law.)

Commissioners now possess, and which has prevented full effect being given to them, is that the slightest act in excess of the powers would give rise to a cause of action, however carefully the Commissioners or their servants may have acted.

Besides the power to require demolition, the Magistrate should have power, on the application of the Committee, to give the owner notice to demolish. In case of his non-compliance with such notice, he should be liable to a daily fine until compliance.

In cases where both demolition and fine are authorised, it should be made clear that both punishments may be enforced.

Power to stop progress of building operations.

88. The Committee or Chairman should have power to stop the progress of building operations when the Act or any one of the bye-laws is, or any orders issued under it are, being disobeyed, or pending the decision of the question whether the Act, bye law, or any such order is being disobeyed. The Committee and Chairman should be indemnified in respect of any such action.

Amendment of Bengal Act II of 1888, section 243 (applications for permission to build).

89. Section 243 should apply to the case where a house is being re-built, and, as far as possible, when it is added to or materially altered. The full force of section 236 has been lost by the use of the word "construct" in the first clause of section 243.

Amendment of Bengal Act II of 1888, sections 244 and 250 (applications for permission to build).

90. It may be a question whether, instead of giving under sections 244 and 250 a right to build or re-build, if orders are not issued within 30 days, it would not be better to give the builder a right to compensation in case he proves actual damage [1].

Extension of Bengal Act II of 1888, section 247 to 250 (building of huts).

91. Sections 247 to 250 should apply to all huts, whether within or without bustees. As the law at present stands (see section 3—definition of "hut"), these sections only apply to huts in bustees.

Amendment of Bengal Act II of 1888, section 247(a) (site of hut).

92. In clause (a) of section 247 the words "or houses" should be added after "huts."

Amendment of Bengal Act II of 1888, sections 248 and 249 (penalties).

93. Sections 248 and 249 should apply also to material alterations. There should be a power to demolish and fine in case of the commencement of the building, re building, addition or alteration without sanction. There should also be a power to demolish and fine in case of a deviation from the sanctioned plan, or of a breach of the provisions of the Act or of the bye-laws. There should also be a power to stop proceedings, as suggested by us in the case of houses (paragraph 88, supra).

Amendment of Bengal Act II of 1888, section 250 (application for permission to build hut).

94. In section 250 there is apparently a misprint: "house" should be "hut."

Amendment of Bengal Act II of 1888, section 252 (joint plan of bustee).

95. The plan referred to in section 252 should be drawn to the scale of 25 instead of 40 feet to the inch.

Amendment of Bengal Act II of 1888, section 292 (position of latrines, etc.).

96. In section 292 we would suggest that the word "service" should be inserted before the word "privy." This section could have no application to connected privies.

In the same section we think that the words "any tank or water-course" should be substituted for "any public tank or a tank used by the inhabitants of any locality."

Amendment of Bengal Act II of 1888, section 320 (overcrowded dwellings).

97. A clause should be added to section 320 (overcrowded dwellings), declaring that 40 superficial feet and 400 cubic feet shall be presumed to be the minimum necessary for each occupant.

Certain of the bye-laws should form part of the Act.

98. We will now proceed to consider the existing bye-laws. Except bye-laws 18 to 22 of the Metropolitan Board of Works, which form an Appendix to the Calcutta bye-laws, we think that all the matters dealt with by the bye-laws under the clauses (e) and (r) should form a portion of the Act. They were intended to be of a permanent nature, they deal with matters which would be more properly dealt with by the Legislature, and they would be more likely to be followed to the letter if they formed a portion of the Act. Even if it be not thought fit to transfer the other bye-laws to the Act, bye-laws (e) 19, 20 and 21 should clearly be so transferred.

(Changes needed in the existing law.)

Supersession of bye-law (e) 1 (regarding building when regarded as new erection).

99. Taking heading (e) first, bye-law 1 will become unnecessary if the suggestions which we have made as to alterations (supra, paragraph 80) be adopted.

Amendment of bye-law (e) 3 (damp-proof course).

100. In bye-law 3 it should be explained that a "damp-proof course" may consist of sheet lead, asphalt, slates laid in cement, vitrified bricks, or any other durable material impervious to moisture.

Amendment of bye-law (e) 4 (joining of walls).

101 In bye-law 4 we recommend that instead of the words "with mortar" there should be the following:—

"(a) with mortar compounded with lime and sand or other suitable material, or (b) with cement, or
(c) with cement mixed with sand or other suitable material, [1] or (d) with stone-lime and ground soorkee, in the proportions of one and two, or (e) with gheeting-lime and ground soorkee, in the proportions of one and two."

Kutcha-pucka buildings.

102. In the opinion of the majority of us, no upper storey should be allowed on a kutcha-pucka structure. In the opinion of a smaller majority, the construction of kutcha-pucka buildings should not be allowed at all in future. The matter, however, is one of very small importance, only five new buildings and five additional buildings having been constructed with kutcha-pucka masonry during the past three years [2].

Amendment of bye-law (e) 8 (declaration as to use for which building is to be constructed).

103. In bye-law 8 we would add after the words "iron foundry" the words "a stable or a cow-shed, or to use any part of a building for any of those purposes."

Supersession of bye-law (e) 9 (adherence to sanctioned plan).

104. We have already dealt with the matter contained in bye-law 9 when making our suggestions as to the amendment of the Act (see paragraph 67, supra). In enacting bye-law 9, the Commissioners attempted to supply a void in the Act; it may be, to say the least of it, doubtful whether they had any power to do so.

Penalty for putting building to other than sanctioned use.

105. The Act should provide for the infliction of a penalty on any person who, after having obtained sanction for the erection of a building for any particular purpose, puts the building to any other use without the sanction of the Committee. Such a provision will not, however, be necessary in case our suggestion taken from section 94 of the Panjab Municipal Act (see paragraph 80, supra), be adopted.

Symmetry of buildings in streets.

106. Although we do not think it possible to do much in the direction of improving the appearance and symmetry of Calcutta streets which are at present in existence, we think it might be well to give to the Commissioners in meeting power to determine that no buildings proposed to be erected in any streets to be named by them shall be inferior to, or out of symmetry with, the elevation of adjacent buildings [3]. They might also be empowered to determine that no huts shall be erected in particular streets, to be from time to time specified by them.

Extension of bye-laws (e) 10 to 21 (building of huts).

107. Bye-laws 10 to 21 should apply to all huts which are being built (whether on new or old sites), re-built or materially altered, whether within or without bustees.

Amendment of bye-law (e) 10 (width of passage between huts).

108. The nine feet referred to at the end of bye-law 10 should be measured from eave to eave.

Substitution of "passage" for "road" and "roadway" in bye-laws (e) 10 to 13 (passages between huts).

109. A certain amount of confusion arises from the use of the words "road" and "roadway" in bye laws 10 to 13, as the word "road" is more

[1] Clauses (a) to (c) are taken from the City of Bombay bye-law No. 7, published on the 3rd August 1892 (Paper No. 8 in Appendix 1).
[2] See Papers No. 13 in Appendix IX.
[3] Cf. bye-law No. 8 made by the Municipal Commissioners of the City of Madras under section 418 (f) of Madras Act I of 1884. The bye law is as follows:—
"No building proposed to be erected in any of the following streets shall be inferior to, or out of symmetry with, the elevation of adjacent buildings:—
the Beach Roads;
Popham's Broadway;
the Esplanade Road."

(Changes needed in the existing law.)

Amendment of bye-law (e) 14 (distance of huts from main road).

applicable to one of the main roads of the bustee. We would suggest that in these bye-laws the word "passage" should be substituted for the words "road" and "roadway."

Amendment of bye-law (e) 15 (space between huts).

110. In bye-law 14, instead of the words "above roads," we would suggest that the words "main roads of the bustee" should be used.

Amendment of bye-law (e) 21 (re-building of hut when regarded as new erection).

111. The three feet referred to in bye-law 15 should be measured from eave to eave.

Additional regulations as to huts (height, court-yards and exterior spaces)

112. In bye-law 21 "sides and roof" should be replaced by the words "sides or roof." The use of the word "and" has in practice caused some difficulty, and has led to evasion of the law. [1]

113. We would recommend the following additional regulations with regard to huts:—

Height of huts.—Not more than two storeys should in future be allowed. The maximum height in future allowed should be 18 feet, measured from the top of the plinth to the junction of eaves and wall.

Court-yards for continuous huts.—When two or more huts are built in continuation, there should be a court-yard of not less than one-fourth of the whole area.

Extension of bye-laws (f) 1 to 7 (ventilation and spaces for masonry buildings).

Spaces for roads and passages.—Power should be given to insist upon proper spaces being left for roads and passages when it is proposed to build several huts on one site.

Supersession of bye-law (f) 2 (height of buildings).

114. To proceed to Part (f) of the bye-laws: in the opinion of the majority this Part should apply to every case, whether a house be newly built, re-erected, or materially altered.

Amendment of bye-law (f) 3 as to court-yards

115. Bye-law 2 will be superseded by our recommendations (paragraph 50, supra) as to the width of streets.

116. The portions of bye-law 3 which relate to court-yards and to the open spaces between houses have received our most careful consideration. The letter written to us by the British Indian Association [2] describes the necessity for these court-yards for religious purposes as well as for the purposes of ventilation. It is obvious that when a very small plot of ground is being built upon very little space can be left for a court-yard, but we think it necessary to prescribe a minimum larger than that prescribed by bye-law 3. We think that the width of the court-yard of a one-storeyed house should be at least equal to the height of the house. In cases of houses more than one storey high, we would adopt the views of Babu Jadu Nath Sen, a builder of great experience in Calcutta. He would make the width the same as the total height of the second and third storeys [3]. In case of a two-storeyed house the width would be the height of the second storeys.

We also think that a court-yard should have an area, in the case of a single-storeyed building, equal to not less than one-fourth of the aggregate floor area of all the rooms abutting thereon, and should not be in any direction less than eight feet across. In the case of a two-storeyed building such court-yard should have an area equal to one-half more than that required for single-storeyed buildings. In the case of a three-storeyed building the court-yard should have an area equal to twice that required for a single-storeyed building, and in that of a four-storeyed building it should be two and-a-half times the area required for a single-storeyed building:

Amendment of bye-law (f) 3 as to exterior spaces.

Provided that, if the person intending to form such court-yard so wishes it, the area of the court-yard may be made sufficient on each floor to meet the above requirements, the size being increased at each floor level to the extent necessary to provide the areas laid down.

117. As to the space to be left between a house and the adjacent premises, we think that the rule should be as follows: at the back or sides of a building there should be an open space, extending laterally through the entire width

(Changes needed in the existing law.)

of such building. The distance across such open space from every part of such building to the boundary of any lands or premises immediately opposite or adjoining the site of such building should be—

(a) if the building has a court-yard, then—not less than 6 feet, if the adjacent building is next to the boundary wall, and not less than 4 feet, if there is a space of at least 4 feet on the other side of the boundary wall;

(b) if the building has no court-yard, then not less than 10 feet.

There should be half as much again of space where there are two storeys, twice as much space where there are three storeys, and 2½ times as much space where there are four storeys.

If, however, any side of a building abuts on an open square or the like which is dedicated to public use and is consequently not likely to be built upon, no space should be required on that side.

Babu Nalin Behari Sircar wishes to say that his views on the subject of open spaces are as follow:—

Every masonry building, either newly erected or re-erected, must abut on a public street in its front.

Having regard to the direction of the prevailing winds in Calcutta, every masonry building should have an open space on at least two of its sides for free ventilation. In the case of a building standing on the east of a street running north and south, or standing on the south of a street running east and west, the required open space shall be on its south and east sides. In the case of a building standing on the west of a street running north and south the required open space shall be on the south and north sides of the building, or if standing on the north side of a street running east and west, the required open space shall be on the east and north sides of the building.

The open space on the south side in each case to be at least 6 feet in width, if it is a one-storeyed building.

The open space on east side in each case to be at least 4 feet in width, if it is a one-storeyed building.

The open space on the north side, if no space can be left on its south, to be at least 6 feet; otherwise it should be at least 4 feet in width.

In the case of two-storeyed buildings, the open space must be at least 1½ times that required for a one-storeyed building.

In the case of three-storeyed buildings the open space must be at least twice that required for a one-storeyed building.

In the case of four-storeyed buildings the open space must be at least 2½ times that required for a one storeyed building, and so on.

The above rule is applicable to buildings with court-yards or interior open spaces.

Buildings having no court-yard or interior open space must have larger open spaces in the exterior thereof than those mentioned above.

Repeal of bye-law (f) 8 (power of exemption).

118. In the opinion of the majority of us, bye-law No. 8 should not be retained. It is not desirable that there should be discretion given to any one to override the law, and it is clear that this bye-law has been the origin of many, if not of most, of the complaints which have been made as to the action of the Building Committee of the Corporation. Power should however be given to the Committee suggested in paragraph 44, supra, to grant dispensations in special cases which are not provided for by the building law.

Masonry buildings in bustee lands.

119. With reference to the control of the construction of masonry buildings in bustee lands, it is quite clear that regulations are necessary. We recommend the following rules on this subject:—

(1) Where a new masonry building is erected in a bustee area, the rule requiring the minimum width of a new street to be 40 feet (see paragraph 51, supra) shall apply, the owner of the land being required to give up sufficient land to leave a space of 20 feet between his boundary wall fronting the street and the centre of the street. The land so given up should vest in the Commissioners, and the owner should be compensated therefor.

(2) All masonry buildings must be erected so as to abut on a street of 40 feet, or, where there is no such street, sufficient land must be left, as in the above rule (1), for the making of a street.

(3) Where a hut is removed and a masonry building erected in its place, a space of at least 9 feet should be left all round the new building for ventilation.

(Changes needed in the existing law.)

(4) Where a new hut is erected adjacent to a masonry building, a pathway of at least 9 feet should be left between the two.

(5) Where a new masonry building is erected adjacent to a hut, a pathway of at least 9 feet should be left between the two.

(6) Where a masonry building is erected in a bustee area, the rules as to masonry buildings elsewhere should apply.

(7) The Corporation should be required to open out roads in bustees as far as practicable, not only for the purpose of securing proper ventilation for huts, but also with a view to the contingency of masonry buildings being erected at a future time.

Privies.

120. We have made special inquiries as to whether the law relating to the construction of privies requires amendment, and whether it is desirable to give further powers to deal with insanitary privies which are now in existence. The proceedings of the Medical Board, with a copy of which we have been favoured [1], and the answers which we have received to our question No. 16 of the 3rd May, 1897 [2], show that it is imperatively necessary that ampler powers should be given to the authorities. These powers should be given to the Committee, or an appeal should lie to the Committee from the orders of the executive officers. We desire to make the following recommendations on this subject :—

(1) The powers conferred upon the Commissioners by sections 292 and 294 of the Act should be exerciseable only by the Committee.

(2) When there is no convenient access from a street, suitable for wheeled traffic, to a privy, the Committee should be empowered to require that a passage at ground-level giving access to the street in front of the building shall be formed. Such passage to be not less than 4 feet wide. It may be open to the sky or covered, but it must be provided with a suitable door. This should be provided for in the Act. The difficulty as regards privies to which there are not sufficient means of access can in most cases be met by requiring the privies to be connected with the sewers [3].

(3) A clause should be added to section 286 of the Act authorising the Committee, either in addition to or in lieu of issuing a notice, to prosecute any person whose privy is not kept in good order, and providing for the imposition of a penalty and of a daily fine. The occupier should be held responsible for the proper maintenance of privies, and should be empowered to recover from the landlord the cost of structural alterations made under the direction of the Committee.

(4) The erection of a dwelling-room over a privy should be prohibited. The present law [bye-law (g)1] provides that no privy shall be constructed underneath a dwelling-room, but there is nothing to prevent a dwelling-room being constructed above a privy.

(5) No service privy in connection with a building should be constructed at a distance of less than 6 feet from any other building which is or may be used as a dwelling-place, or is a public building, or in which any person is, or is intended to be, employed in any manufacture, trade or business.

(6) A privy, the total height of which does not exceed 9 feet, may be built in the space at the back of the house.

(7) It is not necessary to insist upon connected privies being detached from the house. They may properly form part of the house.

(8) A service privy should not be placed in the space at the back of a building unless there is a space of at least 4 feet between the privy and the wall of the building.

[2] Appendix V. These answers show a number of cases in which there is not sufficient access to privies for the purpose of removing the night-soil.

[3] The policy of converting privies into sewers is not one with which we are concerned, but with regard to it we would refer to paragraph 6 of the letter sent to us by the British Indian Association (Paper No. 13 in Appendix V) and to the answers to Questions Nos. 16 and 17 of the 3rd May, 1897 (Appendix V).

(Changes needed in the existing law.)

(9) On an upper floor only connected privies should be allowed, but, if in any case it is impracticable to have a connected privy, the Health Officer should have power to authorise a service privy, on such conditions as he may think fit to impose with reference to the increased cost for mehters. All orders of the Health Officer in this connection to be subject to appeal to the Committee.

(10) Every privy in connection with a building should be provided with an opening of not less than 3 square feet area in the wall for ventilation as near to the top as practicable, and communicating directly with the open air, and should be provided with adequate means for constant ventilation at the floor, eaves, and ridge of such privy.

(11) The floor of such privy should be flagged or paved with hard tiles or other non-absorbent material, and should be in every part thereof at a height of not less than six inches above the level of the surface of the ground adjoining such privy, and should have a fall or inclination towards the door of such privy of half an inch to the foot.

(12) Every privy in connection with a building constructed for use in combination with a moveable receptacle for filth should be provided over the whole area of the space immediately beneath the seat of such privy with a flagged or asphalted floor, at a height of not less than three inches above the level of the surface of the ground adjoining such privy; and the whole extent of each side of such space between the floor and the seat should be constructed of flagging, slate, or good brick-work, at least nine inches thick and rendered in good cement or asphalted.

(13) The seat of such privy, the aperture in such seat, and the space beneath such seat should be constructed of such dimensions as to admit of a moveable receptacle for filth of a capacity not exceeding two cubic feet being placed and fitted beneath such seat in such a manner and in such a position as may effectually prevent the deposit, upon the floor or sides of the space beneath such seat or elsewhere than in such receptacle, of any filth which may from time to time fall or be cast through the aperture in such seat.

(14) Such privy should be constructed in such a manner as to afford adequate access to the space beneath each seat for the purpose of cleansing such space or of removing therefrom or placing and fitting therein the appropriate receptacle for filth.

(15) Every privy should be provided with a paved surface for ablution purposes, which should be drained into the drainage system pertaining to the house.

Certain buildings should be exempted from Act and bye-laws.

121. We desire to make the following additional recommendations for the amendment of the Act:—

The following buildings should be exempted from the operation of so much of the Act and bye-laws as relates to the erection, re-erection and alteration of buildings, namely:—

(a) any building erected and used, or intended to be erected and used, exclusively for the purpose of a plant-house, summer-house (not being a dwelling-house), poultry-house or aviary, to be wholly detached and at a distance of ten feet at least from any other building;

(b) any building erected or intended to be erected by, or with the sanction of, the Commissioners for use solely as a temporary hospital for the reception and treatment of persons suffering from any dangerous infectious disease.

External doors.

122. In the case of buildings used by the public there should be such number of external doors as the Committee may require, but in the case of private dwellings there need only be one external door for ingress and egress, which should be at least 3 feet 6 inches wide by 7 feet high, measured inside the door-frame.

(Changes needed in the existing law.—Schemes for laying out areas sparsely covered with masonry.)

Model bye-laws.

123. We append to this Report a set of bye-laws [1] which have been drawn by the Engineering members of our Commission, and which are recommended for adoption by the Municipal Commissioners, except in so far as they conflict with, or are superseded by, our other recommendations.

Removal, &c. of insanitary buildings.

124. Except that we have recommended that the Committee should have power to compel house-holders to re-construct their privies on a sanitary plan and to provide sufficient access to them for the municipal sweepers (paragraph 120, supra), we have not, so far, made any recommendations with regard to existing houses which are not being re-built or altered by their owners. We recommend that the Committee should have, with regard to such houses, powers similar to those given to the President by the City of Madras Municipal Act (Madras Act I of 1884), section 323, which is as follows:—

Powers of President in case of overcrowded buildings, &c.

"323. Whenever the President considers that any block of buildings in the City is, by reason of the manner in which such buildings are crowded together, or of the want of drainage or ventilation, and the impracticability of cleansing, attended with risk of disease to the occupiers thereof or to the inhabitants of the neighbourhood, he may cause a notice to be fixed to some conspicuous part of such block, requiring the owners or occupiers thereof, or, at the option of the President, the owner of the land on which such buildings are erected, within a reasonable time, to be specified in such notice, to execute such works or take such action as the President deems necessary for the prevention of such risk.

If such owners or occupiers neglect to execute such works or take such action within the time specified, the President may, with the sanction of the Governor in Council, cause such works to be executed or such action to be taken in respect of such buildings, and may, if necessary, cause such buildings or any of them to be pulled down. [a]All the expenses so incurred shall be recoverable from the owner or occupier in the manner provided in section 437[a].

In cases where under this section a building is pulled down, the Commissioners shall make to the owner or occupier thereof a reasonable compensation to be ascertained in case of dispute in the manner prescribed in section 438."

We would recommend that these powers should apply not only to a block of buildings, but also to single buildings, that the sanction of the Government should not be necessary, and that there be no demolition except by order of a Magistrate. On the order being made, the demolition should be conducted under the orders of the Committee.

Removal of offensive businesses.

125. In our opinion it is necessary for the health and comfort of the inhabitants of the city that the Commissioners in meeting should have the power of removing from the quarters occupied by dwelling-houses such noxious and offensive trades and businesses as they might think fit. In doing so they should be compelled to acquire the land occupied by such trades, but it would be unnecessary to require them to adopt proceedings under the Land Acquisition Act. They should be required to pay compensation for the land and buildings only, adding nothing for anything else, such as good-will. There is no doubt that tanneries, soorkee mills and other mills, places for the storage of hides or rags, and piggeries, ought to be removed from the neighbourhood of residential quarters. It has been suggested to us that cow-sheds and stables should also be so removed, but the nuisance created by them would be more than counterbalanced by the inconvenience which would be caused by their removal.

It is also necessary to prevent dangerous and offensive trades being carried on within a specified distance, say 50 feet, of a dwelling-house.

SCHEMES FOR LAYING OUT AREAS SPARSELY COVERED WITH MASONRY.

Schemes for laying out portions of the town which are sparsely covered with masonry

126. The enactment and strict enforcement of regulations, such as we have suggested, will, we anticipate, prevent an increase of insanitary building and of congested areas. This object would be much aided by a scheme being drawn for the laying out of those portions of the town subject to the Municipality which are at present but sparsely covered with masonry. It is wholly impossible to lay out any scheme with regard to the parts of the town which are extensively built upon [2].

(Opening out of congested areas.)

The gentlemen whom we have consulted agree in considering that it would be possible to frame a general plan for the laying out of the suburban or other portions of the town which are not extensively built upon. In framing such plan it would be possible to provide not only for the width of streets, but how the streets should run, and it would be possible to restrict certain areas to warehouses, business offices, residential quarters, public buildings, and shops, respectively. It is not within the limits of our Commission to specify the details of such a scheme, but we recommend that the necessary powers be given by law to the Commissioners. When such powers are given, it would be for the Committee and officers of the Corporation to elaborate a suitable scheme. The only recommendation we have to make as to the details is that, in any such scheme, it would be advisable that in quarters newly laid out the roads and open spaces should occupy at least as much ground as the building areas [1].

OPENING OUT OF CONGESTED AREAS.

Opening out of congested areas.

127. It remains for us to consider what steps should be taken with respect to the congested areas. The answers [2] which we have obtained to No. 21 of our Questions of the 3rd May, 1897, and Dr. Pilgrim's report on Wards 22 and 25, [3] will show what areas require opening out. The most notorious examples are to be found in Wards 5 and 7. All the persons consulted agree as to the congestion of Burra Bazar, Jora Bagan, and the neighbourhood of Colootollah. Burra Bazar pre-eminently needs opening out. Throughout Calcutta there are numerous areas which ought to be opened out.

The only possible means of opening out these areas are by driving roads through them, and by making open spaces in them [4].

Dr. Simpson in his evidence [5] considered that some portions of the city ought to be demolished. We are quite sure that if such a course were possible it would be to the advantage of the whole community, but we are unable to recommend it, as not only would the cost be prohibitive, but we hesitate to suggest a course which would cause so very much inconvenience to a very large number of persons. For all practical purposes it would be sufficient to give to the Committee the powers we have recommended, and to open out a number of fairly wide streets. Where possible, it would be very desirable also to have open spaces, as lungs to the locality. Advantage might be taken of the existence of unwholesome tanks. They might be acquired, properly filled up, and laid out as are some of the squares in Calcutta. Parcels of bustee land which are in the centre of areas covered with masonry might similarly be acquired and laid out; but, with regard to them, care would have to be taken not to cause unnecessary hardships by the wholesale ejection of communities which might have to go far in search of suitable habitations.

Localities in which streets should be constructed or spaces laid out.

128. We understand that it is not intended that we should express our opinion in detail as to where streets should be constructed, or where spaces should be laid out. If we were to recommend in detail all the streets which we thought desirable, the result might be a very serious increase in the cost of eventually acquiring the land. The land over which the roads would run would, in the prospect of acquisition proceedings, immediately acquire a fictitious value, and it would be very difficult, at the distant time when the land may be acquired for some of these roads, to distinguish between the real value and this fictitious value.

The gentlemen whom we have consulted have made a number of valuable suggestions to us with regard to new roads. They are to be found especially in the answers[6] to Question No. 23 of the 3rd May, and we would also refer to Dr. Pilgrim's suggestions as to roads in Bhowanipur, Kidderpore and Watgunge[1], and paragraph 22 of Mr. Hughes' note of the 14th January, 1897 [2]. For the following, there is undoubtedly urgent necessity, namely :—

(a) the widening of Bentinck Street and Chitpur Road ,

(b) the construction of a road running from the north-east corner of Dalhousie Square in a northerly direction through Burra Bazar and Jora Bagan ;

(c) the continuation of Halliday Street to the north, and also to the south as far as Free School Street;

We may remark that these roads were all suggested by Lieutenant Abercombie to the Fever Hospital Committee, but his suggestions have remained unattended to for over half a century.

FUNDS FOR IMPROVEMENTS.

Cost of improvements how to be met.

129. We now come to the most difficult portion of our task, namely, the consideration of the question of how the cost of any extensive improvements is to be borne.

The principle of betterment should not be adopted.

130. We may at the outset say that, after very careful consideration, we have arrived at the conclusion that it would be unjust to require neighbouring owners or occupiers to pay any portion of the cost of an improvement. There is not in Calcutta any substantial reason why owners of property should be required to give up portions of their property or rights for the improvement of the locality in which their property is situate. It is true that, as far as we can ascertain, the effect of opening out new roads, such as the Harrison Road and the Lansdowne Road, has been not only largely to increase the value of property in their immediate neighbourhood [3], but also greatly to raise the standard of health in the neighbourhood [4]. The rise in the value of land is, however, so very uncertain, and subject to so many influences, that it is impossible for us to predict with certainty that land in the neighbourhood of all new streets must necessarily increase in pecuniary value.

It would in many cases be a great hardship to compel an owner to pay for the building of a street which he neither requires nor desires. The opening out of a new street is often as much a benefit to persons away from, as to those residing in the immediate neighbourhood of, the particular locality ; and we are unable to say that there should be any deviation from the present system of not putting any greater burden upon the owners of land in the immediate neighbourhood than upon other rate-payers.

The first conclusion arrived at by the Select Committee of the House of Lords, the report of which we annex as Paper No. 11 in Appendix I, was as follows:—

> "(1) The principle of betterment, in other words, the principle that persons whose property has clearly been increased in market value by an improvement effected by local authorities should specially contribute to the cost of the improvement, is not in itself unjust, and such persons can equitably be required to do so. But the effect of a public work in raising the value of neighbouring lands is shown by experience to be uncertain. Whether, in any particular case, it is possible for a valuer to pronounce that such an effect has been produced by the completion of any public work, is a point upon which the evidence of eminent valuers differs greatly."

It has been said that, as the owners or their predecessors are themselves responsible for the congestion, they ought to be made to pay a portion of the costs of improvement, either by way of penalty or by way of being compelled to reimburse to the public the extra profits which they acquired at the expense of proper sanitation. But, having regard to the history of the growth of Calcutta, this view does not commend itself to us.

The principle of recoupment.

131. The principle of recoupment [1], which was adopted in section 204 of the present Calcutta Municipal Act, although there may be objections to it, seems to be now almost generally accepted in Calcutta. It is not desirable in any way to extend section 204, but we note that several of those gentlemen whom we have consulted recommend the application of that section. We would, however, make these recommendations, that (1) when the Commissioners desire to acquire any additional land under clause (b) of the section, outside the regular line of a street, the owner shall be at liberty to retain such additional land on paying a "frontage rate" to be fixed by the Corporation, or the capitalised value of such rate, and (2) the sanction of the Local Government should be required in every case under clause (b), and not only, as at present provided, in cases where more than one hundred feet of land are acquired on either side of the regular line of a street.

The Commissioners should further have power to make a contract with the owner of the land, giving him a right to a surplus of his land which would otherwise have been acquired, on such conditions as to payment of a lump sum or periodical payment as they should think fit. But, in the event of such contract being made, the owner should not be liable to a special frontage rate [2].

A portion of the money required for street improvements could be obtained by acquiring surplus lands and by arrangements with the owners, but there is no doubt that, for any extensive improvements, large sums of money must be forthcoming from elsewhere.

The municipal rates should not be raised, nor municipal funds drawn upon.

132. We are quite satisfied that it is impossible to raise sufficient money for this purpose by increasing the rates. As it is, house-owners in Calcutta have to bear taxation out of proportion to the burdens which are placed upon the shoulders of owners of other classes of property [3], and it would be inequitable to force house-owners alone to pay the expense of a remedy for the existing evils.

The funds available to the Corporation are barely sufficient for the ordinary working expenses and for such improvements as become necessary from year to year, and we are satisfied that their statutory borrowing powers cannot be drawn upon to adequately meet the necessary expenditure. The Administration Report for 1896-97 has satisfied us that it would be impossible to take any money from the funds of the Corporation for the purpose of any large scheme of street construction without seriously interfering with other necessary works of sanitation.

Funds should be provided by the Government.

133. So far back as 1803, we have the opinion of the then Governor-General that it was the "duty of Government to contribute in a just proportion to any expense which may be requisite for the purpose of completing the improvements of the town." [4] We submit that now, after the expiration of nearly a century since that minute was signed by the Marquis of Wellesley, it is equally the duty of the Government to come to the aid of the citizens of Calcutta in order to relieve them from the dangers to which they are subject. In the letter written by the Secretary of the Bengal Chamber of Commerce to the Secretary of the Government of Bengal, dated the 4th of January, 1897 [5], the Committee of that Chamber say that "they bear in mind that taxation in the city is almost at a maximum, and that it presses very heavily upon all classes, so that the question of money is one as to which probably the Government may, in the general interests of the Empire, feel called upon to come to the assistance of the city." That it is in the interests of the Empire that Calcutta should be

"The Committee have received evidence upon what has been called 'recoupment,' that is to say, powers given to a municipal or other public body to take land beyond what is necessary for the actual execution of the work, so that some part at least of the improved value may be secured by the improving public body in ease of the burden upon the rate-payers. Some evidence was given by persons who had actual experience of the operation of such a system, the general effect of which was that it had not proved successful; but the Committee are not satisfied that it has ever been tried under circumstances calculated to make it successful, inasmuch as no sufficient power has ever yet been given to local authorities to become possessed of the improved properties without buying out all the trade interests, a course which is inevitably attended with wasteful and extravagant expenditure."

rendered as wholesome as possible, there can be no doubt. A serious epidemic, such as plague, if its ravages extended to Calcutta, would seriously dislocate the whole trade of the East. The Imperial revenues would be impaired, and the damage done to English Commerce, and thus to the interests of England, would be incalculable.

Suggested taxation.

134. Calcutta is a large market, which distributes to the West the products of the East, and receives the products of the West for distribution throughout the Indian Empire. The city itself would by no means be the only sufferer by the destruction of its position in the Commercial and Financial world. It is not inequitable that a tax should be levied from the goods which are sold in the market, for the purpose of keeping up the market. For this reason it is worthy of the consideration of the Government whether some of the taxes to which we will hereafter refer should not be imposed. There is also another reason why Imperial, or at any rate Provincial, revenues should bear a part in reducing Calcutta to order, namely, that for a portion of the year Calcutta is the seat both of the Supreme and of the Local Government.

We take it that neither the Imperial nor the Provincial Government would be able to supply the funds without further taxation, and therefore the question arises, what further taxation is advisable or possible for the purpose?

We had hoped to have received from the Bengal Chamber of Commerce and from the Calcutta Trades Association some recommendations as to how the money is to be provided, but neither of those influential bodies has favoured us with any suggestions, although they each recognise the urgent need for improvements in the city.

It is of course plain that the mere suggestion of any form of taxation must necessarily raise up opposition, and that it would be impossible to devise any scheme which would obtain anything like universal acceptance.

The real question is, what ought to be taxed? The following suggestions which have been made to us are, we think, worthy of consideration:—

Tax on Jute.

(a) It has been pointed out to us that jute is at present untaxed. As the jute industry is peculiar to Bengal, any tax on it would not unduly hamper Calcutta trade in competition with other parts of India. The tax could be easily and economically levied. We calculate that an anna a maund levied on jute exported from Calcutta and on jute used in the mills in the neighbourhood of Calcutta would produce over sixteen lakhs a year[1]. On the security of such a tax a large sum could be raised for the purpose of improvements, and we think there can be no valid objection to its being levied. If a tax were imposed on jute exported from Calcutta it would be desirable, not only to impose a tax of similar incidence on jute used in the mills in the neighbourhood of Calcutta, but also, in order to prevent trade being diverted from Calcutta to Chittagong, whence jute is already exported, to levy a similar tax on exports from the latter port. The proceeds of the tax in Chittagong should be employed in improving that port, the funds of which are, it is understood, in need of assistance.

	1893-94.	1894-95.	1895-96.
Cwts.	8,001,146	12,222,294	11,360,396
= Maunds of 80 lbs.	11,201,604	17,111,212	15,904,554

The average annual consumption of raw jute in the mills in the neighbourhood of Calcutta between the 1st August, 1893, and the 31st July, 1896, was 7,784,494 Maunds. The estimated consumption from the 1st August, 1896, to the 31st July, 1897, was 9,186,563 Maunds, and the probable consumption between the 1st August, 1897, and the 31st July, 1898, is estimated at 10,869,866 Maunds.

(Funds for Improvements.)

(b) A tax on opium has been suggested. As to this, Mr. J. G. Apcar says:—

Tax on Opium.

"The money wanted should be obtained in the manner following, among others:—

(1) Rupees 10 on every chest of opium sold by Government, to be paid by the buyer. This charge alone would enable about a crore of rupees to be borrowed without disorganising the trade in opium. The nature of the trade or speculation in the drug is such that Government would not be affected in their sales in any appreciable degree. The point which I have dealt with, with regard to the Government sales of the drug, is very noticeable; the prices bid at the sales are dependent, not so much on the question of supply and demand of the drug in the market, as on speculations of a gambling character on the part of persons who are interested in the sales."

A similar suggestion was made by the late Mr. Robert Knight in his articles on the condition of Calcutta[1]. Ten rupees per chest on opium would give nearly four lakhs a year. Opium is largely exported from Bombay as well as from Calcutta[2], and, if it be decided to levy a tax on this commodity for purposes of municipal improvement in Calcutta, it would be desirable to impose a similar tax in Bombay, in order to prevent the diversion of Calcutta trade to that port. It is understood that large schemes of improvement are under consideration in Bombay, for which funds will be required.

(c) Indigo and shellac have also been suggested as suitable for taxation, but we do not see our way to recommending the imposition of any tax on these articles. Indigo is largely produced in Java, and is also subject to possible competition with aniline dyes, while shellac is not produced exclusively in Bengal or even in India[3].

Taxation of indigo and shellac not recommended.

(d) If the Government were to make over to the Municipality a portion of the tax[4] on petroleum, that by itself would be almost sufficient. Or the power suggested in clause (h) of this paragraph might be conferred on the Corporation so as to enable them to add six pies per gallon to the import duty levied on petroleum in Calcutta, provision being made for the payment of drawback on exports to the interior.[5]

Tax on petroleum.

(e) Much might also be done if the Government made over to the Corporation a substantial portion of the canal dues and also the excise duty levied in Calcutta.[6] We may here note that the Bombay Government contributes large sums of money to the funds of the Bombay Corporation. The amount paid by that Government to the Corporation annually on account of liquor licenses is Rs. 1,43,750, while its annual contribution towards the "general tax" is, at 8 per cent., Rs. 92,587, and towards fire-brigade charges Rs. 5,787. In addition, the income of the Corporation from the municipal duty on tobacco is estimated for the current year at Rs. 2,07,250, and the income from Canal dues and excise duty.

(Funds for Improvements.)

land-conveyance tax, music licenses and sundries at Rs. 25,600, while the estimated yield from town duties during the same year is Rs. 9,13,000.[1]

Tax on railway passengers.

(f) In his note of the 14th January, 1897, [2] Mr. Hughes suggested a terminal charge on railway and canal goods traffic to and from Calcutta, and a tax on passengers arriving in and leaving Calcutta by rail or sea. We think the second of these suggestions worthy of careful consideration. The Bengal Chamber of Commerce[3], in objecting to the former charge, say it would be a handicap to the trade of the port as against other Indian ports, and for this reason we would not further press the consideration of this charge; but, with regard to passengers, although the Chamber say that they do not consider that the tax could justifiably be levied, they give no reasons for that opinion, and therefore there can be very little serious objection to the tax. It could be easily levied, would not be seriously felt, and might bring in a large revenue. We beg to refer to Appendix C to Mr. Hughes' note[2], which contains particulars as to the number of passengers to and from Cacutta during the year 1895-96. Every passenger who arrives in Calcutta derives more or less advantage from the sewage system, the water-supply and other services maintained by the Corporation.

Octroi.

(g) It has been suggested that the question whether an octroi should not be levied should be re-considered by the Government. This matter has already been considered [4]. In 1885 a Committee appointed by the Government were "unanimously of opinion that a complete system of octroi, understanding by the term a cordon of stations or toll-houses round Calcutta for the purpose of levying town dues on articles of consumption generally, was not to be recommended." The only proposal on which they were agreed was that a tax of two annas a case should be levied upon petroleum brought into Calcutta. This, it was calculated, would bring in an annual income of Rs. 94,000. The proposal was agreed to "partly because this revenue can be raised without difficulty or liability to abuse, owing to the rules which are about to be introduced regulating the transport of petroleum by cart or boat, partly because, if the consignees of petroleum find it convenient to store the article in the town itself, instead of conveying it direct from the river-side depôt to the railways which take it up country, there would be no injustice (considering the dangerous character of the commodity) in requiring a small fee to be paid for the use made by its owners of the town and its thoroughfares." With reference to the remark just cited, it may be observed that all petroleum brought to Calcutta is now stored at Budge-Budge, down the river.

If our suggestions for the levy of taxes on jute and railway passengers should not be accepted, we would recommend that the question of imposing an octroi should be seriously considered. The emergency which has to be met is so great that new taxation in some form is absolutely essential.

Centimes.

(h) If sufficient funds should not be obtainable from other sources, power might be given to the Corporation, with the sanction of the Government, to make a small addition for their own benefit to selected taxes. For example, the addition of one or two pies to the four or five pies per rupee which are levied as income-tax might be authorised, the proceeds being handed over to the

(Modification of law of Land Acquisition.)

Corporation. This system has been adopted in some Continental towns, and its great advantage lies in the fact that the required revenue is raised by means of an existing machinery, and without any appreciable addition to the trouble or cost of collection. The only valid objection to increasing the income-tax that occurs to us is that the measure would add to some extent to the burdens already imposed by the Calcutta Municipal Act upon residential house-owners.

MODIFICATION OF LAW OF LAND ACQUISITION.

135. We are asked to consider whether the special circumstances of Calcutta point to any amendment or modification of the law of land acquisition.

Modification of law of land acquisition.

136. Before making specific recommendations on this subject, we desire to recommend that the powers given to the Commissioners in meeting by sections 204 and 268 of Bengal Act II of 1888 be extended. They should, we think, have powers of purchasing land for the purpose of opening out any congested area, or of otherwise improving any portion of the town.

Modifications for improving the city.

They should also be empowered to acquire land for the purpose of making it over to a registered company undertaking to effect improvements, or to a private individual giving a similar undertaking if he satisfies the Commissioners that he is able to effect improvements[1]. Careful provision should, however, be made to prevent undue interference with private interests.

137. The Commissioners in meeting should also have power to acquire land for the purpose of causing or permitting the erection of large sanitary dwellings or barracks similar to the workmen's dwellings in London. We have made inquiries as to whether it would be likely that, if such dwellings were erected, they would be financially successful. Opinions vary a good deal on the subject[2]. It is not within our province to consider the likelihood of such buildings being successful, but we think it necessary that the Corporation should have power to make the experiment if they should think fit. The materials which we have collected on this subject may be of assistance to them in considering this question. In Bombay, dwellings of the kind have been made for mill operatives, and a small experiment was made in Calcutta by the European and Anglo-Indian Association. There are a great many difficulties connected with the subject, but they do not seem to be insurmountable, and, although there might be some loss of money at the outset, there seems to be no reason why the Municipality should not be able to make lodgings profitable as much as any other landlord.

Modifications for erection of sanitary dwellings for the poorer classes.

138. We have not very many suggestions to make with regard to the Land Acquisition Act. Those we desire to make are as follow:—

Amendment of the Land Acquisition Act.

(a) In order to avoid some portion of the delay which inevitably takes place, we think the Chairman of the Corporation should be declared to be a "Collector" for the purposes of the Land Acquisition Act. As it is unlikely that he will have sufficient time to perform all the functions of the Collector, he might be empowered to delegate them, or any of them.

(b) As it is important that delay should be avoided in the acquisition of unhealthy areas, power to acquire them at once should be given to the Commissioners[3]. These powers should only be given where the areas are declared to be unhealthy on the certificate of a Magistrate, granted after hearing any objections raised by persons interested. Provision should be made for the speedy service of notices to such persons and for an early hearing of their objections.

[1] We have made this suggestion in consequence of Mr. Braunfeld's answer to Questions Nos. 22, 23 and 24 of the 3rd May, 1897 (Paper No. 12 in Appendix V).
[3] Cf. section 17 of the Land Acquisition Act (I of 1894).

(Modification of law of Land Acquisition.)

(c) We think that power should be given to acquire a portion only of a house, manufactory, or other building on payment of compensation for severance. Under the present law, Act I of 1894, section 49, the owner can insist upon the whole building being acquired.

(d) The extravagant prices which the Corporation has been made to pay for property acquired by it have arisen from the interpretation put by the Courts upon the decision of the High Court of Calcutta in the case of Premchand Burral and another v. The Collector of Calcutta, I. L. R., 2 Calc., 103. The word "market value" occasionally leads to difficulties. It is the price which a willing vendor might be expected to obtain in the open market from a willing purchaser. In the case to which we have referred, it was held that the fairest and most favourable principle of compensation to the owners was to inquire "what is the market value of the property, not according to its present disposition, but laid out in the most lucrative and advantageous way in which the owners could dispose of it." This expression of opinion has induced the Courts to assess lands at a price in excess of what owners would ordinarily have obtained for them in the market. We think it not unfair that for the purposes of land acquisition land should be valued according to its disposition at the time the declaration is made. In the opinion of the majority of us, if it be shown that, before the declaration is made, the owner had taken active steps towards a more favourable disposition of the land, and had spent money for that purpose, further compensation might be given to him, such compensation being based on his actual loss. The value which ought to be paid is the value of the land to the owner, and nothing more. It should, however, also be provided that, where the market value is specially high in consequence of the property being put to a use which is unlawful or is contrary to public policy, e.g., public gaming, the special circumstance shall be disregarded, and compensation shall be calculated on the sum which would be the market value if the property were put to ordinary uses.

(e) In the opinion of the majority of us it should be provided that twenty-five times the annual value at which the property is assessed for the purpose of municipal taxation shall be presumed to be the market value until the contrary is shown. This provision, however, should not take effect until the particular land has been re-assessed after the passing of the amending Act. Power should be given to re-assess for this purpose. The Hon'ble Mr. Glass thinks twenty-five times the annual value is excessive, but agrees to recommending that rate. Babu Kally Nauth Mitter thinks thirty times the annual value would be fairer.

(f) In order to prevent to some extent fictitious transactions for the purpose of enhancing the apparent value of property to be acquired, it may be well to exclude evidence of dealings with the property within two years before the declaration. It is of course for the Judge to endeavour to ascertain what the true value of the property is, and to pay no attention to evidence of transactions which have been brought about in contemplation of land acquisition proceedings; but it is often exceedingly difficult to distinguish real from fictitious transactions. The intention of the Municipality is known a long time before proceedings can actually be taken, and we think there can be no real hardship in a provision of the kind we suggest if the owner be compensated for any improvements boná fide made by him during the two years before the declaration.

(Modification of law of Land Acquisition.—Earthquakes.)

(g) Clauses fourthly and fifthly of section 23(1) of the Land Acquisition Act should not apply in the case of tanneries, soorkee mills or other offensive trades.

139. Mr. Hughes considers that, in cases to which it might be applied, the provisions of Michael Angelo Taylor's Act (57 Geo. III, c. 29) should be applied. That Act gave the persons having control over the pavements in a parochial district within the limits of the Act power to alter, widen, &c., streets, and for that purpose to purchase the houses or lands which stood in the way of such altering or widening. There was no provision in the Act for any allowance for a compulsory sale, but Mr. Freeman says, at page 150 of his book on "The Law and Practice of Compensation":—"There seems no sound reason why a claimant whose land is compulsorily taken should not receive the allowance, whether such taking is under the Lands Clauses Act or Taylor's Act, and it is submitted that such allowance should both be claimed and insisted on." The other members of the Commission think there is no necessity for adopting any of the provisions of Michael Angelo Taylor's Act.

Michael Angelo Taylor's Act.

140. Mr. Hughes also considers that there should be no statutory allowance in respect of property acquired in unhealthy areas. We have carefully considered the question of statutory allowance, and are not inclined to recommend any alteration of the present law. In some of the English Acts, no allowance is made for compulsory sale. In one [1], a discretion is allowed. Mr. Freeman, in his book to which we have referred, says, at page 41, that in England the allowance for compulsory sale in the case of houses and building land is invariably 10 per cent., while in the case of agricultural land it is usually 25 per cent., and in some of the northern counties rises to 50 per cent. The 15 per cent. fixed by law in this country is, we think, fair.

Statutory allowance.

141. The only other suggestion we have to make as to proceedings under the Land Acquisition Act is that, when the amount in dispute between the Corporation and the land-owner exceeds Rs. 5,000, the High Court should exercise the powers of "the Court" under the Land Acquisition Act. In cases of large amount, proceedings in the High Court are less expensive. Moreover, as questions of importance often arise, it is better that the higher tribunal should have original jurisdiction, and we believe that the arrangement which we suggest would be appreciated both by the Corporation and by the owners of property in this city.

Conferment of jurisdiction on High Court.

EARTHQUAKES.

Earthquakes.

142. We have also been asked to consider whether any regulations should be framed with the object of rendering buildings in Calcutta less liable to be damaged by earthquakes. We have obtained a certain amount of information on the subject [2], but are not in a position to recommend that there should be any specific regulations. There is no doubt that the new buildings in Calcutta stood the shock of the recent earthquake better than the old ones. This would tend to show that buildings are now constructed with better materials and workmanship than formerly. The use of good mortar may strengthen a building, but, unless it be required that the main walls be braced with iron tie-rods secured to wall-plates, we know of no rule for the construction of a house which would prevent its being injured by future earthquakes. The special precautions suggested by the gentlemen whom we have consulted would be too expensive to justify their universal application. The ordinary precaution of the use of good materials and workmanship seems to us to be sufficient for all practical purposes.

In Mr. Foley's Memorandum of the 9th of August, 1897 [3], we were asked to consider the subject of amending the law, so as to provide for the possible contingency of seismic disturbances, or give the Municipal Commissioners wider powers in regard to the nature of the repairs that can be required. We are of opinion that the provisions of section 233 of the present Act (Bengal Act II of 1888), if intelligently worked, are sufficient for the purpose. It might, however, be better to give power to inspect structural repairs, and, if such repairs are not properly done, to pull them down and effect necessary repairs, at the expense of the owner [1]. We propose to deal with section 233 in the draft Bill mentioned in paragraph 143, infra.

Conclusion.

143. We have, so far as we can see, answered all the questions which have been referred to us, but we propose to submit a supplementary Report with a draft Bill embodying in legislative form our recommendations for the amendment of the law. We desire, in conclusion, to express our thanks to those Associations and gentlemen who have assisted us, and also to express our obligations to our Secretary, Mr. Wigley, for his valuable services.

A DISSENT.

Point of difference.

I REGRET to have to differ from my colleagues on one important matter. I cannot persuade myself to agree in the recommendation made in paragraph 44 of this Report that "the powers now possessed by the Commissioners to control the action of the Executive with regard to the erection of buildings, the enforcement of building regulations and the protection of streets from encroachment, together with such further powers in the same behalf as may be considered necessary, should be entrusted to a small Committee, to whom only an appeal should lie from the action of the Executive Officers. This Committee should be entirely independent of the general body of the Commissioners, and their decisions, when in accordance with law, should be final."

By this recommendation it is proposed to invest a small Committee with the power of general control over the Executive, which the Commissioners as a body have now been exercising for over 20 years, since the introduction of the elective system in Calcutta. The proposal is objectionable, as it appears to be subversive of one of the fundamental principles of local self-government, namely, that the Corporate body should in all respects have powers of general control,—a principle which forms the basis of the present system of municipal law in Calcutta, and which, I believe, is recognised by all civilized countries, at the present day, as an essential element of real municipal government. In this connection I cannot refrain from quoting the following passage from an interesting little book by Albert Shaw, entitled "Municipal Government in Continental Europe." Writing about German Municipal Councils he says:—

> "However peculiar in a hundred details the German system may be, it is like the English and the French systems in the main fact that the voters elect a representative common council, of considerable size and sitting in one chamber, which has in its hands for exercise directly or indirectly the whole authority that exists in the municipality. It is a body large enough to contain men of various opinions, and it acts openly, with full responsibility."

First objection: the transfer of power of control from the Commissioners as a body to a small Committee is unjustifiable and unnecessary.

There do not appear to be any reasonable grounds for so radical a change as would divest the Corporation of such important powers in regard to the working of the Building Regulations; nor have I been able to find any justification for it amongst the mass of evidence placed before the Commission. The Building Committee has, indeed, been accused by some of having abused the discretionary power given to the Commissioners under bye-law (f) 8; and in paragraph 41 of this Report, enumerating the main defects in the present Act and bye-laws, it is stated "that the Building Committee of the Commissioners is too large a body for the purpose of dealing with questions relating to buildings," and "that bye-law (f) 8 is too wide in its terms." To remedy these defects the number of Members of the Building Committee might be reduced by law to 5 or 6, as proposed to be done in the case of the small Committee referred to above; and bye-law (f) 8 itself might be repealed, as recommended in paragraph 118. What necessity is there, then, to divest the Commissioners as a body of their legitimate function of general control, which they have exercised not only over Executive Officers but also over the various Committees appointed by them, under sections 63 and 65 of the Act, to help the Executive in the discharge of their multifarious duties involving intricate questions which require local knowledge and experience for their speedy and successful solution. Many instances will be found in the recorded proceedings of the Corporation where the Commissioners-in-meeting have found fault with the decisions of Committees and have upset them altogether. That there are generally to be found, on the part of the Commissioners as a body, a spirit of independence and impartiality, a desire to deal out even-handed justice to all parties and a tendency to uphold the Executive, will, I believe, be recognised by all who have taken any interest in or who have watched the proceedings of the Calcutta Corporation. I firmly believe that it is much safer to entrust the real and final controlling powers to a larger body, composed of persons from different sections of the community and representing varied interests, than to a smaller number of men. And it will, no doubt, be admitted by all who have experience of municipal affairs that a large body of representative men is more likely to deal justly and impartially with public matters than a small number of men who are consequently more liable to be influenced by party and personal considerations. Great stress is laid by some upon the evils of canvassing, but it is apparently much easier and more convenient to canvass successfully a small than a large number of men.

Second objection: some of the powers assigned to the Committee would lead to serious administrative inconvenience.

My next objection is that the powers assigned to this small Committee are such as would lead to confusion and, in some instances, to serious administrative inconvenience, causing great delay in the transaction of the ordinary municipal work. It will be observed that the Committee is to exercise original jurisdiction in some cases and appellate powers in others. With regard to "the erection of buildings, the enforcement of building regulations and the protection of streets from encroachment." the Committee, it is recommended, will exercise only appellate jurisdiction, the Executive exercising original powers. But in regard to sections 206 (allowing to build within the regular line of street, paragraph 57), 212 (removing obstructions or encroachments on public street, paragraph 61) and 223 (allowing supported verandahs to be erected and contracting for rent for same, paragraphs 64 and 65), also in determining whether a building may be sanctioned or not, if no orders have been issued by the Executive within the prescribed period (paragraph 68), in selling lands which amendments in law make unsuitable for building (paragraph 74) and in stopping progress of building operations (paragraph 88), the Committee is to be empowered to act in the first instance. Similarly, as regards the construction of new privies and dealing with old and insanitary ones now in existence, it is recommended (paragraph 120) that—

> "the powers conferred upon the Commissioners by sections 292 and 294 of the Act should be exercisable only by the Committee.
> "when there is no convenient access from a street, suitable for wheeled traffic, to a privy, the Committee should be empowered to require that a passage at ground-level giving access to the street in front of the building shall be formed.
> "a clause should be added to section 286 of the Act authorising the Committee, either in addition to or in lieu of issuing a notice, to prosecute any person whose privy is not kept in good order, and providing for the imposition of a penalty and of a daily fine."

Further, it is recommended (paragraph 124) that "whenever any building or block of buildings in the City is, by reason of the manner in which such buildings are crowded together, or of the want of drainage or ventilation, and the impracticability of cleansing, attended with risk of disease to the occupiers thereof or to the inhabitants of the neighbourhood," the Committee should have power "to cause a notice to be fixed to some conspicuous part of such block, requiring the owners or occupiers thereof, within a reasonable time, to be specified in such notice, to execute such works or take such action as the Committee may deem necessary for the prevention of such risk," and that "if such owners or occupiers neglect to execute such works or take such action within the time specified, the Committee may cause such works to be executed or such action to be taken in respect of such buildings, and may, if necessary, cause such buildings or any of them to be pulled down" under orders of a Magistrate.

No provision for appeal, however, has been recommended in any of these cases; unless it be intended that the Committee will exercise both original and appellate jurisdiction,—a condition of things which would be highly objectionable on principle.

Again, although it is recommended that with regard to "the enforcement of building regulations" the Committee will exercise only appellate jurisdiction, the power to prosecute for infringements of the building laws (sections 242 and 249), and to apply for orders for demolition of buildings (sections 240, 241 and 248) are recommended to be exercised only by the Committee (paragraph 44). Under the present law all these powers, although vested in the Commissioners, are, as a matter of fact, daily exercised by the Chairman of the Corporation, under section 61 of the Act, subject to the general control of the Commissioners-in-meeting. The recommendation made in this report, however, will have the effect of transferring such powers from the Chairman to the small Committee, without any control whatever on the part of any other authority; this, it is feared, will lead to serious administrative inconvenience.

In every case of prosecution and demolition under Chapter X of the Act ("Streets and Building regulations") a meeting of the Committee will have to be called, and the matter will have to be discussed on its merits before any decision is arrived at; and, when one takes into consideration the number of such prosecutions instituted every year, the impracticability of the proposal will be apparent. Last year the number of such prosecutions in the Town proper was 2,928[1] and in the added area 212[2], aggregating 3,140. As for demolition, the order to demolish is at present issued by the Chairman. It is now recommended that such orders should be made only by a Magistrate (paragraph 87) and that the application to the Magistrate for such orders should be made only by the Committee (paragraph 44, second sub-paragraph). Last year the number of notices issued for demolition under different sections of Chapter X was 1,812[3] in the Town proper and 157[4] in added area, aggregating 1,969; and if police help were forthcoming the Chairman himself could have enforced his orders in as many cases as he might have thought necessary. The proposed Committee will now determine the cases in respect of which applications for orders for demolition will have to be made before a Magistrate, and the Magistrate, as usual, will not issue any orders unless he has taken down the evidence of both parties to the case. Thus the procedure recommended is certainly no improvement upon the present method of working; it must, in the nature of things, be cumbrous and dilatory.

With regard to privies, the Committee will be authorized, in addition to or in lieu of issuing notices, to prosecute under section 286. The notices issued under this section during last year were 3,693[5] in number in the Town proper and 1,195 [6] in the added area, aggregating 4,888; and it is in connection with these notices that the Committee will have to exercise its discretionary power of prosecution. This is doubtless very onerous work for the small Committee.

Altogether, the proposed system will introduce in my opinion a complicated procedure, which will certainly not facilitate despatch of municipal business.

Third objection: defective constitution; preponderance of the official element

My third objection to the proposed Committee is in respect of its constitution. The Engineer of the Corporation will be one of its members, and it is the Engineer with whom the power of giving or refusing sanction would lie in the first instance (paragraph 68). Under the present law the Chairman is the only Executive Officer who is authorized to join the Commissioners in their deliberations and to have a voice in them; he is looked upon as the sole representative of the whole Executive machinery; and the Engineer, though an important functionary, has always been subordinate to the Chairman. To single out the Engineer and give him a voice and vote in the direction and settlement of affairs, particularly when the appeal is against his orders, seems to me to be open to objection and is certainly a great departure from the traditions of municipal government in Calcutta. If then the Engineer is to have a place on this small Committee, why should "the Health Officer be subordinate to the Committee," as observed at the end of paragraph 44 of the not the Report Is Health Officer as important an Officer of the Corporation as? the Engineer

Besides the Chairman and the Engineer, there will be sionershree Commis on the Committee—two to be elected by the general bodyners, of Commissio and the third to be nominated by the Local Government. The appointment of one of the members of a Committee of the Corporation by the Local Government is another departure from the practice hitherto followed, and is also objectionable in principle. Either all the three Commissioner-members should be elected by the general body of Commissioners or two should be elected by the elected Commissioners and the third by the nominated Commissioners, following the present procedure in the case of the General Committee, under section 63 of the Act. In any case, the election to the proposed small Committee from amongst the Commissioners should be made by themselves and not by any authority external to the Corporation, even though it be the Local Government.

The constitution of the small Committee, as recommended, will, I am afraid, be such as would tend to make the official majority preponderate: the Chairman is an official; so is the Engineer; and so most likely will be the Government nominee, for he will practically be the Chairman's nominee. For a Committee so constituted to dispose of appeals against the action of the Executive Officers would be, to say the least, little short of a farce.

If it be intended to give to the residents of this town a real Committee of Appeal against the action of the Municipal Executive Officers, it is far better that it should consist of independent and unprejudiced persons, unconnected with the Municipality and possessing the requisite technical knowledge, than that it should be the sort of Committee recommended in this Report. In London, under the London Building Act, 1894, section 175, the tribunal of appeal consists of "one member appointed by a Secretary of State; one member appointed by the Council of the Royal Institute of British Architects, and one member appointed by the Council of the Surveyors' Institution." The section distinctly lays down that "no member or officer of the Council (the London County Council) shall be a member of the tribunal of appeal."

Recommendation.

Having regard to all the circumstances of the case, I am decidedly of opinion that there is no necessity for any change in the present methods of working the building regulations, so far as the Committee of the Corporation is concerned; and would recommend that matters be left much as they are, except that the number of members of the Building Committee may be reduced to six (four being elected and two nominated Commissioners, with the Chairman of the Corporation as President), and the discretionary powers given to the Commissioners repealed from both the Act and the bye-laws. Such Committee, of course, to be subject to the general revisionary powers of the Commissioners-in-meeting, as at present.

I would strongly object to any powers being given to the proposed small Committee "to grant dispensations in special cases which are not provided for by the building law" as recommended at the end of paragraph 118. What guarantee is there that "in granting dispensations in special cases" the Committee will not override the law? To whom will they be accountable? Who will put them right if they do override the law?

Complaints against Building Committee much exaggerated.

Reference has been made in this Report (paragraph 118) to "the complaints which have been made as to the action of the Building Committee of the Corporation." Most of the complaints have been made by Dr. Simpson; and in my opinion it would have been better to have enquired into them from the records of the Corporation; for I believe such an enquiry would have cleared up many misapprehensions that now exist on the subject. It will, however, not be out of place in this Note of Dissent to embody a few figures taken from the Administration Reports of the Municipality, showing how far the alleged interference with the Executive is consistent with the facts of the case. The following table will show the number of applications for sanction to building dealt with by the Executive, the number of such applications

	Pucca buildings.	Kutcha huts.	Total	Pucca buildings.	Kutcha huts.	Total	Pucca buildings and kutcha huts.
1892-93 [1] ...	2,327 +	3,136	5,463	874 +	1,560	2,434	198
1893-94 [2] ...	2,539 +	3,470	6,009	954 +	1,274	2,228	107
1894-95 [3] ...	2,334 +	3,397	5,731	840 +	1,123	1,963	118
1895-96 [4] ...	2,188 +	3,044	5,232	716 +	995	1,711	170
1896-97 [5] ...	2,229 +	2,910	5,139	776 +	887	1,663	134

From the above it will be abundantly clear that only a small proportion of Building cases actually came up before the Building Committee as appeals against the orders of the Executive; and if these cases were carefully analysed it would appear that most of these appeals were not only well grounded but amply justified.

(15) Letter No. 34T.A., dated 23rd September 1897, from the Director of the Department of Land Records and Agriculture, submitting proposals for opening Agricultural Classes in the Sibpur College.

RESOLUTION.—Proposals for the establishment of Agricultural Classes in the Sibpur Engineering College were made in 1888 by the then Director of the Department of Land Records and Agriculture, Bengal, in connection with the enquiries of the Committee which was appointed in 1887 to report on the working of the Sibpur Engineering College. The Director's recommendations were endorsed by the Committee, and were further developed in 1892 in consultation with Mr. J. Slater, Principal of the Sibpur College. No orders were passed by Government on these proposals, however, pending consideration of the Report of Dr. J A. Voelcker, who had been deputed by the Secretary of State for India to advise on the best course to be adopted in order to apply the teachings of Agricultural Chemistry, and in order to effect improvements in Indian Agriculture.

2. In considering the need for, and the advantages of providing higher education in agriculture, Dr. Voelcker expressed the opinion that it is not advisable, at present, to establish special Agricultural Colleges, but that it will be better to utilize existing colleges of science, and to add agriculture to the subjects taught in such colleges. He recommended also that Universities should encourage the study of agriculture by making it an optional subject in the course for a degree, and that the claims of men who have passed examinations in agriculture should be fully recognized for appointments in the Revenue and cognate Departments. These conclusions were discussed at a general conference of officers of the Agricultural Departments convened at Simla in October 1893, and were held to be included in the Resolutions previously passed at the fifth meeting of an Agricultural Conference held at Simla in 1890. The four Resolutions of the Simla Conference of 1893, which had a direct bearing on the proposal to open classes at Sibpur for the teaching of agriculture and allied subjects, were as follows :—

That, as a general rule, instruction in agriculture should be combined with the existing course of education, and not depend exclusively on separate special institutions.

That it is highly desirable that the claims of men trained in scientific agriculture to appointments in the Revenue and cognate Departments should be as freely recognized as those of men trained in Law, Art, and Engineering.

That where appointments in the Revenue and cognate Departments are made on the result of the competitive examinations, scientific agriculture should be included as an optional or necessary subject in the examination course.

That in any province in which it may be determined to introduce a scheme for higher agricultural education, no arrangements will be satisfactory which do not provide (1) for a thorough practical training of the students in the field and laboratory, as distinct from theory or practice as taught in the lecture, and (2) for examination tests of a special and searching nature in the above branches of work.

Before issuing orders on the proposals and recommendations of the Agricultural Conference of 1893, the Government of India decided that the views and wishes of the Local Governments should be more definitely ascertained, and for this purpose, Sir Edward Buck, Secretary to the Government of India in the Department of Revenue and Agriculture, was placed on special duty, and met the delegates of the Bengal Government in January 1896 at Calcutta. At this Conference, the scheme of 1892 for the establishment of an Agricultural College was accepted, with some slight modifications; and in paragraph 17 of this Government's letter No. 630T.R. of the 24th June 1896, the sanction of the Government of India was solicited to the early formation of agricultural classes at Sibpur, and to the appointment of an Agricultural Lecturer. The sanction of Her Majesty's Secretary of State for India to the appointment of an Agricultural Lecturer at Sibpur College was communicated to this Government with the endorsement Nos. 1131—48-7, dated 24th July 1897, from the Government of India. It has been decided that the agricultural classes will be opened at Sibpur from June 1898.

3. The scheme of agricultural education to be provided at Sibpur includes two classes. The course of study to be followed by students in the upper class, qualifying for the higher diploma, is intended to train students for employment in the higher branches of the Revenue and cognate services, or for employment as managers and sub-managers of estates, or as tahsildars and land stewards. The course of study for the lower class will be suitable for candidates for the office of kanungo and other subordinate posts in the Revenue service. The theoretical course for both classes will be limited to 14 months, including vacations, from June of one year to August of the next. During the eight months from November of the second year to the following June, it is contemplated that the students of both classes will receive practical instruction on the Sibpur farm, as probationers on Government and Court of Wards' estates, and that they will make excursions to the Burdwan and Dumraon experimental farms. Dr. Leather, who was recently Agricultural Chemist to the Government of India, has also suggested that the students should visit the Allahabad and Cawnpore Farms, and Mr. Keventer's Dairy Farm at Aligarh.

The higher course of study will be open to students of the Engineering College who have passed the F. E. examination at the end of their third year, who will already have studied chemistry, physics, mathematics, surveying, levelling and drawing. It may be also arranged so far as the available accommodation will permit, to admit to this class B. A.'s nominated by Government who have passed by the B course or other students of sufficient educational attainments so nominated. The subjects to be taught in the upper class during the 14 months' course of agricultural study are agriculture, organic and agricultural chemistry and laboratory work, botany, physiography, geology, meteorology, hydraulics, book-keeping and zamindari accounts. Arrangements may be made for students to attend lectures in veterinary science at the Veterinary College, and special lectures will be given on the culture of lac, indigo, sugar, &c., as shown in Appendix A to this Resolution.

The syllabus of lectures prepared by Mr. Mukherji and revised by Dr. Leather, late Agricultural Chemist to the Government of India, which is printed as Appendix A to this Resolution, is provisionally approved, but will be subject to such modification as may be found necessary. The lower course of study will be open to students of the College who have completed their second year in the apprentice department, and to teachers sent from training schools with the sanction of the Director of Public Instruction. The course will include agriculture, surveying, workshop practice, botany, and zamindari accounts. At the close of their terms of theoretical study, the students of both classes will be examined in the subjects prescribed in their course, and successful students will receive from the Principal of the College, in the higher class, a diploma; in the lower, a certificate of proficiency. On the conclusion of the further term of practical training, and after further examination, the diplomas and certificates of those students who satisfy the examiners will be countersigned by the Director of the Department of Land Records and Agriculture, and will then qualify the holders for employment in the higher or lower grades of the Revenue and cognate services.

4. His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor is prepared to assign one appointment annually in the Provincial Executive Service, and one in the Subordinate Executive Service to such of the holders of agricultural diplomas as he may think most deserving of and suitable for these appointments, and will also consider favourably applications for nominations to be given to such students, authorizing them to compete at the examinations for candidates for admission to the Provincial, Executive and Opium Services, provided the applicants are, in other respects, considered by him to be suitable for admission to these services. Students who hold certificates of proficiency in agriculture will be eligible for employment in the subordinate services as kanungos, in the Canal Department, and under the Court of Wards, and as normal school teachers. But it is not possible, at present, to state how many such appointments can be given each year to the holders of agricultural certificates.

5. For the present, students in the agricultural classes will not be required to pay tuition fees, but board, lodging, and lighting must be paid for at the ordinary scale; accommodation for students will be provided in the hostel attached to the College.

Senior scholarships held by students when passing the F.E. examination will continue to be tenable in the agricultural classes during the fourth year: the number of such scholarships at present open to all the senior students of the Sibpur College is 10, viz. 1 of Rs. 20 a month, 3 of Rs. 15 a month, 6 of Rs. 10 a month. In addition to these scholarships, one graduate scholarship of Rs. 30 a month, tenable in the fifth year, will be awarded on the result of the fourth-year examination. To students of the apprentice department who join the agricultural classes, ten reduced feeships of Rs. 2 a month will be allotted, tenable during the 14 months of their theoretical training. During the final year of training, four stipends of Rs 10 a month will be awarded on the results of the final agricultural examination.

6. The initial expenditure on apparatus necessary for the opening of the classes will be Rs. 7,000, viz.—

	Rs.
Chemical apparatus	5,000
Botanical apparatus	1,500
Furniture	500

A provision of Rs. 10,000 has been made in the Education Budget for 1897-98, from which this expenditure will be met.

The annual cost of the classes will be about Rs. 10,000, and will be met from the Education Budget: the details are as follows:—

	Rs.	Rs.
(1) Lecturer in Agriculture and Agricultural Chemistry on	300+100	4,800
(2) Allowance to Assistant Lecturer in Chemistry on	150	1,800
(3) Allowance to Lecturer in Botany	100	1,200

(5) One servant	8	96
(6) One daftri	10	120
(7) Contingencies and miscellaneous	...	1,804
		10,000

7. The whole control of the teaching staff and establishment will be with the Principal of the Sibpur College, but the nomination of the Agricultural Lecturer will be left to the Director of Land Records, who will also be Official Visitor of the agricultural classes. The Agricultural Lecturer will, on this occasion, be taken from the staff of Deputy Collectors, and will draw his grade pay plus a special allowance of Rs. 100 a month, and to fill the vacancy caused by his deputation, a new appointment will be added in the Rs. 300 grade. The Lieutenant-Governor has appointed Mr. Nitya Gopal Mukherji, a graduate of Cirencester, and, at present, Assistant Director of the Bengal Agricultural Department, to the post of Agricultural Lecturer.

8. The Lieutenant-Governor has much pleasure in sanctioning the opening of these agricultural classes at Sibpur College. They will complete a scheme which Sir Alexander Mackenzie has had much at heart, viz., the expansion of that institution into a thoroughly equipped School of Technical Instruction, where young men can be trained to take part in the development of the resources of Bengal, whether as Civil Engineers, Mechanical Engineers, Mining Engineers, Electrical Engineers, or Agricultural experts.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

M. FINUCANE,

Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE MONTH OF FEBRUARY 1898.

WEATHER during February was more disturbed than usual. The daily changes in pressure and temperature were large at times, and almost throughout the month the variations from the normal were much greater than usual.

Three disturbances occurred,—two in the early part of the month about the 7th and 11th, and the third between the 16th and 22nd. Rainfall was fairly general during the passage of the first two, but the distribution was abnormal in consequence of a larger proportion than usual falling in the north of the province, apparently to the loss of the southern divisions. The average fall in Bihar and North Bengal was half an inch in excess, while in Lower Bengal and Orissa there was, in comparison with the fall, a large defect, varying from ·7 to nearly 1 inch. No rain fell during the disturbance towards the end of the month, but the changes of pressure and temperature were unusually rapid, defect in pressure at one time being as much as ·5 inch. The apparent reason for the irregular distribution of rainfall during the early part of the month and its entire absence during the last week is the northerly displacement of the central area of the depressions. During some seasons this area of lowest pressure passes eastward across Lower Bengal and Orissa, in which case continued cloudy weather obtains for some days, as was the case, in the early part of 1897. The mean course is over the central parts of the province, and then the distribution of the rainfall is most regular. During the present season the course taken by the depressions has been much more to the north than usual, so that the southern parts of the province have received comparatively little rain and the falls increase in amount towards the north, being comparatively heavy over the hills.

At the beginning of February the pressure distribution was very nearly normal over the Bay with temperature also nearly normal, but low. Over the province it was different. Pressure diminished towards the north. Winds were southerly and temperature was from 2° to 5° above the normal. The brisk fall of pressure on the 2nd and south-easterly winds in the west of Bihar showed the approach of a depression towards the northern districts. Winds were south or south-west in Lower Bengal and there was a further increase of temperature, but over the Bay practically no change occurred. The fall of temperaturd continuing slowly a fairly well marked depression was shown over the province on the 3re with irregular cyclonic winds and very high temperature for the season, excess varying from 5° to 10°. There was, however, very little cloud and no rain except a few light showers in the hills. A change began on the 4th with a brisk rise of pressure in the north-east followed by a continued rise on the 5th and a fall in the western districts, in consequence of which the depression became deeper over Bihar and a steep gradient obtained over the whole province, but especially in the north. Rainfall was fairly general over North Bengal on the 4th, but on the 5th it was general and heavy over the whole of the north of the province. Though the depression filled up quickly on the 6th, there was still rain at most of the northern stations. The rainfall extended southwards, but occurred in the south of the province only as scattered showers.

The fall of temperature began in the north, and as was the case with the rainfall extended southwards. On the 6th the difference of mean temperature from the normal varied from defect of 2° in the extreme north of North Bengal to excess of nearly 10° in part of Lower Bengal; on the 7th there was defect except in Lower Bengal where excess was much smaller, and on the 8th there was normal temperature over the whole province.

The normal distribution of pressure and temperature, with the usual northerly winds, which became established by the 8th, was of only short duration, as though pressure continued to rise rather quickly on the 9th the easterly winds in Bihar showed the approach of another depression. Temperature was also being affected, as in the west of Bihar there was excess of more than 5° On the 11th the depression was over the western districts and rainfall was general especially in Bihar. The depression was shallow and passed quickly eastward, the rainfall on the 12th being much more scattered than on the previous day. It had ceased to affect weather on the 13th. Winds were westerly or north-westerly at all stations, rainfall had ceased and temperature had fallen especially in the western districts where a moderate defect prevailed.

For some days subsequent to the 13th ordinary weather prevailed over the Bay and the province. Pressure oscillations continued on a scale rather larger than usual at inland stations and the gradient was moderately steep over the Bay from north-west south-eastward. Light rain continued in parts of North Bengal, chiefly in the hills.

Pressure began to fall on the 16th and continued briskly or rapidly till the 19th when there was a large defect over the whole province with a deep depression in the extreme north-east. At Jalpaiguri, Dhubri and Sibsagar defect was very little under half an inch. As readings diminished steadily towards the north, and the winds remained westerly during the passage of this depression, the central area was evidently to the north of the province. The westerly winds being dry, cloudless weather with high temperature obtained. Between the 19th and 20th a rapid fall of temperature set in along with the recovery of pressure. On the former date mean temperature was generally 5° and in places as much as 8° above the normal. On the 20th there was defect everywhere varying from 2° in the east to 8° in the west of the province. The rapid rise of pressure continued till the 22nd when the difference from the normal was small at inland stations, but the distribution over the Bay became similar to what had obtained before the disturbance. Being relatively low over the south-east of the Bay a rather steep gradient was established with steady north-westerly winds and temperature everywhere below the normal by from 5° to 10°. This arrangement continued with little or no change, except a slow rise of temperature till the end of the month.

Pressure.—As stated above pressure changes have been much larger than usual and at times of disturbance were more prolonged than is usual at this season of the year. The most marked case of these large changes was between the 16th and 22nd when a deep depression passed eastward with its central area over the hills. The fall continued rapidly for three days, and the recovery was equally prolonged. Owing to the unusual depth of the depression during those days the monthly means are much below the normal, most so in Bengal Proper and Bihar, where defect is very little under ·1 inch. In Orissa and Chota Nagpur the defect is smaller, but generally over ·06 inch.

Temperature was very high for the season in the early part of the month, and, though it fell after the disturbances about the 6th and 11th, it generally remained above the normal. For some days about the middle of the month the difference from the normal was small, but towards the 19th there was again a large excess which gave way after the depression passed eastward. From that date till the end of the month cool weather prevailed. As there was a large excess during the greater part of the first half of the month and a defect towards the end, the means for the whole month differ by only small amounts from the normal. The greatest excess is 1° in North and East Bengal, and the difference in other parts is half a degree, except in Orissa, where there is defect of about 1°.

Rainfall was more heavy than usual in the north of the province and lighter than usual in the southern districts. In South-West Bengal and Orissa between a tenth and a fifth of an inch fell, and in East Bengal a third instead of 1 inch on an average, whereas in North Bengal and Bihar the average fall was more than 1 inch instead of the normal half an inch. Most of the fall occurred on or about two dates, the 6th and 11th, except in the hill districts of North Bengal, where light showers were more frequent. The latter half of the month was almost entirely rainless.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the Province for the month of February 1898:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h., and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

NOTIFICATION—No. 1106.

The 22nd March 1898.—The following Report of the Bruce Institution for the year 1897 is published for general information.

D. J. MACPHERSON,
Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

REPORT OF THE BRUCE INSTITUTION FOR THE YEAR 1897.

I.—Control.—During the year under review the following gentlemen were appointed to be Governors under rule 10 of the scheme for the management of the Institution:—

(1) Mr. E. W. Kellner, C.I.E., vice Mr. W. H. Ryland, resigned.

(2) Mr. C. W. Peake (Officiating Inspector of European Schools), vice Mr. H. A. Bamford (Inspector of European Schools), on furlough.

Sir Alfred Croft, K.C.I.E., Director of Public Instruction and ex-officio Governor and Honorary Secretary of the Bruce Institution, retired from the service on pension, and was succeeded by Dr. C. A. Martin. The Most Revd. the Lord Bishop of Calcutta was away on leave for some months, but has since returned to India.

The following is the list of the Governors at the close of the year:—

The Hon'ble the Chief Justice of Bengal	Ex-officio.
The Most Rev. the Lord Bishop of Calcutta
The Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals
The Chairman of the Calcutta Municipality
The Director of Public Instruction, Bengal

The Hon'ble Mr. Justice Sale.
The Ven'ble W. MacCarthy (Archdeacon of Calcutta).
The Very Rev. Father Lafont, S.J., C.I.E.
The Rev. F. W. Warne.
C. W. Peake, Esq.
George Irving, Esq.
E. W. Kellner, Esq., C.I.E.

II.—Capital and Income.—The capital of the Institution stood, as in the previous year, at Rs. 10,46,200, and is held in the form of a stock certificate of the year 1865 by the Comptroller-General. It yields at the rate of $3\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. per annum less commission an annual net interest of Rs. 36,525, which is placed to the credit of the Institution in the Bank of Bengal.

III.—Election, Vacancies, &c.—The annual election was held in the month of August as usual. For the 20 vacancies advertised 100 applications were received, and 20 of the most deserving girls were elected on the report of a Sub-Committee consisting of the Ven'ble Archdeacon MacCarthy, the Very Rev. Father Lafont, S.J., C.I.E., the Rev. F. W. Warne, and Mr. George Irving. During the year under review 13 vacancies were caused by the withdrawal of children by their parents or guardians: of these 10 had attained the age of 17 years, the age at which the connection of foundationers with the institution ordinarily ceases. Two girls were granted extensions up to the end of the year 1899 to enable them to appear at the High School Examination with a view to becoming teachers. Another girl was granted an extension up to the end of the year 1898 for a similar purpose. One of the wards who had been granted an extension passed the last First Arts Examination from the Doveton Institution, whilst another who had completed her education in the Calcutta Free School was appointed as a hospital monitress in the same Institution. There was only one death amoung the foundationers during the year. At the close of the year there were 147 girls on the books of the institution who were distributed among the various schools as follows:—

Loretto Convent, Intally—
High School	18
Orphanage	45
		63
Calcutta Girls' School		36
Pratt Memorial School		19
Calcutta Free School		13
St. Paul's Mission School		8
LaMartiniere for Girls		5
European Protestant Orphanage, Cuttack		3
Total ...		147

In the following table will be found particulars as to the class and religion of the foundationers:—

CLASS.	Roman Catholics.	Church of England.	Non-conformists.	Total.
1	2	3	4	5
1. Orphans, or deserted by their parents ...	31	20	8	59
2. Fatherless or deserted by the father or father incapable.	28	40	13	81
3. Cases of extreme poverty	3	2	2	7
Total ...	62	62	23	147

IV.—Education and Maintenance.—The nature of the education imparted to the girls is that prescribed for primary and middle schools for Europeans. In exceptional cases a higher education may be given. The end sought is to fit the girls benefited by the Institution for a respectable and useful station in life.

The average monthly cost for the education and maintenance of each girl on the foundation amounted to Rs. 17-14-9, against Rs. 16-5-3 in the preceding year. The increase is partly due to the grant of outfit allowances having been more numerous in 1897 than in 1896, and partly to the foundationers having more extensively betaken themselves to institutions where the fee rate is highest. The total amount paid under the different heads of expenditure was as follows:—

1896.		Rs.	A.	P.
Education and maintenance	...	28,997	12	0
Office establishment	...	700	0	0
Contingencies ...	...	35	3	0
Advertisements and printing	...	196	7	1
Funeral expenses ...	...	67	0	0
Other charges ...	...	1,963	4	0
		31,959	10	1
Investment	...	11,800	0	0
Total	...	43,759	10	1

1897.		Rs.	A.	P.
Education and maintenance	...	31,615	5	0
Office establishment	...	775	0	0
Contingencies ..	...	32	2	0
Advertisement and printing	...	182	6	3
Other charges ...	...	1,577	0	0
Total	..	34,181	13	3

V.—Inspection.—The Rev. F. W. Warne acted as Visiting Governor for the first half and Mr. C. W. Peake for the second half-year. Their reports were on the whole satisfactory as regards both the management of the schools in which the foundationers are placed and the health of the children. The Rev. Mr. Warne states that the lady in charge of each school spoke in the main well of the girls on the Bruce Institution. Mr. Peake states that he inspected carefully the dormitories and other domestic arrangements, and satisfied himself that every reasonable effort had been made to ensure the health and comfort of the children, and that he is able to report that the condition of each school is such as to justify the confidence placed in it by the Governors of the Bruce Institution. Good accounts continue generally to be received from the school authorities in regard to the conduct, application, progress, health, and attendance of the girls on the foundation.

VI.—Meetings.—Four meetings were held during the year, and among the various resolutions passed, the following may be noted:—

That a circular be issued to the heads of the schools in which Bruce wards are being educated; that on their recommendations outfit allowances of Rs. 50 each are generally given to foundationers on leaving school.

REVISED WATER-RATE RULES FOR THE MIDNAPORE CANAL.

The 14th February 1898.

No. 19.—Notification.—In exercise of the powers conferred on him by sections 99 and 78 of Act III (B.C.) of 1876, the Hon'ble the Lieutenant Governor proposes to pass the following rules and to fix the undermentioned rates to be charged for water supplied from the Midnapore Canal. These rules and rates will supersede those now in force.

A. D. MCARTHUR, Col., R.E.,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

1. The Divisional Canal Officer is responsible for maintaining the canal in an efficient state of repair, for providing drainage channels where necessary, and generally for all engineering work involved in its management, as well as for the distribution of water to lessees. The word "canal" is here used as defined in section 3 of the Act.

2. The Deputy Collector is responsible for the assessment and collection of water-rates accruing to Government from the canal.

3. Water shall not be distributed otherwise than on the application of a lessee, or to a person in whose favour a provisional license under Rule 15 has been issued. Such application may be made verbally or in writing to any subordinate in charge of that part of the canal from which water is required.

4. If any lessee apply for water to the Deputy Collector or one of his subordinates verbally, he shall be directed to address himself to an irrigation officer or subordinate. If he makes such an application in writing, his petition shall be forwarded direct by the zilladar, to whom it is addressed, to the Subdivisional Canal Officer in charge of that part of the canal from which the petitioner's village is supplied.

5. The Divisional Canal Officer shall map out the irrigable area into blocks in accordance with the natural features of the ground, and so determine that the whole block shall be irrigable from one outlet or from one set of outlets. So far as may be practicable, the blocks shall be separated by drainage lines.

6. Each block determined as above shall be numbered and recorded with its irrigable area in registers to be maintained by the Divisional Canal Officers and Deputy Collector. The blocks shall also be marked on maps to be maintained by the same officers.

7. Ordinarily leases for not more than five years may be granted for the whole irrigable area of a block, or, subject to the provisions of Rule 13, for definite parts of a block under the following conditions:—

I.—Ordinarily the whole irrigable area of any village, so far as situated within the block, must be included in the lease.

II.—All leases within one block shall be granted so that they shall expire on the same date.

III.—In order to equalize the areas to be dealt with in each year, the date of expiry of the leases in each block shall be determined by the Divisional Canal Officer in consultation with the Deputy Collector, so that, as far as practicable, one-fifth of the total area usually irrigated may fall out of lease in each year.

IV.—No permit shall be granted, when the supply of water must of necessity be delivered across an unleased area, unless a village channel exists, which, in the opinion of the Subdivisional Canal Officer, will deliver water without waste across the unleased area.

To enable the Special Deputy Collector to equalize the area which lapses each year, leases in suitable blocks may be granted under the above conditions for six or seven years with the approval of the Executive Engineer.

8. The rates to be charged for water supplied between 16th June and 30th November, whether by flow or lift, to lessees on application shall be—

For a term of five years—Re. 1-8 per acre for each season. The area under long lease will, in future, as a rule, be reduced to 75,000 square acres, i.e., 65,000 acres under the Midnapore weir, 8,000 under the Panchkura weir and 2,000 under the Tidal reaches.

For one year or for water supplied on a provisional license for which a permit for a term of years is not subsequently issued, Rs. 3 per acre.

Provided that the leases, whether new or renewals required for shorter terms than five years in order to develop the system of blocks as explained above, shall be charged Re. 1-8 per acre only.

If water is available after the long leases have been irrigated, leases for a single watering may be given at eight annas per acre, the rate being payable in advance.

9. For the supply of water, when available, for winter crops, a rate of Rs. 2-3 per acre per season shall be charged.

10. For the unauthorized use of canal water a rate of Rs. 5 per acre, or such less rate as may be sanctioned by the Deputy Collector, shall be charged.

11. Application for water-leases under section 74 of the Act shall be presented to the Subdivisional Officer through the zilladar in whose charge the land lies.

12. Every application for a water-lease shall contain the following particulars:—

1.—Name and residence of applicant.

2. Name of pargana, mahal and village in which the land to be irrigated is situated.

3.—Total area for the irrigation of which the application is made and its boundaries, and if the lands to be irrigated lie in separate chaks, the name of each chak.

4.—Names of the raiyats whose lands are to be irrigated, and the quantity of land held by each.

5.—Name of the canal and number of distributary from which water is required.

6.—Signatures of the applicants.

13. A separate application must be presented for lands in each village, but tahsiladaida or other lands lying within the village boundary at the time of survey may be included.

14. Before a permit for a term of years is granted, the written consent of the Divisional Canal Officer shall be obtained, but permits for one year only and provisional licenses may be issued with the written assent of the Subdivisional Canal Officer. The Deputy Collector shall on the day of issue forward a copy of all permits granted to the Divisional Canal Officer.

Existing leases may, with the written consent of the Divisional Canal Officer, be extended for not more than three years, without enquiry or remeasurement, payments being made in accordance with the existing assessment.

15. When a water-lease is granted, a kabuliyat shall be taken in a form approved by Government, and a "permit" shall be given to the lessee or lessees in a form similar to that prescribed in Schedule C of the Act. Pending the completion of a lease, the zilladar may issue a provisional license for the supply of water to an area covered by an application.

16. On the issue of a permit or provisional license, the zilladar shall forward to the Subdivisional Canal Officer direct a requisition requesting him to supply water to the lessee on application. This requisition shall be kept by the Canal Officer till January 1st next following, and shall then be returned to the Deputy Collector. On the back should be noted the several dates on which the village was supplied with water. A fresh requisition shall be issued on or before June 1st, and returned on or before January 1st each year, till the lease expires.

17. When it comes to the knowledge of the Subdivisional Canal Officer that canal water has been taken without authority, he shall hold a local investigation and transmit the record thereof to the Divisional Officer, who shall, if he is of opinion that the fields should be assessed, forward the case with his remarks to the Deputy Collector. Separate proceedings shall be taken in the case of each village irrigated without authority.

18. On receipt of the record mentioned in Rule 17, and after hearing any objection which may be raised, the Deputy Collector shall determine whether water-rates can be legally charged, and if so, he shall proceed to assess, at the rate provided in Rule 10, the land irrigated without authority. Water-rates shall not be charged where the unauthorized irrigation has occurred through the act, neglect or default of a Canal Officer or subordinate.

19. The statements of the amounts demandable for water-rates leviable under the rules in force shall be prepared under the supervision and signature of the Deputy Collector in such form as shall from time to time be sanctioned by the Lieutenant-Governor. Persons charged under Rule 10 or 18 shall be served, by post or otherwise, with a statement showing the amounts charged to enable them to lodge an appeal to the Collector under section 91 of the Act, if they desire to do so.

20. Should it be proved, after due enquiry, that the supply of water given to any leased area is habitually wasted, or used for the irrigation of lands not under lease, it shall be competent for the Superintending Canal Officer to direct that the lease shall be cancelled with effect from the 1st of June next following.

21. The rates for water supplied from June to November shall in each season fall due on the 1st January and 15th February following, but all sums of Rs. 5 and under shall become due on the 1st January and be payable in one instalment. The Deputy Collector may, however, require one-half of the rates due on applications filed after the 1st of September to be paid in advance, and may refuse to issue a permit for more than one year. The rates for water supplied for winter crops shall fall due on the 1st April following.

22. Water-rates imposed under Rule 10 or 18 shall fall due as soon as the assessment is made, and shall be realized at once.

23. The Superintending Canal Officer may, with the concurrence of the Collector direct the Deputy Collector to—

I.—Cease to issue permits for the irrigation of lands in villages where there have been constant difficulties in realizing water-rates until all the arrears of water-rates due are paid up, and also, if specially so ordered, unless half the amount due under new applications is paid in advance. An order under this rule shall be in force for the time stated therein, which shall not exceed three years.

II.—Cancel any five-years' lease if on the 1st of June of any year water-rates to the extent of half the demand for one year are in arrears.

24. Remission of water-rates, either in whole or part, as the case may require shall be granted by the Deputy Collector for—

I.—Errors in the assessment of rates.

II.—Injury to the crop on a leased area caused by deficient supply of water, provided a written application for remission has been made 15 days at least before the crop is out.

In regard to applications under II, the written opinion of the Divisional Canal Officer shall be obtained and form part of the record of the case

25. The Deputy Collector, with the written consent of the Divisional Canal Officer may grant remissions of water-rates, either in whole or part, for injury to the crops on leased areas caused by excess of water due to deficient drainage.

26. The Deputy Collector may, with the written assent of the Divisional Canal Officer, commute rates charged under Rules 10 and 18 to those chargeable for water supplied on application, provided that a lease either for a term of years or for the season has been subsequently executed for the lands in question.

27. Remissions on other grounds than the above require the sanction of Government.

28. In cases where sums due on account of water-rates cannot be collected owing to the death, bankruptcy, or absconding of the defaulter, the amount which is non-realizable may be written off as irrecoverable on the authority of the Superintending Canal Officer.

29. Before awarding compensation under section 16 of the Act, or making a reference under section 17 of the Act, the Collector shall obtain the written opinion of the Superintending Canal Officer, and his written opinion shall form part of the record of the proceedings.

30. The chaukidar or mukhya of any village in which lands are leased for a term of years shall be entitled to a remission of water-rates for his holding either as a jagir or raiyati up to a limit of 3 acres per hundred acres of total leased area provided he gives efficient and willing assistance to the Canal Officers in respect to the following matters:—

I.—In the preparation of applications for leases.

II.—In the measurements of irrigated lands.

III.—In giving the names of the occupiers of the various fields.

IV.—In receiving demand statements and informing the cultivators of the demands against them.

V.—In receiving tappas from the zilladars and distributing them.

VI.—In being present when complaints are investigated by Canal Officers, and giving information regarding the matters under investigation.

VII.—In reporting to the zilladars any mutations in holdings of persons who have signed a lease for a term of years.

31 Tanks may be filled with canal water without charge, wherever water can be made available without injury to the cultivation dependent on a canal under the following conditions:—

I.—No tank shall be filled unless the water is to be exclusively used for domestic purposes or for watering cattle.

II.—No tank shall be filled from which irrigation is practised.

III.—No tank shall be filled which intercepts any line of drainage or is liable to overflow from the accumulation of water from natural causes.

IV.—No tank shall be filled except on the written order of the Subdivisional Canal Officer issued on the written application of the persons concerned.

V.—No tank shall be filled unless the village channel used to convey water to it shall be shown to the satisfaction of the Subdivisional Canal Officer to be in a sound condition when the application is made.

VI.—The privilege here accorded may, by the written order of the Subdivisional Canal Officer, be suspended for 12 months for the breach of any of the above rules.

32. The Divisional Canal Officer may supply water for manufacturing or other purposes and charge for the same at the rate of one rupee for each 10,000 cubic feet or part of 10,000 cubic feet supplied. The same charge will be made if water is taken into a tank without authority or used in an unauthorized manner.

33. No person shall, without the permission in writing of the Divisional or Subdivisional Canal Officer, pass or cause any animal or vehicle to pass on or across any of the works, banks or channels of a canal or drainage work after he has been desired to desist therefrom, except by means of such bridges, fords and ferries and their approaches as are provided by the Divisional Canal Officer.

34. No officer employed on the canals, unless especially exempted by the Lieutenant-Governor from the operation of this rule, shall have any interest in the distribution of water from any of the canals, or purchase or bid for any Government property sold thereon, either in his own name or in the name of another, or jointly, or in shares with others.

35. Except as provided in the Act and in these rules, no appeal shall lie from any order passed by a Canal Officer; but the Subdivisional Canal Officer shall modify any order passed by him in accordance with the order of the Divisional Canal Officer, and the Subdivisional Canal Officer or Divisional Canal Officer shall modify any orders passed by them in accordance with the orders of the Superintending Canal Officer, who shall exercise a general control over the proceedings of all Canal Officers.

36. In appeals to the Collector under section 91 of the Act other than those specially provided for in Rule 19, the Collector may require the Superintending Engineer to state his opinion in writing, which shall form part of the record of the proceedings in the case.

Offg. Chief Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

RULES FOR THE REGISTRATION OF DOCUMENTS UNDER THE BENGAL TENANCY ACT VIII OF 1885.

Leading provisions.

1. The sections of the Tenancy Act, which refer to the registration of documents, are sections 12, 18, 85, 175 and 176.

Section 12 has been amended by Act VIII of 1886, and has reference only to the transfer of a permanent tenure by gift, voluntary sale, or usufructuary mortgage, i.e., where the mortgagor delivers possession and authorises the mortgagee to retain the rents and profits accruing from the property mortgaged [section 58(d) of the Transfer of Property Act, IV of 1882].

Section 18 enacts that a raiyati holding at a fixed rent or fixed rate of rent is subject to the same provisions with respect to its transfer by gift, sale or mortgage as a permanent tenure.

The period allowed by section 175 for the registration of a certain class of documents expired on the 31st October 1886, and after that date their registration was barred.

Section 176 relates to the notification of incumbrances to the landlord. For definition of the term "incumbrance," see section 161.

Examination of the deed.

2. A document presented for registration under sections 12, 18 and 175, shall be first examined with reference to Registration Rule 41, and next with reference to the particular section of the Tenancy Act under which it is presented. Care should be taken not to carry out the procedure under sections 12 and 18, unless it appears on the face of the deed itself that the tenure transferred is a permanent tenure, or that the holding transferred is a holding at a rent, or rate of rent, fixed in perpetuity.

Fractional shares of tenures and holdings.

3. Under section 88 of the Tenancy Act, a division of a tenure or holding, or distribution of the rent payable in respect thereof shall not be binding on the landlord, unless it is made with his consent in writing. When, therefore, it appears from the document that only a fractional share of a tenure or holding is being transferred, and the landlord's consent in writing is not produced, the procedure under sections 12 and 18 should not be carried out.

Refusal of registration of sub-leases executed by ryots creating a term exceeding nine years.

4. When a sub-lease executed by a raiyat purporting to create a term exceeding nine years is presented for registration, it shall be returned at once with a note to the following effect recorded on its back, viz., "Not admissible under sub-section 2, section 85 of the Bengal Tenancy Act." The note shall be signed, sealed, and dated by the registering officer. The order of refusal will be entered in Book II.

Endorsement of certificate of admissibility.

5. In certifying the admissibility to registration of a document presented for registration under these rules, the registering officer shall quote registration Rule 41 as well as the particular section of the Tenancy Act under which it is admitted. Thus: Admissible under Rule 41, also under section of the Bengal Tenancy Act. Correctly stamped under the Indian Stamp Act, Schedule , No.

The serial number of the document in the Tenancy Act fee-book shall be noted in the column of remarks of the registration fee-book with the letters T. A. for reference.

(2) If, in consequence of any such objection, an amendment in any valuation is made which alters the amount of the assessment, the difference, if too much has been paid, shall be repaid or allowed, and, if too little has been paid, shall be deemed to be an arrear of the consolidated rate and shall be payable and recoverable accordingly.

248. If any owner upon whom a notice has been served under section 247 does not, within one month from such service, cause such necessary works as aforesaid to be completed, the occupier who gave the notice may cause the works to be provided or completed, and may deduct from the rent payable by him to such owner the expenses incurred by him in respect of such works, except so much of such expenses as may have been incurred under the circumstances mentioned in clause (b) of the said section 247. [Cal., s. 173.]

Power of Chairman to authorise person other than the owner of a drain to use the same or declare him to be a joint owner thereof.

283. (1) On receipt of any such application, the Chairman, after giving the owner of the drain a reasonable opportunity of stating any objection thereto, may, with the approval of the General Committee, if no objection is raised, or if any objection which is raised appears to him invalid or insufficient, by written order either authorize the applicant to use the drain or declare him to be a joint owner thereof, on such conditions as to the payment of rent or compensation and as to connecting the drain of the applicant with the drain to which his application refers, and as to the respective responsibilities of the parties for maintaining, repairing, flushing, cleaning and emptying the joint drain, or otherwise, as may appear to him equitable. [Bom., s. 238 (1); Cal., s. 283.]

(2) Every such order bearing the signature of the Chairman shall be a complete authority to the person in whose favour it is made, or to any agent or person employed by him for this purpose, after giving or tendering to the owner of the drain the compensation or rent specified in the said order and otherwise fulfilling, as far as possible, the conditions of the said order, and after giving to the owner of the drain reasonable written notice of his intention so to do, to enter upon the land in which the said drain is situate, with assistants and workmen, at any time between sunrise and [Bom., s. 238 (2).]

284. (1) If it appears to the Chairman that a group or block of buildings may be drained more economically or advantageously in combination than separately, and a sewer of sufficient size already exists, or is about to be constructed, within one hundred feet of any part of such group or block of buildings, the Chairman may, with the approval of the General Committee, cause such group or block of buildings to be drained by a combined operation; [Cal., s. 282.]

and the expenses thereby incurred shall be paid by the owners of such buildings, or, in the case of bustee land, by owners of the land in such proportions as the General Committee may think fit.

(2) In determining such compensation, the Chief Judge of the Court of Small Causes of Calcutta shall make allowance for any benefit accruing to the same premises or any adjacent premises belonging to the same owner from the construction or improvement of any other public street, at or about the same time that the public street, on account of which the compensation is paid, is closed.

336. (1) When any building, wall or part thereof projecting across the proposed street alignment or building line (if any), or beyond the front of the building or wall on either side of such first-mentioned building or wall, has fallen down, or been burnt down, or been taken down in order to be re-built or altered, the General Committee may, by written notice, require the same to be set back to or towards such alignment or building line or the line of either of the adjoining buildings or walls. 337. The General Committee may, upon such terms as they think fit, allow any building or wall to be set forward for the purpose of improving the line of a public street. [Cal., s. 209.]

338. (1) The Chairman may remove any wall, fence, rail, post, platform or other obstruction, projection, or encroachment (not being a fixture referred to in section 339 or section 340) which has been erected or set up, and any materials or goods which have been deposited, in a public street or in or over any drain, sewer or aqueduct in a public street, whether the offender be prosecuted under section 359 or not, and the expense of such removal shall be paid by the offender. [Cal., s. 212; C.B.C., para., 61.]

(2) When the Chairman removes any wall, obstruction, projection or encroachment from land which forms part of a public street no compensation shall be payable, but the Committee shall be bound to provide proper means of access to and from the street if none exist already.

Removal or alteration of fixtures attached to building after the commencement of this Act so as to project, etc., over public street or land.

339. (1) If, after the commencement of this Act, any fixture be attached to a building so as to form part of the building in such a way as to cause a projection, encroachment or obstruction over or on any public street or any land vested in the Corporation, the General Committee may, by written notice, require the owner or occupier of the building to remove or alter such fixture. [Cal., s. 211; C. B. C., para. 63.]

(Calcutta Municipality.—Part V.—The Public Health, Safety and Convenience.—Chapter XXI.—Streets and Public Spaces.—Sections 340—343).

(2) If the expense of removing or altering any fixture under this section is paid by the occupier of a building, in any case in which the fixture was not erected by himself, he shall be entitled to deduct the expense of removal or alteration from the rent payable by him to the owner of the building.

Removal or alteration of such fixtures attached to building before the commencement of this Act.

340. When any fixture has, before the commencement of the Act, been attached to a building so as to form part of the building, and the same causes a projection, encroachment or obstruction over or on any public street or any land vested in the Corporation, the General Committee may cause the same to be removed or altered as they may think fit: [Cal., s. 222.]

Provided that the Committee shall give notice to the occupier of such building thirty days before such alteration or removal is begun; and, if the owner or occupier of the building proves that the fixture was lawfully erected, the Corporation shall make reasonable compensation to every person who suffers damage by such removal or alteration.

Planting of trees in public streets or squares.

341. The Chairman may, with the approval of the General Committee, cause trees to be planted in any public street or square, and may erect guards or fences for the protection of the same: [P. H. A. Amendment Act, 1890, s. 43.]

Provided that the powers conferred by this section shall not be exercised, nor shall any trees so planted be continued, so as to hinder the reasonable use of the street or square by the public or by any person entitled to use the same, or so as to cause a nuisance or injury to the owner or occupier of any adjacent building or land.

Cutting of hedges or trees near public street.

342. (1) The Chairman may, by written notice, require the owner or occupier of any building or land to trim or prune any hedges thereof bordering on any public street to a height not exceeding seven feet, or to cut and trim trees overhanging any public street and obstructing the same or causing damage thereto. [Cal., s. 225; Bom., s. 313.]

(2) The Chairman, if for the public safety it appears to him necessary so to do, may cause any hedge or tree referred to in sub-section (1) to be trimmed, pruned or cut without previously giving notice to the owner or occupier of the building or land as required by that sub-section, and the expenses thereof shall nevertheless be paid by the owner or occupier.

Alteration of doors, etc., opening outwards on public street.

343. (1) If any door, gate, bar or ground-floor window be hung or placed so as to open outwards on a public street in a manner likely, in the opinion of the Chairman, to cause obstruction, the Chairman may, by written notice, require the owner of the building or land to which the same is attached to cause the same to be altered so as not to open outwards. [Cal., s. 219.]

(2) Nothing in sub-section (1) shall apply to house-shutters so constructed as to fold flat to the wall, whether opening on to the ground or not.

(Calcutta Municipality.—Part V.—The Public Health, Safety and Convenience.—Chapter XXI.—Streets and Public Spaces.—Sections 344—347.)

Gutters and pipes for carrying water from building in public street.

344. The Chairman may, by written notice, require the owner of any building in a public street—

[Cal., s. 220.]

(a) to put up proper gutters and pipes for catching and carrying the water from the roof and other parts of the building, and for discharging the same in such manner as may be directed in the notice, and

Power to direct alteration of water-pipes, &c.

345. If the General Committee deem it necessary for any of the purposes of this Act that any water-pipes or gas-pipes or other water-works or gas-works laid in any street should be raised or sunk or their situation altered, they may from time to time, by written notice, direct any person owning or having control over such works to have the work done, in such manner as the Committee may direct, either forthwith or as soon as conveniently may be:

[Cal., s. 227.]

Provided as follows—

(a) no direction shall be given for the execution of any such work in such a way as permanently to injure any of such works as aforesaid or to prevent the water or gas from flowing as freely and conveniently as before; and

(b) the Corporation shall pay the expenses attending the execution of such work, and shall also pay full compensation for the damage done thereby, both to the persons to whom such works belong and to any other persons who may be injuriously affected.

Repair, protection or enclosure of dangerous places near streets.

346. If any building, tank, well, hole or other place near a street be, for want of sufficient repair, protection or enclosure, dangerous to passengers or to persons living in the neighbourhood, the General Committee may, by written notice, require the owner of the land to repair, protect or enclose the same.

[Cal., s. 31.]

Projected public streets.

347. (1) The General Committee may from time to time prepare plans of proposed public streets, showing the direction of such streets, the street alignment and building line on each side of them, their intended width, and such other details as may appear desirable.

[Cal., s. 208; C. B. C., paras. 51, 54, 55, 119 (7).]

(2) The width of such proposed streets shall not be less than forty feet, or, in a bustee, twenty-four feet, inclusive of space for footpaths:

Provided that this sub-section shall not apply in any case in which the street alignment runs along an existing lane and the General Committee consider it impracticable to widen the lane to the extent of forty feet or twenty-four feet, as the case may be.

(Calcutta Municipality.—Part V.—The Public Health, Safety and Convenience.—Chapter XXI.—Streets and Public Spaces.—Sections 348, 349.)

(3) It shall be the duty of the Chairman, acting with the sanction of the General Committee, to lay out public streets in bustees, so far as may be practicable, both for the purpose of securing proper ventilation for huts in such bustees, and in view to the contingency of masonry buildings being erected therein.

(4) When any plan has been prepared under sub-section (1), the street to which it refers shall be deemed to be a projected public street, and the provisions of section 336 shall apply to all buildings and walls which may fall down, be burnt down, or be taken down in order to be re-built or altered, so far as they stood across the street alignment or building line of the projected street.

Private Streets.

Making of new private streets.

[Cal., s. 21; C. B. C., para. 62.]

348. (1) Any person intending to make or lay out a new private street must send to the Chairman a written notice containing the following particulars, namely:—

(a) the intended level and width of the street,

(b) the street alignment and the building line,

(c) the arrangements to be made for levelling, paving, metalling, flagging, channelling, sewering, draining and lighting the street, and

(d) the height at which it is proposed to erect buildings to abut on the street.

(2) The provisions of this Act as to the level and width of public streets and the height of buildings abutting thereon shall apply also in the case of streets referred to in sub-section (1), and all the particulars referred to in that sub section shall be subject to approval by the General Committee.

(3) Within thirty days after the receipt of any notice under sub-section (1), the General Committee shall either sanction the making of the street, or disallow it, or ask for further information with respect to it.

(4) Such sanction may be refused—

(i) if the proposed street would conflict with the arrangements for carrying out any general scheme of street improvement which may be under the consideration of the Corporation,

(ii) if the proposed street does not conform to the provisions of this Act referred to in sub-section (2), or

(iii) if the proposed street is not designed so as to connect at both ends with streets one at least of which is already open.

(5) If further information is asked for, no steps shall be taken to make or lay out the street until orders have been passed upon receipt of such information.

Prohibition of breach of section 348.

[Cal., s. 214.]

349. No person shall lay out, make or build upon any street referred to in section 348, sub-section (1), in contravention of that section or of any orders made thereunder.

(Calcutta Municipality.—Part V.—The Public Health, Safety and Convenience.—Chapter XXI.—Streets and Public Spaces.—Sections 350—352.)

Levelling, etc., of private streets.

350. (1) If any private street or any part thereof be not levelled, paved, metalled, flagged, channelled, sewered, drained and lighted to the satisfaction of the General Committee, they may, by written notice to the respective owners or occupiers of the land fronting, adjoining or abutting upon such street or part, as the case may be, require them to level, pave, metal, flag, channel, sewer, drain and light such street or part. [Cal., s. 215.]

(2) If such notice be not complied with, the General Committee may, if they think fit, direct the Chairman to execute the works mentioned or referred to therein; and the expenses thereby incurred shall be paid by the owners in default, according to the frontage of their respective lands, in such proportion as may be settled by the General Committee or, in case of dispute, as may be settled under section 640.

Power of General Committee to take over private streets.

351. (1) If any private street which conforms to the provisions of this Act referred to in section 348, sub-section (2), be levelled, paved, metalled, flagged, channelled, sewered, drained and lighted to the satisfaction of the General Commitee, they may, if they think fit, and if three-fourths of the owners of houses in such street signify in writing their consent thereto, declare the same, by written notice put up in any part of such street, to be a public street, and thereupon the same shall become a public street and shall vest in the corporation. [Cal., . '26.]

(2) The General Committee may, with the consent of the owner or all the owners thereof, take possession of any private street which conforms to the provisions of this Act referred to in section 348, sub-section (2); and thereupon such street shall become a public street and shall vest in the Corporation.

Powers and duties in reference to the acquisition of land.

Acquisition of open land, or land occupied by platforms, etc., lying across proposed street alignment of public street.

352. If any land, whether open or enclosed, not vested in the Corporation, lies across the proposed street alignment of a public street, and is not occupied by a building, or [Bom., s. 299; C. F. C., para. 59.]

if any platform, verandah or step, or any other structure external to a building abutting on a public street, or any portion of any such platform, verandah, step or other structure, lies across the proposed street alignment of a public street,

the Chairman may, after giving to the owner of the land or building not less than seven clear days' written notice of his intention so to do, take possession on behalf of the Corporation of such land, with its enclosing wall, hedge or fence (if any), or of such structure or portion, as the case may be, and, at his discretion, clear the land; and the land so acquired shall thenceforward be deemed a part of the street:

Provided that, if the land or building is vested in Her Majesty or in any Corporation constituted by Royal Charter or by an Act of Parliament or an Act of the Governor General in Council or the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal in Council, possession shall not be taken as aforesaid without the previous sanction of the Local Government.

Compensation to be paid when action taken under section 336 or section 352.

353. When any action is taken under section 336 or section 352, the Corporation shall make full compensation to the owner of the building, wall, structure or land for any direct damage which he may sustain thereby.

[Cal., s. 207 Bom., s. 301; C. B. C., paras. 58, 59.]

Explanation.—The expression "direct damage," as used with reference to land, means the market-value of the land taken and the depreciation, if any, in the ordinary market-value of the rest of the land resulting from the area being reduced in size; but does not include damage due to any particular use to which the owner may allege that he intended to put the land, although such use may be injuriously affected by the reduction of the site.

Acquisition of land and buildings for improvement of public streets.

354. (1) The Chairman, with the approval of the General Committee, may acquire any land required for the purpose of opening, widening, extending or otherwise improving any public street, or of making any new public street, and the buildings, if any, standing upon such land.

[Cal., s. 204.]

(2) The Chairman, with the approval of the Corporation and the sanction of the Local Government, may acquire [in addition to land and buildings acquired under sub-section (1)] any land outside the proposed street alignment, with the buildings, if any, standing thereupon, which the General Committee may, in the exercise of any of the powers conferred by sub-section (1), consider it expedient to acquire:

[C. B., C, para. 131.]

Provided that, whenever it is decided to acquire any land under this sub-section —

(a) the owner of such land may retain it by paying to the Corporation a frontage rate to be fixed by the General Committee in that behalf, or a lump sum to be fixed by the General Committee as representing the capitalised value of such rate, or

(b) the General Committee may make a contract with the owner of the land, conferring on him a right to retain the same or any portion thereof subject to such recurring payments or the payment of such lump sum (not being a frontage rate or the capitalised value thereof) as they may fix in that behalf.

(3) Any land or building acquired under sub-section (2) may be leased, sold or otherwise disposed of by the General Committee; and any conveyance made for that purpose may comprise such conditions as the Committee think fit as to the removal of the existing building (if any), the description of new building (if any) to be erected, the period within which such new building (if any) shall be completed, and any other similar matters.

(Calcutta Municipality.—Part V.—The Public Health, Safety and Convenience.—Chapter XXI.—Streets and Public Spaces—Sections 355—358.)

Acquisition of open spaces.

355. The Corporation may, by purchase on voluntary sale, or by the gift of the person or persons legally entitled to dispose of the same, or by proceeding under the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, or by the reclamation of tanks, or by taking possession of and laying out disused cemeteries or burial grounds, acquire or accept the ownership of any open spaces, whether enclosed within rails or palings or unenclosed, and hold the same in trust for the perpetual use thereof by the public for exercise and recreation.

Act I of 1894.

Prohibitions and Directions.

356. (1) No verandah, balcony, sunshade weather-frame or the like shall be erected to project over any public street in such a way as to be supported by pillars resting on the pathway or roadway, or shall be erected to project over any street having no footpath or over any street which is less than forty feet wide.

Cal., s. 223; C. B. C., para 64.]

(2) Subject to the provisions of sub-section (1) the General Committee may, at their discretion, give written permission, on such conditions as to payment of fees or rent as they may think fit, to owners or occupiers of buildings abutting on any public street to put up verandahs, balconies, sunshades, weather-frames and the like, to project from any upper storey thereof over such street.

Hoards, fences and scaffoldings.

357. (1) If any person intends to erect or take down, or to alter or repair the outward part of, any building, and if any public street would be obstructed or rendered dangerous or inconvenient in consequence of the work, he shall, before beginning the work, cause sufficient hoards or fences to be put up in order to separate the building from the street, and shall maintain such hoards or fences standing and in good condition, to the satisfaction of the General Committee, during such time as the public safety or convenience requires, and shall cause the same to be sufficiently lighted at night.

[Cal., ss. 245, 246.]

(2) No person shall put up any hoard, fence or scaffolding in a public street without the written permission of the General Committee.

Restrictions on deposit of materials or making of holes in public street.

358. (1) No person shall in any public street deposit any building or other materials for any time longer than is necessary for immediate transit, or make a hole, without the written permission of the General Committee.

[Cal., ss. 229, 230.]

(2) When such permission has been granted to any person, he shall, at his own expense, cause such materials or hole to be sufficiently fenced and enclosed until the materials are removed or the hole is filled up and otherwise made secure, and shall cause the same to be sufficiently lighted at night.

(3) If such person fails to obey any of the directions contained in sub-section (2), and any damage or injury arises, he shall be liable to the Corporation for any expense which they may incur by reason of such failure.

(4) If any person deposits materials or makes a hole in contravention of sub-section (1), or without obtaining permission under that sub-section, or encloses more of the public street than the General Committee have under that sub-section permitted him to enclose, or fails to fence, enclose or light any materials or hole as required by sub-section (2), or to remove any materials or fill up any hole when any permission given under sub-section (1) has lapsed or been withdrawn, the General Committee may, by written notice, require him to remove such materials or fill up such hole.

Prohibition of obstructions in public street.

359. (1) No person shall build any wall, or, without the consent of the Chairman, erect or set up any fence, rail, post, platform or other obstruction, projection or encroachment (not being fixture referred to in section 339), or deposit any materials or goods, in a public street, or in or over any drain, sewer or aqueduct in a public street. [Cal., s. 212; C. B. C., para. 61.]

(2) Nothing contained in sub-section (1) shall be deemed to prevent the Chairman from permitting temporary erections in a public street on the occasion of any festival or ceremony, or for building purposes.

Bye-laws.

Bye-laws.

360. (1) The General Committee may make bye-laws—

(a) for the regulation of open spaces acquired under section 355, and

(b) regulating, in any particular not specifically provided for in this Act, all matters relating to the width and construction of streets and the fittings of streets.

(2) Any bye-laws made under clause (a) of sub-section (1) may provide for the removal by any police constable of any person infringing such bye-laws.

CHAPTER XXII.—BUILDING REGULATIONS.

A.—Building Sites.

Requirements as to building sites.

361. No piece of land shall, after the commencement of this Act, be used as a site for the erection of a building—

(1) unless the side boundaries of the site run at right angles to the street alignment, or are altered so as to make them run as nearly at right angles to the street alignment as the Chairman may consider practicable; and

(2) if the building to be erected is a public building, a dwelling-house or a hut,—

(a) unless the site either (i) is dry and well drained, or (ii) is capable of being well drained, and is so drained before building operations are commenced, and

(b) the site is a filled-up tank, or has been filled up with or used for depositing rubbish, offensive matter or sewage, unless the Engineer has examined the site and granted a certificate to the effect that it is, from a sanitary point of view, fit to be built upon, and [Cal., s. 247 (c) Bom., s. 348 (c); Bye-law (f) 1 C. B. C., para. 78.]

(Calcutta Municipality.—Part V.—The Public Health, Safety and Convenience.—Chapter XXII.—Building Regulations.—Sections 362—364.)

(c) if the site is in a locality in which continuous building is allowed, unless it abuts on a street and is at least thirty feet in depth and one cottah in area, and

(d) if the site is in a locality in which only detached buildings are allowed, unless it is at least two cottahs in area; and

(3) if the building to be erected is a hut, when the site is within thirty feet of a tank and the Engineer considers that there would be any risk of the domestic drainage of the hut passing into the tank. [Cal., s. 217 (4).]

Payment of cost of boring site.

362. If the Engineer considers it necessary to make borings for the purpose of examining a site in pursuance of clause (b) of section 361, the cost shall be paid by the person applying for permission to use the site.

Sale of site unsuitable for building.

363. (1) If any building site is so shaped or situated or is of such size that the owner is debarred, by the operation of this Act or the bye-laws made hereunder, from erecting a building on the site, the Chairman may, with the consent of the owner, sell the site by public auction. [C. B. C., para. 74]

(2) The Chairman shall, with the like consent, fix a price below which the site shall not be sold, and owners of adjacent lands shall have a right, in preference to all other persons, to buy the site at any sum bid at the auction over and above such price.

(3) The proceeds of the sale shall, after deducting the expenses of effecting it, be paid to the aforesaid owner.

Formation of plots into suitable building sites, and sale of such sites.
